LOCAL BRIEFS.

Gravel walks will be used around the new University building instead of plank walks.
 The funeral of Mrs. Della Pratt Wilson was held this afternoon from the residence of her son, William L. Wilson, 1045 Princeton Avenue.
 Mrs. James Pollock, wife of the stock broker, has been taken ill with typhoid fever. Mr. Pollock is in the East, but he has been wired to return at once.
 Miss Helen Bell has received the appointment of postmaster at Castle Gate, Carbon county. She succeeds Andrew Young, whose term of office has expired.
 While digging an excavation near the corner of Sixth and Fifth streets yesterday afternoon a skeleton was unearthed. The discovery was made on a sort of a knoll, and it is supposed that it was an Indian burying ground.

Word has been given to the State board of health that there are two cases of smallpox at Murray and seven at Big Cottonwood. The victims at the former place are G. W. Turner and John Richardson, and at the latter are two children in the family of Julius Stephenson, five children in the Watts family.
 While crossing the Rio Grande Western tracks on Fifth Street yesterday afternoon Robert Buttle came nearly losing his life. His wagon was on the track when a line of freight cars came upon him and smashed his wagon into smithereens. He was thrown onto his horse's heels and was kicked severely by them. The doctor says, however, that his injuries are not serious.

One of the most interesting sessions in the history of the club took place at the meeting of the Ladies' Literary club yesterday, the program opening with the reading of three original poems by Mrs. Kelsey, entitled, "The Sunset," "A Voice in the Night," and "A Fragment," an original story by Mrs. C. C. Richards, "The Rise of the Hopeful," and an original poem by Mrs. Thomas Weir, "Uncle Leaver." A vocal duet by Mrs. Jolly and Miss Stewart followed, after which Mrs. Isherhart read a number of beautiful poems. Following this, a poem was read by the affirmative, and Mrs. Martha Jennings and Mrs. Eugene Lewis for the negative. The judges, Mrs. C. D. Moore, Rev. Alfred Henry and C. L. Reed decided in favor of the negative. Both sides were cleverly represented, and the ladies taking part received many encomiums. The meeting was largely attended and was much enjoyed by all present.

BISHOP RAWLINS' FATAL ILLNESS.

Surrendered the Battle of Life at 7:45 This Morning—Father of Senator Rawlins and Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners—His Active Career.

Bishop Joseph Sharp Rawlins, father of United States Senator Rawlins, and chairman of the board of commissioners of Salt Lake county, has succumbed to the attack of heart and lung trouble with which he was stricken about two weeks ago. His demise, while it will bring sorrow to his great host of friends and admirers, was not altogether unexpected as they have been kept pretty well advised through the press the last few days of his illness.

For the greater part of the forty-eight hours preceding his death the to South Cottonwood, whither the deceased had been called to act as Bishop. His rugged nature and indomitable pluck made him a leader among his fellows in the early day hardships of Utah. It can be said of him in very deed that he helped to build the bridges and roads and lay the foundations of this commonwealth. And when President Young found it necessary to call for volunteers to go East and assist the migrating Saints on their westward journey, Joseph S. Rawlins readily responded. He crossed the plains several times and on August 29, 1864, as captain of a company brought his first charge of emigrants to Salt Lake. Again

Bishop had been unconscious, rallying only occasionally, under the administration of stimulants. His wife, Senator Rawlins, his oldest son, and other children were constantly at his bedside to smooth the pillow of death and to keep vigil over him during the closing hours of his life upon earth. The end came at 7:45 o'clock this morning. The deep sleep into which he had fallen with the approach of unconsciousness kept his mantle around him to the last and when the end came it came peacefully and without the least evidence of physical struggle.

It is an interesting fact to know that it was just fifty-two years ago yesterday since the arrival in Salt Lake City of the Bishop and his wife. The funeral services will be held in the South Cottonwood meeting house on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In the death of Bishop Rawlins, the community loses a true and worthy citizen in every sense of the word, a man who has spent the greater part of his life in his upbuilding, whose conservatism and calm judgment are as widely known as his own good name. His career has been of the busiest kind. In his business dealing with his fellow-men he was scrupulously honest, and as a man of affairs he was eminently successful.

In matters of irrigation and the complications arising therefrom he was a conspicuous figure and a sound adviser, and often served the people of this county in that capacity. A prevailing trait in this particular was his strong disinclination to settle disputes in the courts. He was essentially an arbitrator and no matter how grave the issue believed that the proper solution could be found in arbitration. The death of Bishop Rawlins brings to mind the fact that twice during the present administration of the county commissioners has the board been deprived of its chairman, Francis Armstrong, his predecessor, having also died in office.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Joseph Sharp Rawlins was the son of James and Jane Sharp Rawlins, and was born on the 24th day of April, 1823, near Whitehall Green county, Illinois. His boyhood days were very similar to those of the family moved to Illinois, having become self-made men. From his earliest youth he was accustomed to the ways of industry, a custom that remained with him to the last. He was baptized by Elder Frederick Van Laven, June 4, 1841, the year he attained his majority. This was also the year of his marriage to Miss Mary Frost, mother of Senator Rawlins, who, with five children, survives him. The union took place in Hancock county, Illinois. Together they came to Utah in 1848, the year after the advent of the Pioneers. They immediately settled at Mill Creek, but remained there for two years only. In 1850 the family moved to Draper, and for the next twenty-two years made that place their home, when they moved

OBJECTS TO ORDINANCE.

Rapid Transit Company Opposes Petition for Half-hourly Car Service.

Claims that it is Losing Money With Hourly Service on 9th and 11th East South of 10th South.

The petition of a number of residents of the southeastern part of the city, asking that the street car companies be compelled to provide a half-hourly service on all their lines between Thirtieth East and U streets on the east and the Jordan river on the west and between the city limits on the north and the city limits on the south, from 6 a. m. till midnight every day, came up again last evening before the Council committee on laws and streets. The ordinance was approved a week ago by the committee, but was held back from the Council in order that representatives of the Rapid Transit company might be heard in opposition. The Rapid Transit company was represented last evening by Superintendent Cameron, Attorney Rickerts and Baldwin and Col. Donnellan, the latter appearing in the capacity of a stockholder of the company.

Those appearing in behalf of the cit-

On Oct. 1, 1866, he piloted an ox-train of 400 Saints and sixty-five wagons into this valley. In 1868 he was one of ten captains who left Salt Lake City with 500 teams to go to Julesburg, the terminus of the Union Pacific railroad, then under construction to connect with the Central Pacific at Promontory, to meet a large company of "Mormons" and to assist in transporting them to this city. These captains were: Edward T. Mumford, Joseph S. Rawlins, John G. Holman, William S. Seeley, John R. Murdoch, Daniel D. McArthur, John Gillespie, Horton D. Haight, Chester Loveland and Simpson M. Molen.

Antedating this period there were interesting points in his busy life. In 1855 he assisted in the exploration of the Elk mountains and in 1861 took an active part in the preparations made at the time of the coming of Johnston's army. He also served with the title of lieutenant among the volunteers under Captain Let Smith, called for to protect the mail route. In 1868 he took a contract on the Union Pacific, and for three years followed contract work almost exclusively.

Later he organized the East Jordan Irrigation company and became its president, and afterwards became the chairman of the board of canal presidents, which board comprised the presidents of the North Jordan, South Jordan, East Jordan and the Utah and Salt Lake Canal companies. He has also served for several years as a member of the Utah Lake and Jordan Dam commissions.

Four years ago he was elected county commissioner on the Democratic ticket, and two years ago succeeded himself to the same office.

AT THE JOINT BUILDING.

Chief Janitor Sideshow Places the Flag at Half Mast and Decorates.

Just as soon as the news of the death of Commissioner Rawlins reached his co-laborers—Messrs. Whitaker and Woolley—word was sent to the joint building to have the flag placed at half mast. Chief Janitor John Sideshow, who was visibly affected upon receipt of the sad tidings, personally attended to the half-masting of the flag, and also superintended a few appropriate decorations. Rows of black and white were hung on the doors leading to the East and south entrances. In the commissioners' private apartments, the desk and chair of the dead official were draped in mourning, while the entrance to the offices was also appropriately decorated.

At the Infirmary.

Mrs. Whipple, matron of the county infirmary, today draped the poor house in black crepe, out of respect to the memory of Chairman J. S. Rawlins, of the board of commissioners, who died this morning.

Items were Attorneys Dinniny and David Evans and Prof. Cummings and Gillilan, all of whom urged the passage of the ordinance.

The portion of the lines to which the Rapid Transit company objected to the application of the ordinance on Ninth and Eleventh East streets, south of Tenth South street, where it was claimed money was being lost with the hourly service and to be compelled to give a half-hourly service simply meant that the company will be compelled to lose double the money it was now losing.

Three hours were devoted to arguments for and against the passage of the ordinance, at the conclusion of which Chairman Thomas announced that the committee would meet early next week and formulate a report for presentation to the City Council at the next regular meeting.

YOUNG LADIES INSULTED.

Wretch Lays Hold of One of Them—J. R. Hardy to the Rescue.

Two young ladies were dogged and insulted by some wretch last evening while walking home. They are from the East and are visiting friends in the eastern part of town.

At South Temple and A streets they discovered that a man was following them, and as they proceeded he drew nearer and began to sing ribald songs. They augmented their speed, but he kept close in the rear, his insults be-

THEORIES ABOUT CATARRH.

Peculiar Ideas Regarding a Common Disease.

Mark Twain's cure for a cold in the head was simple, but he claims very effective in his own case; his plan was to eat nothing whatever for twenty-four hours or presumably until the trouble had disappeared.

Although not able to speak from personal experience as to the effectiveness of this treatment, it certainly has the merit of extreme economy, but it occurs to us that the application of it to a case of nasal catarrh might be attended with difficulties.

Catarrh, as everyone knows, is a chronic cold in the head and Mr. Twain's treatment, if it should become a fact, would make use of a nation of fasteners; an army, emulating the example of the immortal Tanner who achieved world-wide fame by fasting forty days.

It is certainly becoming a national disease and there is little doubt but that errors in diet, particularly over eating is a very common cause.

Most people, however, are more interested in the cure of the trouble than in the cause, and modern medical science has produced more effective and less heroic remedies than Mr. Twain's.

Quinine is a new remedy, very effective in some forms of Catarrh. Education and another such on account of its antiseptic properties is very valuable, while many severe cases of Chronic Catarrh have been entirely cured by the anguina or extract of Blood root alone.

Within a year an enterprising chemist has combined all of these remedies in tablet form, palatable and convenient, and the superiority of this tablet over other Catarrh remedies is an apparent fact, and in quantity, being free from Cocaine, opiate or any poisonous drug.

They are called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and it is doubtful if any medicine has achieved such a measure of popularity in so short a time as this.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are used by thousands of traveling men because they can be carried in the pocket and used any time, in any quantity, being free from Cocaine, opiate or any poisonous drug.

They clear the head and throat from the disgusting secretions of catarrh, very often in a few hours' time. For nasal Catarrh they are far superior to any wash, lotion or ointment, the use of which is often as inconvenient and annoying as the disease itself.

For coughs, colds, bronchial catarrh and catarrh of the stomach these tablets give immediate relief and a permanent cure where lozenges, douches and inhalers make no impression whatever.

This preparation is a boon to catarrh sufferers, and any druggist will tell you that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a remedy that has come to stay.

coming more pronounced all the time. The young ladies stepped into the middle of the street, ostensibly to wait for a car, and their pursuer walked on. When they thought he had got out of the vicinity they returned to their car, but on reaching the corner of E street the man jumped from behind a tree and seized one of them about the waist.

Both young ladies tried the air with them, and John R. Hardy, who was eating supper, was on the scene instantly. But the villain fled and there was nothing for the gallant Hardy to do but escort the young ladies home.

SUPPORT FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Thomas Marshall Addresses Presbyterian Synod.

The Presbyterian Synod met at the First Presbyterian church this morning. Devotional exercises were engaged in, and after Dr. Paden, as chairman of the committee on church erection, had made his report, a stirring address was made by Rev. Dr. Thomas Marshall, field secretary of Presbyterian missions, who announced that the church required $1,000,000 next year for the support of foreign missions. He made a most eloquent plea for the missions, and affirmed that not one half of the congregations in the East and abroad, and less than that number contributed to its support.

The Synod was in session this afternoon, and there will be another meeting this evening, at which matter pertaining to the Synod will be discussed.
