RELIABLE INFORMATION ABOUT UTAH.

Tun Chamber of Commerce in this city intends to issue a report out the close of its first year. This is to contain reliable data and information on the various industries of Utab, the condition of its trade, commerce, railroad facilities, and everything attainable that relates to the presperity and growth of the Territory.

Such a report, if it eschews all reference to local disputes, religious and political, will be of great benefit. Reliable information concerning this mountain region is needed all everything to lose by such a it they did the will of the Lord they over the world. Utah is everywhere considered chiefly as the could compass considerable damnoisy scene of a perpetual struggle with "Mormonism," and its people a:e supposed to be in a condition simtlar to that of the famed Kilkenny cats. The bad impression abroad has been produced by the falsehoods of a few wretched scamps, who live by libel and fatten on defamation of "Mormon" character and principles. Capital has been frightened away, manufacturing and other industrial enterprise has been retaided, and every material interest has been hindered by the comtinual and wholesale slander, induiged in by a baker's dozen of tough but tonguey citizens, who should have been tabooed by every decent man his last one; for public feeling is so effects follow the acceptance of the identified with the progress of the

If the Chamber of Commerce will present to the country the facts concerning our status, resources, possibilites and prospects, and either ignore the issues raised by obstructtonists to prejudice the public, or put the falsehoods that have been so industriously circulated, it will says] he is trying to get into Utab, all the business of life a true Saint felt do a good work, sniighten people at a and if this should prove to be correct that he was an the presence of God, distance, and gain support from live we have no doubt that the old son of and guided his conduct accordingly. distance, and gain support from live business men at home.

The contemplated report should be thoroughly reliable and very compre- he can neither gauge nor direct. aensive. There are details important to be published which cannot be collected without the co-operation of al classes of the community. A full description of the mining industry alone would be only a partial representation of Utah's condition and capabilities. So with a mere report of its agriculture. Every branch of trade, labor and enterprise should receive due attention and its statistics be embodied in the general account.

Why cannot the people generally aid

This could be done by a little organization to each county extending into every precluct. It could be made thorough and complete. Manufacturers of any article produced in the Territory could give figures and facts that would be invaluable. Sheep owners, stockbreeders, horse rauchers, wool dealers hide merchants, iron and coal miners, as well as miners of the precious metals, and owners of quarries and other valuable deposits, could all contribute to the general mass of information and thus benefit themselves and the public at the same time. To tacilitate this, why cannot the Chamber of Commerce prepare printed forms to be sent to reliable men in different parts of the Territory to fill up and return? We believe that by such means the desired data could be best obtained. We are in favor of every genuine effort to disseminate the fession in San Francisco. truth. Utah needs a full and fair compilation of local statistics. We supported the legislative movements that were made some time ago for a Bureau of Statistics. We think the proposed movement of the Chamber of Commerce a step in the right direction. We are opposed to the slander and misrepresentation which have disgraced much of the non-"Mormon" literature sent forth from this Territory, but are not against the publication or reception of facts of any kind in relation to our Territory.

We do not believe in wild-cat excitements or speculative "booms." But we do believe in the great future of Utah, and will be pleased to aid any sincere and honest movement to further her material interests of every kind and in any direction. We understand that the proper person to receive data of various kinds for the purpose here outlined, is M. J. Forban, Manager Bureau of Correspondence, Chamber of Commerce, Salt Lake Oity, to whom cies of the season and have an imcommunications on these matters should be addressed.

COLORADO is indulging in a genuine Indian scare. It appears that some "bucks" of Colorow's bands were wanted by the civil authorities for offenses against the law, but the sturdy old chief would not surrender them even going so far as to dety the State and all its officials, candemning the law itself in language much more forcible than elegant, and treating the whole matter with scornful contempt; but the aborigines were taken without his approval, and this so exasperated the old warrior that he called his clan together at once and dug up the hatchet. Reports state that considerable fighting has already occurred, but these lack confirmation; however, there may be some bloodshed if he is foolish enough to lead and the Indians are foolish enough to permit him to lead them into a conflict which

The practical suggestions made by the previous speaker were worthy of consideration. The Saluts should feed the poor, gather the people, and build temples and houses of worship to ples and houses of worship to God, that they might receive ordinances therein. In temples the dead, for it was God's plan to save all who would accept of salvation. No reasonable person could find fault with the Saints for having these charitable desires, or for healing the sick through the power of faith. This power ex-isted among the Saints, and the bleswere for their benefit, and were to continue till all should come to a unity of the faith. religion are considered. "The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation, unto every one that believeth," say the prophet. It is a systematized association of fundamental principles which involve the most practical application of all man's CORRESPONDENCE owers; there exists in man no feature of power or intelligence, which constitutes him a rational creature, but is embodied in the Gospe', and its ordinances and have a direct application on the development of man. Hence the Saints in reducing their religion to practice, have brought into bold exhioition the worth of those principles in the conduct of their lives. The Saints believed that all the religion that would be of service to the human family, was that which could reach into the depths of human nature and develop the fruits of righteousness They believed that if a religion had no regard to the growth of those qualities that constitute the moral and intellectual nature, that religion was not of God. There were many beautiful the-ories formulated by men and held up as systems of religion, but there was one unless the same cannot be there congrand truth associated with the work structed at a fair cost, and the bid of of God-and not with man's workand that is that it will unite all intelligences that accept the principles of eternal truth until they become one undivided body. There never was a time when God recognized as His church a divided people. He never approved of His children when they were divided into factions and presented the scene that existed in the sectarian world. When people accept a truth and give it play on their natures, it makes them stronger in the good. All good had come from mankind being true in their integrity to principle. The speaker exhorted the Saints to become more practical and more honest in their lines. lives, to practice the golden rule more earnestly, and to exemplify in their lives the glorious principles of their religion, that they may become like a city set on a hill, whose light cannot be hid, that Zion might arise and shine and righteousness become triumphant
