and instruments are made of stainless steel and patients, a very important element. The laboratory provided for that purpose is thoroughly modern and complete in equipment. The laboratory is equipped with an X-ray machine, a micro-biographic apparatus, by means of which photographs of microscopic and bacteriologic cultures can be made and examined at leisure. This is an entirely great advantage which serves has helped greatly to the medical profession in the treatment of patients. The Hospital of the Holy Cross promptly afforded it.

Critics of additions to the scientific apparatus will shortly be made, and will include an X-ray apparatus, as soon as the subject of the building is decided.
In the future, plans will likely be in the near future.
