obtained for new inventions, or for improvements on old ones, for medical or other compounds, trade-marks and labels. Caveats, Assignments, Interferences, Appeals, Suits for Infringements, and all cases arising under the Patent Laws, promptly attended to. Inventions that have been REJECTED by the Patent Office may still, in most cases, be patented by us. Being opposite the U. S. Patent Department, and engaged in Patent business exclusively, we can make closer searches, and secure Patents more promptly, and with broader claims, than those who are remote from Washington.

INVENTORS need us a model or sketch of your device; we make examinations and advise as to patentability free of charge, and all correspondence strictly confidential. Prices low, and NO CHARGE UNLESS PATENT IS SECURED.

We refer in Washington, to Hon. Postmaster General D. M. Key, Hon. F. B. Power, The German-American National Bank, to officials in the U. S. Patent office, and to Senators and Representatives in Congress; and especially to our clients in every State in the Union and in Canada. Address

SAVE YOUR HAIR | TO LEARN HOW TO DO IT READ AND HEED WHAT FOLLOWS.

SAVE YOUR HAIR.—The laws of Health and Longevity demand it, the customs of social life require it. The matter is of great importance in every way.

BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.—It is the surpassing crown of glory, and for the loss of it there is no compensation.

CULTIVATE YOUR HAIR.—For by no other means can it be saved and beautified.

LYON'S

KATHAIRON,

Discovered thirty-five years ago by Prof. Lyon, of Yale, is the most perfect preparation in the world for preserving and beautifying the hair.

Besides being the best hair dressing ever produced, Lyon's Kathairon will positively prevent grayness, and will restore new hair to bald heads, if the roots and follicles are not destroyed.

It actually performs these seeming miracles, of which the following is

A FAIR SPECIMEN

I had been entirely bald for several years, constitutional, I suppose. I used a few bottles of Kathairon, and, to my great surprise, I have a thick growth of young hair.

COL. JOHN L. DORRANCE, U. S. A.

In every important respect the Kathairon is absolutely incomparable. It is unequaled.

1. To Cure Baldness.
2. To Restore Gray Hair.
3. To Remove Dandruff.
4. To Dress and Beautify the Hair.

BEAR IN MIND.—The Kathairon is no sticky paste of sulphur and sugar-of-lead, to paint and daub the hair and paralyze the brain. It is a pure and limpid vegetable lotion, intended to restore the hair by natural growth and reinvigoration. It is splendidly perfumed, and the most delightful toilet dressing known. No lady's or gentleman's toilet outfit is complete without Lyon's Kathairon.

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 4.—Maxey, from the committee on post offices and post roads, reported an amendment to the post office appropriation bill, establishing a steamship line between New York and Rio via Norfolk, and another between New Orleans and Rio via Galveston, and allowing a subsidy of $150,000.

Morrill, from the committee on finance, reported, with an amendment, the House bill to authorize the issue of certificates of deposit in aid of refunding the public debt. Placed on the calendar.

Edmunds gave notice that at the first opportunity he would call up the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the payment of claims of disloyal persons for property injured or destroyed in the late war.

Windom gave notice that on Friday night he would call up the resolutions in regard to the migration of colored people, and submit some remarks.

Cope spoke at length in favor of constructing a railroad in Texas to the Rio Grande, after which consideration was resumed of the resolution of Edmunds, declaring the validity of the Thirteenth Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, and Bayard declared the first one to throw doubt upon the validity of the Amendments was the senator from Vermont (Edmunds). The resolutions were not a part of the legislative business, but were mere party tactics. If we declared their validity, another Senate would have power to declare their invalidity. It was dangerous to attempt to centralize power and bring within the control of Congress the civil rights of a citizen which belonged to the state. If the Supreme Court has decided the power claimed in the civil rights bill exists, then whichever political party gets control of government has almost limitless and crushing power.

Edmunds said he concurred that all should have equal rights, but differed as to the manner of getting them. This equality should cease to be a hollow pretence, under which the minority might control the States. Republicans had always believed in the rights of States, but also in the rights of the Union. He discussed the legal phase of the question and deplored the condition of some southern States, which were bearing the legitimate fruit of bankruptcy, ruin and distress.

Whyte took the floor, but yielded for a motion for executive session, which, despite Edmunds' opposition, was agreed to, 28 to 18.

After executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 4. — The House went into committee of the whole on the army appropriation bill.

Durham submitted an amendment reducing the army to 20,000 enlisted men.

Whitthorne moved to reduce the number to 15,000, and favored a better organization of the militia. After considerable debate, Whitthorne's amendment was defeated.

Cox, New York, moved to amend by fixing the force at 17,000. He said the experience which the country had had connected with the disruption of states and the breaking down of popular and electoral liberties, had given it warning against any undue increase of the army. He believed but that for the threat of General Grant, commander-in-chief of the army, whose special love of military power had been aggrandized by his travels in Europe, and but for the fact that there was an army of 20,000 men in 1877, the popular will of the country would not have been stricken down by the inauguration of the present occupant of the White House. With faith growing out of the jealousy of the military power and physical force, he had always voted, and would always vote for a reduction of the army.

Atkins said the House had three times voted for 20,000 as the regular force of the standing army. That had been the expression of the House, and the committee on appropriations knowing that, in order to get this bill through at all, the number would have to be fixed at 25,000, had fixed that number in the bill.

Mills said there seemed to be a fear that a standing army would destroy the liberties of the people. One of the fathers of the House (Cox) reminded the House that the standing army had overturned the liberties of the people on one occasion; that was when there had been about 1,800 men in the District of Columbia, in 1877. Eighteen would have effected the same purpose. He (Cox) had said it had been occasioned by the threat of Gen. Grant. If that was so, he (Mills) thought that Gen. Grant could have done it without any troops. If that gentleman wanted to get relief he had better abolish Gen. Grant. The army was an essential feature in all governments. There was no government on the earth that had not an army for its protection. An army of 25,000 men would be a menace against the liberties of the people if that army was in the District of Columbia, but the United States had territory lying from ocean to ocean covering 3,000,000 square miles, inhabited by 45,000,000 of people scattered throughout its borders. It had an army which could not maintain a skirmish line across it, yet that gentleman said the liberties of the people were imperilled by an army of 25,000. The border had been a running and bleeding wound ever since Texas had been admitted into the Union.

Townshend made some remark which was not heard by the reporter.

Mills — Yes; you would leave Texas bleeding until every man, woman and child had been slaughtered if you could make $10,000 economy and go before your people for your re election. When Texas was admitted to the Union there was a treaty by which the government found itself that it would protect her against foreign enemies. It bound itself to do that thing and ever since we have been assuming our own defense. Talk about economy. (Laughter.)

Townshend—I am glad to find the laughter comes from that side.

Mills—Let it come from where it will, I stand by my constituents.

Townshend—Of that 25,000, how many were kept on the Texas border?

Mills—Not enough to protect it.

Townshend — How many men were kept on the Indian border?

Mills—Not enough to protect it.

Townshend — There were only 300 with Custer when he was destroyed.

Mills—Then he did not have enough and it was because of your false economy that Custer bled. Talk about economy when your border is laid in blood and ashes. (Applause on the republican side.)

Townshend said the laugh came from the same quarter as 1851, in France, it came from the friends of imperialism. (Loud laughter on the republican side.) His friends from Texas (Mills) had charged the democratic party with being the cause of Custer's death because of its economy. It came with ill-grace from the gentleman from Texas to accuse the democratic party of being guilty by economy of the death of Custer and his men, when the living fact remained that there had been an army of 25,000 men, with no use for it save on the Indian border.

Cox, New York, said there was not a member on the floor who did not understand very well, that but for certain menaces and but for sending out orders for troops and artillery to come to Washington, the electoral commission would never have been created. The $265,000,000 spent on the army within the last 10 years had settled no question, Indian or Texan. Where did Mills get the right to criticize democratic action?

Mills—I got it from my constituents, and never will fail to exercise it.

Harrison said Keifer had stated a good democratic truth when he said that without an army Tilden would have been President. Troops were turned upon the Capitol to intimidate the members of the House. The present executive was following in the footsteps of his predecessor, who was abroad now at government expense, learning the ways of kings, that he might return with an army behind him to govern the people of the United States. (Derisive laughter.)

Townsend said there were two great wrongs done two years ago. First, the people refused to elect the sage of Grammercy Park, second, the people of Oregon, Florida, and South Carolina refused to be bought by Grover, Pelton, Weed, or any other man sent into the field. (Laughter.) It was a grievous wrong, it was a fraud, (Shouts of laughter.) Then the house forced the electoral scheme upon us and then the machine would not work. There was fraud, fraud, fraud. Then a distinguished Kentuckian proposed to bring an army of 100,000 ragamuffins here to take possession of the government. They didn't come. It was a great wrong. It was a fraud. (Loud laughter.)

Cox's amendment was defeated—118 to 66.

Butler offered an amendment requiring railroad telegraph lines to transmit messages at rates to be fixed by the government. Adopted. Recess.

Complete arrangements will be made. Delegates are expected from the Pacific Coast. Some fifteen from that section attended the last meeting.

The Cattle Shipment

SPRINGFIELD, 4.—Governor Cullom to-day, telegraphed to President Hayes saying that the action of the British government in respect to cattle shipments, works great prejudice to cattle raisers in the northwest where cattle are in excellent condition, and suggests that it is of vital importance that these facts be presented in such a form as to counteract the influence of false reports. The President has responded as follows: "The secretary of state has made full statements as to the false reports about cattle disease to the British government. The prospect is favorable."

Accidental Death.

CROYDON, Morgan Co., Feb. 2d, 1879.

Editors Deseret News:

By request, it is my painful duty to write you the cause of the demise of an esteemed brother, Thomas Price, while he was working in the coal mines, Grass Creek, Summit County. On the 6th of January a piece of coal (about five cwt.) fell and struck his back, from which injury he died on the 29th ult.

During his sufferings he was calm, patient, and a murmur did not pass his lips; he died as he had lived, a faithful Latter-day Saint, well respected by all who knew him. He was a hard working man, a loving, kind, and indulgent husband and father, also a good citizen. He left an affectionate, faithful wife and four children to mourn his loss.

He was born Dec. 24, 1828, at Landfice, South Wales. When 17 years old he joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, emigrated to Utah in the year 1851. For some years has been a member of the High Priest's Quorum.

Yesterday a large concourse of people assembled to pay their last respects, by attending the funeral. Appropriate addresses by Bishop John Hopkin, Elders S. Edwards and E. Swann, after which the body was consigned to the silent tomb to wait a glorious resurrection.
