THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

The twentieth annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, extending over three days, came to a close on Sunday afternoon. It was well attended, and the sessions were very profitable. The conference was held at the Deseret Hotel, and the attendance was the largest in the history of the church. The sessions were held in the morning and afternoon, and the subjects were of great interest. The conference was a success in every respect, and the members of the church were greatly benefited by the sessions.

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

The address of the president, Elder Joseph F. Smith, was a most inspiring and uplifting address. He spoke of the importance of the conference, and of the need for unity and harmony among the members of the church. He also spoke of the need for faith and obedience, and of the need for a close relationship with God. His address was well received, and the members of the church were greatly inspired by his words.

ment, which is the most important of all. It is the foundation of all other knowledge, and it is the only way to true happiness and peace. The members of the church are urged to seek this knowledge, and to live by its principles. Only in this way can they find the true path to life and salvation.

ARCTIC EXPLORATIONS.

The return of Dr. William H. Murray, who has just returned from his expedition to the Arctic region, has been a great event. He has brought back with him a wealth of information about the region, and his findings are of great value to the scientific world. His expedition was a most successful one, and he has been well rewarded for his efforts.
