WILL OPERATE ROADS BY FIRST OF YEAR

President A. S. Ross of Pittsburgh-Idaho Mining Company Says Big Country Will be Opened.

The new railroad that is being built from Armitstead, Montana, in Salmon City, Idaho, will be ready for operation by Jan. 1, 1910, according to President A. S. Ross of the Pittsburgh-Idaho Mining company, which is building the road. Mr. Ross was in Salt Lake to-day buying machinery and supplies for the company's mine at Gilmore, Idaho. The road is something like 13 miles long and will open up one of the largest agricultural districts in the Gem State. Mr. Ross declares that already there is a new era of activity in the district.

The building of the road, which is known as the Gilmore & Pittsburgh, is in charge of W. A. McCutcheon, president and general manager. Mr. McCutcheon is also secretary and treasurer of the Pittsburgh-Idaho Mining company. Everything is being put into the road to make it one of the best equipped roads in the country.

The road runs from Armitstead to Junction in Salmon valley. There it branches out, one section running to Salmon City and the other running to the Pittsburg mine, 18 miles away. The building of the road started last March and since then it has been diligently pushed through to Salt Lake on the Pullman train. She then returned to the Pullman coach and finished her journey to Salt Lake. The plaintiff states that she was threatened with a stroke of apoplexy from the nervous strain to which she was subjected, and suffered mentally and physically to her damage in the sum of $5,000, which she demands together with her costs.

NO NICE PLACE FOR FLIES.

Hamburger Steak Should Not Contain Them, Court Says.

That ground flies mixed with hamburger steak is not conducive to good health, that the mixture is a great dispenser of typhoid germs and that selling the same in direct violation of the pure food law, became known in a patent suit to-day. El Siebert was fined $50 for the offense. It is alleged that the man sold the combination at a place he conducts at Fifth South and Second East street.

It was alleged that several days ago, Siebert sold a steaks containing ground flies. The steak was eaten too much for the police and Siebert soon found himself under arrest. His defense was not good enough to clear him of the charge, in the mind of Judge Bowman, and Siebert has discovered that it is rather expensive to sell steaks of the kind described.

CHILDREN FLOCK TO FAIR GROUNDS

From an Early Hour Juvenile Salt Lake Wended Its Way Westward.

FLOOD OF DIMES AT THE GATE

juvenile salt lake held sway at the state fair today. Practically every boy and girl was up bright and early, and before 9 a. m. the youngsters were headed for the fair grounds in squads and battalions. There was the prim girl with her cute hair ribbons and the ready boy with his flipper; in fact, all sorts and conditions of volatile juvenile humanity were in evidence, nearly a score of thousands, to be correct.

The youngsters climbed over everything and no spot on the grounds, from the sacred precincts of the secretary's office to the hottopped joys in the grand stand, was terra incognita to them ere the day was far spent. There were fathers, mothers, big brothers and sisters in evidence but for the greater part the children were "on their own," as the Englishman would say.

In a mysterious manner choice fruit would disappear in the horticultural building while the "sample man" had the care of his career. Guardians of exhibits were set high frantic, but through it all everybody was good natured.

The flood of dimes at the gate kept up until afternoon, by which time the last youngster possibly arrived. There were none of the chronic tardy schoolchildren in this squad, however.

Briefly, it was the greatest children's day ever.

LAFAYETTE ORCHESTRA.

One of the principal features of Children's day at the fair was the playing of the Lafayette school orchestra, composed of boys and girls from 12 to 18 years of age, under the direction of Principal J. H. Seely.

The orchestra included Miss Lois Bradford, leader; Owen Sweeten, manager; Ernest Jones, secretary; Frank Johnson, violin; Fred Johnson, violin; Claude Sweeten and Alder Schettler, first violins; Joseph Clive, cello; Bessie McKenzie, Edith Beattie, Elsie Hogeness, Giselle Sadie and Virginia Coombs, second violin; Carl Anderson, cornet; Ade Margott, clarinet; Axel Anderson, piano; and Ethel Winterrowd, piano.

Miss Sweeten conducted the orchestra of young musicians like an experienced conductor, and they kept fine time.

Edith Beattie, violinist only 10 years old, but she plays remarkably well.

Among the other younger members of the orchestra are Guy Clive, cello, 12 years of age; Guy Sadie, 10 years old; and William Coombs, 12 years old.

The Lafayette school orchestra played in the stand in the manufactures building, the musical program including, "Longing for you, sweetheart"; "Hang out the front door key"; "There never was a gal like you"; "Are you single, when I had a girl"; "Laughing Lucas"; "The frost king"; and "Dixie blossoms."
