

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

A strike of rich ore has been made on the 800 foot level of the Bullion-Beck.

On Saturday, May 5th, the Utah Y. M. M. I. A. Stake conference convenes. In connection with the conference will be a grand competitive concert.

BULLIONVILLE, Nev., April 13.—Bishop Milton L. Lee, of Paracacca, Nevada, died today at 10:40, of inflammation of the bowels. His family are left in very comfortable circumstances.

Wells, Fargo & Co. have filed an action in the Third district court against the Ogden Gas Light & Fuel company, whereby they seek to collect $14,750 on a promissory note.

Four members of Coxey's army, in view of the cold treatment accorded them at Ogden, travelled further north, and were run in at Logan on Monday evening. They were released on Tuesday morning and resumed their journey toward the eastern coast.

Joseph W. Thatcher has returned from the East, where he recently graduated as D. D. S. He refused a flattering offer made him from Virginia, preferring to return home. He is undecided as to whether he will commence his practice in Logan or go to Salt Lake.

Mining locations continue to be made in the west mountains and north of the Manti. Some fine specimens are being taken from these claims. They carry gold in good quantities and assays prove that there is some foundation for the gold boom that will soon strike this city.

Elders George Goddard and George Reynolds, of the Deseret Sunday School Union authorities, left Friday evening by way of San Francisco, in order to attend the annual Sunday school conferences of the St. Joseph, Maricopa and Mexican states. They will probably be absent a month.

Logan has been infested with more tramps during the past week than have been ever seen here in the same length of time, unless it is when a circus comes to town. The police are attending to business, though, and the unwelcome visitors are compelled to either seek safety in immediate flight or go to the city bastille.

The central Utah sheep owners have decided to pay but three cents for shearing this season. Undoubtedly they know their own business, but judging from the expression of the sixty odd experienced shearers in Ephraim, one would believe that they must go begging to get good work done for that.

The Bishops of the wards of the city should arrange to administer the sacrament in their respective wards hereafter on Sabbath evenings, inasmuch as the Presidency, at the late General Conference, advised that we discontinue its administration in the Tabernacle.

ANGUS M. CANNON,
President of Stake.

Amos Packer and John Wight, says

the Brigham Bugler, two young men of this city, who recently went out to Oregon to seek their fortunes, are doing even better than they expected. The boys are now engaged in placer mining in that state. They have already earned a snug sum, which has been invested in other paying properties in the same vicinity.

The home industry movement will affect Cache valley during the coming summer. The Franklin woolen mills will be run to their capacity; it is nearly certain that the Logan broom factory will be reopened; new dairies will be added to the number already in successful operation, and the establishment of other industries is being seriously considered.

Suits for the recovery of the following amounts due on notes have been instituted: Provo Commercial and Savings Bank vs. Provo Milling & Manufacturing Co., $1,000; First National Bank of Sterling vs. Richard Johnson et al, $523.20; Nephi Savings Bank vs. Wm. Probert et al, $5,000; Zion's Savings Bank & Trust Co. vs. John Morisson et al, $500.

John Larson, formerly of Spanish Fork, but recently of Smithfield and Clifton, in Cache county, was arrested, together with Sarah Gay, also of Spanish Fork, for adultery. The evidence was conclusive; both parties pleaded guilty, and were bound over to await the action of the grand jury. The woman succeeded in securing bonds, in default of which Larson was consigned to jail.

The Oneida Stake quarterly conference, which was to be held at Franklin, Idaho, on Sunday and Monday, April 22nd and 23rd, will be postponed one week, or until Sunday and Monday, April 29th and 30th, on account of the meeting house undergoing some repairs, which will not be completed in time to hold conference on the dates first named.

Tidings would be thankfully received of James Wood, plasterer, son of William E. and Esther Wood, who left Manchester about forty years ago. He was last heard of from Troy, U. S. A., and is supposed to be in Salt Lake as he joined the Mormon body before leaving England. The inquirer is his sister, Mrs. Hannah Lennard No. 5 Bigland street, Ordsall lane, Salford, Manchester.

At a meeting of Sunday school superintendents of Utah Stake of Zion held Sunday, it was decided to hold three Sunday school conferences, one of each in the northern and southern districts respectively, and a general Stake S. S. conference to be held in Provo on September 8th and 9th. There are now 8,097 officers and teachers and pupils engaged in the Utah Stake Sabbath school work.

W. G. Young, the eldest son of Lorenzo D. Young, died in this city Sunday night of diabetes. He was aged 67 years. In early days he was Bishop of South Cottonwood ward, Salt Lake county. Subsequently he removed to Grantsville, Tooele county, and became Bishop of that ward. Later he changed his residence to this city, and engaged in the mercantile business. He was a highly respected citizen.

On Friday little Percy McKay, of Huntsville, while leading a horse to water, was dragged to death. As the horse was drinking the boy had tied the rope about his body and the animal becoming frightened at a dog dashed up the street at full speed, kicking the boy at nearly every jump. Finally the rope broke and left the lad in the street. All that was possible was done for his relief, but in vain. The child died in a few minutes.

B. F. Grant, of the local Midwinter Fair committee, made the announcement that a "Utah Day" would soon be set apart at the Midwinter Fair now on at San Francisco. The date has not yet been determined upon and therefore cannot now be stated. The committee are patriotically and rightly anxious that all Utonians should defer their visit to the Fair until Utah day has been decided upon. The railroads have promised to make a very low rate for that occasion.

Pat Markey, section foreman, at Price, Utah, says the Telegraph, left home one week ago today to make a visit with friends in town. Sunday evening his wife received a telegram from Salt Lake stating that Mr. Markey was dying. It appears that he was found at the foot of the Rio Grande hotel stairway unconscious and with his pockets turned inside out. The presumption is that he had been sand-bagged and robbed. When last heard from he was still unconscious.

Residents in this city and surrounding neighborhood will do well to see that their outbuildings are securely locked up before nightfall. Within the last week or ten days several cows and horses have been stolen while the owners were peacefully slumbering in their beds, and, in addition, two or three sets of harnesses are reported missing. In one instance a man deplores the loss of his entire team. The thieves have got clear away with their plunder in every case.

The Presbyterians held their conference in Logan Sunday, with representatives from all parts of Utah. Among other business attended to was the passage of a set of resolutions condemning the course pursued while here of Rev. E. W. Greene, a popular Presbyterian minister who served one term as superintendent of district schools for Cache county, and who is now engaged in the work of the ministry in Kansas. The gentleman left this part of the country heavily indebted to many people, but as he has promised to pay his debts no further steps were taken against him.

A queer case came up before Commissioner Camp this week, says the Vernal Express. Perry Young, a sheepman, had moved his camp wagon on Joseph Burton's ranch, and the sheep were watered in Brush creek, above Burton's residence, befouling the water that the family used for household purposes. Burton requested the man in charge of the sheep to move them, and offered a team to move the wagon, but the man refused to do so. Burton then took the matter in his own hands, took three witnesses along and moved the whole lot away.
