HALF-HEARTED RESOLUTIONS, he President proceeded to speak of he exacting and laborious duties which fall to the incumbent of the presidential office. When the functions of the presidency are admin-istered with all the scrupulous and minute faithfulness he has brought to the position, no man, he said, could endure the strain of such labor, at once physical and mental, for a longer period than four years without the risk of permanent injury to his health. For hese reasons he could not think of a continuance of his term beyond the four years be has now half completed. Nothing, he said to his senatorial visitor, would persuade him to ALTER THIS RESOLUTION, which he had deliberately formed. He id not want a second term, and he did not believe there were any obliga-tions of public duty which could require him to forege his personal wishes. The senator, who has reeated this important conversation to his friends, says that while the President was not talking for the purpose of getting his views about re-election be-fore the public, there was no intima-tion that he desired his words to be re-garded as confidential. The senator has spoken freely of the interview to personal friends, without any was specific and decided in saying he could not be induced by any possible consideration to change his mind; that there was nothing in the way of argument which could be brought to bear to alter the resolution determined alike by every consideration of personal comfort and happiness and by the most conscientious regard for what could fairly be asked of him as a patriotic servant of the people.

The Catholic Trouble.

NEW YORK, April 22 .- The Mail and Express says: Archbishop Corrigan cyclone swept through a part of Verhas launched another best at the friends and supporters of Dr.McGlynn. The Catholic Herald has been a staunch supporter of Dr. McGlynn and has directed some fierce assaults upon the archbishop and Monsignor Preston. Now the archbishop has struck back. He has addressed a letter to the editor of the Herald, which he assumes to be a Catholic paper, in which he tells him a Catholic paper, in which he tells him a Catholic paper, in which he tells him a Catholic paper, in which the injunction which the supporter of Dr. McGlynn and has dithird plenary council placed on all Catholic writers, to refrain from attacking publicly the manner in which any bishop rules his diocese. He con-cludes his letter in the following sig-nificant clause: "For some time past the utterances of the Catholic Herald have been shockingly scandalous. As this paper is published in the diocese, I hereby warn you that if you continue in this course of conduct it will be at your 'peril.' If the warning is not obeyed, the journal in question will be denounced from every Catholic pulpit in the city. As this is the first time for many years that any American Catholic journal has been condemned, this case will cause wide comment.

WASHINGTON. Some Notes of Interest from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 22 .- The collector of customs at Corpus Christi, Texas, has asked the department for instructions as to whether in cases of importations of mixed wool which has to be serted for classification and asto be serted for classification and assessment, it is necessary to separate the respective classes and keep them in separate bags, or whether a thorough examination and determination of the quantity of each class will be deemed sufficient. Assistant Secretary Maynard has informed him in reply that the sorting referred to should not be reserted to except in cases where a correct classification of the wool cannot be otherwise determined, and will only be authorized by the depart-duty on importations of management to provide duty on importations of management duty on importations of management duty on importations of management duty of each class contained therein, instead of at a rate applicable to the highest of said classes which otherwise would have to be imposed. of the right of settlers to about 1,000,000 acres of valuable land now claimed by the Chippewas. This band now numbers less than 300. Secretary Lamar is of the opinion that the claim of this small band is too vague to warrant consting the 2,000 settlers who have located on these lands, or to prevent others from settling thereon. Congress should be called upon to settle it.

Secretary Fairchild has issued a cirval of the control of the con
