BOUNTY BILL CARRIES.

Another important bill which went Another important bill which went through the senate was the new bounty measure, a full analysis of which has already been printed. It took a half hour's explaining to satisfy the differ-ent members that it was what would do the work. One clause compelled county clarks to preserve the scelus up. ab the work. One clause compened county clerks to preserve the scalps un-til outstanding accounts are settled, and this brought a protest from Hoi-lingsworth, who had had experience in handling hides, and knew how objechandling hides, and knew now onge-tionable and unsanitary it would be to keep a pile of scalps in a county clerk's office. An amendment to change this so as to allow the clerk to burn the scalps as to allow the clerk to burn the scalps in the presence of one county commis-sioner carried. The bill would pay bountles only on coyotes, lynx and wild cats, at the rate of $1 per pelt, and al-lows for no deficit.

SPEAKER HULL'S REFUSAL.

An incident near the close of the ses-An incident near the close of the ses-sion portends stormy weather for Speaker Hull. He has refused to sign a bill which has been sent him for sig-nature by the engrossing and enrolling committee, through regular channels. It is the troublesome Hollingsworth bill on county boundaries, which came through regularly, and was sent to the senate engrossing committee and then senate engrossing committee, and then was followed by a notice that it had been killed by a reconsidered vote, in the house. The senate held that the house had no jurisdiction over the bill when he decreed its death, and so notified the house. Now Speaker Hull has in the minds of senators, exceeded all authority and gone astray in parlia-mentary matters, by refusing to sign a bill which has passed. Upon motion of Hollingsworth an explanation was demanded of the Speaker.

Holdover Measure Owes Its Success to Republican Party Caucus.

SOLONS EXPLAIN THEIR VOTES.

Bill Creating State Capitol Fund Defeated --- Three Senate Bills Rejected.

As was expected, the Fishburn or holdover bill was passed by the house vesterday afternoon. Its passage, however, wa not without opposition, and it is safe to say that had the bill not been agreed upon in caucus, it would have gene down to defeat because of the pronounced sentiment against it. As it was the measure received 36 affirmative votes, while three, Cromar, Miller and Tonton, voted against it. As the roll call proceeded "explanations" were much in evidence, among those taking advantage of the oppor-tunity being Kuchler, McCrea, Miller, Thompson, Tolton and Hull. Roberts said he voted for the bill, not because it had been agreed upon in caucus, but because it was a meritorious measure. Speaker Hull was opposed to the elimi-nation of the long term clause, but said he supported the bill because he had agreed to in party caucus. Before the vote on the final passage of the bill, Miller moved that it be made the special order for Tuesday at made the special order for Tuesday at 3 p. m., as he viewed it as an important measure and one which should receive thorough consideration. The motion was opposed by Roberts, Fishburn, Ed-ward and several others, and on being put to a vote was declared lost. Then there was a scramble for the lobby and committee rooms, but the assistant ser-geant-at-arms was ordered to bring back all who had thus tried to escape. He did so and the vote was taken with the result given above. At the critical moment Dailey was excused to attend to "important business." NO CAPITOL FUND.

The measure sought to set apart $25,000 annually for this purpose. Aus-tin moved to reduce it to $10,000. Pan-cake proposed as an amendment that the word "thousand" be stricken out, thus cutting the appropriation down to thus cutting the appropriation down to $10. Panter moved to lay the whole question on the table, but this motion question on the table, but this motion was defeated and the Austin amend-ment was adopted. Marks tried to ex-plain that the loan commissioners would be at liberty to loan the money to the state so that the appropriation need make no hole in the state's fin-ances, but this did not look good to the law makers, and on rol call vote the measure was defeated.
