

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

High Council.—The members of the High Council are requested to meet at the Council House on Wednesday, June 10th, at 10 a.m.

Notice.—Work in the Temple at St. George will close on the 25th of June, and again open on the 1st of September, 1880.

Relief Society Conference.—Sister F. B. Snow and F. B. Wells will go to Brigham City this afternoon, to attend the Ladies' Conference, which will be held there tomorrow.

Election of School Trustees.—This evening the trustees were elected, according to the provisions of the school law, in every school district of the Territory.

Sunday School Notice.—Owing to the general election of school trustees taking place on Monday evening in every ward and settlement in the territory, our regular Sunday School Union meeting will be postponed until Tuesday evening.

Music will be rendered by the Eight Ward choir. A full attendance of superintendents, teachers and others interested, respectfully invited.

Marble and Mining Company.—On Saturday was incorporated the Utah Marble and Mining Company. The officers of which are Wm. Snow, president and treasurer, and J. B. Nichols, secretary.

Wedding.—The news now reaches us of the marriage of another young couple of favorable acquaintance in our community. Last Thursday, Mr. Nephi W. Clayton became the happy husband of Miss Janie Thomas.

"Look on this Picture." Etc.—We have seen some miserable prints purporting to be portraits of leading men, which are simply horrible caricatures. Among them is an alleged likeness of President John Taylor.

Woman's Exponent.—The Exponent has been unavoidably delayed several days, but the June 1st number comes to hand none the less welcome and interesting. It contains original prose articles as follows: "Clarity for the Fallen," by Olive Branch; "Influence of Home," by Annie Ward; "Alice and Phoebe Carey," by Hannah T. King; "Gratitude," by M. A. Tibb; "A Mother's Reflections," by C. A. Jolly; "Fisher's Papers," by Mrs. Mary; "Birthdays of Brigham Young," editorial; "Early Reminiscences," by Helen M. Whitney; "When We Went Upspring," by Mrs. E. A.; "Woman Amongst the Neophytes," by G. M.; besides correspondence, home affairs, reports, etc.

An Imminent Danger.—We are informed by a gentleman of this city, that in Pleasant Valley, about four miles up City Creek Canyon, there is a dug-out in the side of a hill containing about a ton of exploded gun powder, some of the sticks of which are lying around on the floor. Our informant states that there was once a door to the cave, but it has been torn away, and that the other day a number of children were seen playing with the powder inside the dug-out. The explosive material is supposed to have been owned by the men who were so fearfully burned over a year ago, while engaged in the manufacture of powder at Snell's old place, just above Pleasant Valley. If not to them it must belong to miners who are prospecting in that region. At any rate it is not now in a safe condition, and if allowed to remain where it is, the wisdom of which is questionable, it should be secured that it cannot be tampered with by careless hands. Salt Lake has already had one magazine explosion, she does not wish another in this generation, even at a distance of four miles, especially as the present cause of complaint is in close proximity to the public road, and in a vicinity frequented by plebeians and pleasure parties at this very season of the year.

Tabernacle Services.—The Tabernacle yesterday afternoon was well attended. The speakers were Elders Wilford Woodruff and Orson Pratt. The former promised his remarks by reading selections from the prophecies of Isaiah and Ezekiel, in which the judgments of the Lord were depicted and the duties of his servants, in relation to the restoration of such matters. He then addressed the congregation. "What position do we stand in to-day, who bear the holy priesthood? The same as did the prophets of old, when they received the word of the Lord commanding them to rebuke the people of their sins and iniquities, and to testify their faith in the judgments that would follow them, if they did not repent. The priesthood to-day were watchmen upon the towers of Zion, even as the prophets of old were. Things were required at their hands as of the servants of the Lord in ancient days. The Lord said to his prophets, that if they did not lift up their voices and cry out against the wickedness of this people, that his wrath would be made manifest in the destruction of the transgressors, but he would continue their blood at the hands of those who should have exhorted them to repentance. But if the prophets did warn the people to repent of their sins, and they did not listen, then when the judgments came upon them the servants of the Lord would be blameless and the blood of the people would be upon their own heads because they had not heeded the voice of warning. We stood in this same position to-day. We had received a revelation from the Lord, of which was to preach the gospel to all the world and warn the nations that the time was nigh when all things would have an end, and those which were false in righteousness, that the Savior was coming to reign on the earth and had established anew his Church to prepare a people to receive him. In view of these things, who is it that has time to fold his hands and say that all is well? This was a revelation from the Lord, and a mighty work was to be performed. It was the winding up scene. The gospel was to be preached to every nation, Israel was to be gathered, the temple was to be built, and the dead redeemed as well as the living. There never was a time when so much scripture was to be fulfilled as at the time in which we were now living. The Church which was established for the last time, and was designed to spread over the earth, even as the prophets had predicted, until the kingdoms of our God and his Christ. The world did not believe this, but it would happen, as God lived, whether the world believed it or no. We were not to receive what they think or say. The reason they could not understand these things was because they knew not God nor the things of God. We were to be as we were, and we were to follow after their example of unbelief. The speaker had no fear for the work of God, that it would continue to increase in power and influence until it had reached the hearts of all those who professed to be Saints of the Most High. Of all people we were the most blessed, but we were also, of all people, the most responsible. We had received the light and knew our duty, and if we did not profit by our knowledge, the greater would be our condemnation. We would be judged for the purpose of honoring our Father in heaven and doing his will, and when we were judged for any other purpose, we were not responsible. We had received the light and knew our duty, and if we did not profit by our knowledge, the greater would be our condemnation. We would be judged for the purpose of honoring our Father in heaven and doing his will, and when we were judged for any other purpose, we were not responsible.
