THE SANITARY QUESTION. ONE OF ITS MAIN BRANCHES

VENTILATED.

I am one of the many in this city who regard sanitary affairs as a mat-ter of serious consideration, affecting that most precious of human posses sions, health. In studying how to best regulate the local surroundings of my own house and lot, with a view to keep the air free from nasty are hereby informed that in consequence of a change in the sailing of the steamship from New York, an ash-pit connected with the close effectually destroys the noxion on the 16th, should not be later than brick and it cost but a few dollars; the safety it affords, in providing s secure place to throw hot asdes, is alone worth much more than its cost. The sahes rapidly absorb all offensive matter that comes in contact with them, and when the ash-pit and closet have to be emptied it can be done without creating any uncomfortable feeling in the person who has to remove the material. The mixture thus obtained may be kept thinly covered by a earth in a shallow trench, in any p rt of the lot, and can be used > could name. I am of the opinion that if the City Council would make an ordinance, and enforce it, requiring everybody to attach ashpits to their closets, there need be no further special worry over that pre eminent feature of sanitary affairs.

We agree with our esteemed corespondent in the main-that is so far as the efficacy of the combined sehpit and closet is concerned, but we judge that a structure of that character would cost say from thirty to forty dollars, an amount that many owners of little homes would find it next to impossible to raise, and on such a compulsory ordinance of the kind referred to would be a hardship. We are certain, however, that an ordinance enforcing the abolition of vault closets, and the substitution of boxes and the free use of dry earth would be a great benefit. It would involve no expense. In the absence of sewerage, the water closet and its essential concomitants, the deathdealing cesspool, which poisons the Ward Chapel has just been finishundeground water currents and consequently that of contiguous wells, should be prohibited.

Dramatic Sonvenir .- We acknowledge the receipt, from the manage ment of the Madison Square Theatre, New York, of a handsome souvenir in commemoration of the onehundredth performance (on Tuesday, September 11th,) of Mr. William Young's 4 act comedy "The Rajah." The souvenir consists of a collection of plates, eight in number, illustrative of scenes in the play; they are reproductions by the Heliotype Printing Co., Boston, of electric light photographs taken in the Theatre by the artist Falk, of 919 Broadway, New York. Accompanying Ward. the plates is a programme with cast of characters, together with a note in brief mention of other ladies and gentlemen who have previously taken part in the comedy during its extraordinary run at the Madison Square Theatre. The pictures are neatly enclosed in an illuminated cover, and form a very handsome memento.
