

R. G. W. contingent, it is now 50,000. [Applause.] To the strangers who have come the past few days, I say we welcome you to view our city, to gaze upon the grandeur of the western metropolis, but don't you dare to vote, for if you do, you'll get into trouble. You'll get into the courts, and if we can't get justice in the courts in Utah we may in the United States Supreme Court; and as an aged gentleman said the other day, if we can't get justice there we will appeal to the registrars. [Cheers.]

HON. E. G. WOOLLEY

was introduced. He was proud of his membership in the People's Party. He had always been a member and expected to always be one. He was prepared to do his part in protecting the rights of the people of this Territory. In the parade today I saw "contingents" from nearly all the surrounding States and Territories. That was proper. They expect to get their votes there. We don't propose to let them if we can help it. As that parade passed the Temple, one "voter" asked, "What is that fine building?" These are the kind of "voters" who are expected to vote the "Liberals" into power. I say God save our Territory from such liberalism. A "Liberal" told me he had expected 500 majority, but since the United States Supreme Court decision in the Idaho case he expected 1000 majority. He thought the decision would cause us to stay at home; but I told him he was mistaken, for on election day every People's Party man would be out and do his whole duty. The "Liberals" doubtless know how many they have on the registration lists; but they do not know how many will be challenged. If only those vote who have a right to do so, we will carry the city by a large majority. [Applause.]

Held & Johnson's band played "Hail Columbia."

L. G. HARDY, ESQ.,

was the next speaker. He came to this country, he was told, when he was quite small. He was then a member of the People's Party and was still solid. The most of the party are of the same class. We were bred in Utah and don't propose to be run out. [Cheers.] The right of voting is dear to every American citizen. If we are given a fair chance on Monday, we will show the floating population that has come here the last two or three weeks what we can do.

Under the People's Party, the revenue of the Territory for 1886 was $142,000. Of this amount which was charged up to the collectors, it was all collected within $400. There is not another State or Territory in this Union that can make such a showing of honest taxpayers. The revenue for 1887 was $162,000, and all this was collected within $1100. The reason this latter sum was not collected was because it was assessed upon mortgages belonging to non-residents, and hence not collectible. In 1888 the revenue was $222,000, showing that we are steadily but surely increasing on a foundation which proves us to be a prosperous people. [Applause.] The revenue for the past year, 1889, was $238,000. This is an excellent showing. When I compare our growing wealth and conditions with those of the opposing party, I find that we have more industries than they can show, three or four to one. The People's Party came to this country when a "Liberal" could not live here, because the greater part of the latter are of too lazy a nature to till the soil as we did. The People's Party are the bone and sinew of this part of the country, and we propose to continue in maintaining it. [Loud applause.]

The drum corps played a reville.

HON. C. C. RICHARDS, of Ogden, was introduced as one who had had experience in fighting "Liberals." Mr. Richards said that he was a Salt Lake boy, having been born here about thirty years ago. He was a member of the People's Party then and today. He was of that party, for that Party and "agin" the "Liberals." I am told I am to represent young Utah, old Utah and a fallen city. My city has gone into the hands of the rascals, but it is a good city yet. To young Utah I would say that older Utah came here and made Utah what it is, rendering it possible for the nineteenth century civilization to forge forward. They have a thousand times greater right to vote than the carpet-baggers we saw in line on the streets today. [Cheers.] They are the people who have a right to give expression of their choice who should rule them.

I come from a county that does not play second to any other. Not a dollar has gone to default, not a tax sale has been made, and every dollar has been paid into the public treasury. The administration of that county under the People's Party is open to inspection. The city of Ogden, with its records in the past, is equally wide open, just as wide as the glorious city has been open to the libertines in the past twelve months.

This "Liberal" party is and has been powerful in boasting and bragging and fraudulent ways, and in "tricks that are dark." They never lose an opportunity to perpetrate a fraud, to do that which is dishonest, even when the truth would answer a better purpose.

I can see the foundation laid here for just the same scheme which they perpetrated in Ogden fifty-two weeks ago next Monday. At that time 450 transients, most of whom had never before been within the corporate limits of that city, were brought in by special and regular trains, taken to the polls, and voted on fraudulent names. [Cries of "Shame!"] But we in Ogden can go one better than you here; for we had the way of voting dead men, while you yet have only the way of registering them. [Laughter and applause.]

Since the "Liberal" party came into possession of the municipality of Ogden they have multiplied our taxes two to tenfold. They have given away the water and water system to an irresponsible adventurer, without compensation. They have closed the avenue to public improvements. They have closed down the tramway and stopped improving the streets. With increasing revenues they have not enough to pay the increased salaries.

If you want your taxes increased fivefold, vote for the "Liberals." If you want the saloons thrown open day and night continuously; if you want gambling in the highways and byways, and prostitutes of all nations turned broadcast upon your streets, vote the "Liberal" ticket. This is what we have had in the city of Ogden, until your organs here, for political purposes, have had to take up the cry against it. If you want your city and its police regulations controlled by United States marshals, vote the "Liberal" ticket, and you will get it just as we did in Ogden. Things got so bad in Ogden that the United States marshal was compelled to close the dens and drive out the harlots. If you want to commit suicide politically, socially and every other way vote the "Liberal" ticket.

But if you want to live freemen, and enjoy good government, vote for Clawson, Wells, Clayton, and all the People's nominees. [Prolonged cheering.] They will prohibit these libertines. They will see that good government is carried forward, and your improvements pushed till your city is the most beautiful on the American continent.

The trains now bring people who never saw this place before, to defeat the ballots of residents. When the "contingents" came to Ogden some of them got loose and had to ask where the City Hall was, to vote.

The Utah Commission have been challenged to investigate these frauds, but they have not dared to do so. Yet they boast of fair elections! A member of and the secretary of that Commission were present when the frauds were perpetrated, and they "don't have time" to investigate. In Ogden the "Liberals" told us they had the courts, and they guaranteed immunity from prosecution to illegal voters.

Those of you who care to have this city continue to be the home of virtuous, honorable citizens, go to the polls on Monday and vote the People's ticket, and you will never regret this sensible action on your part. [Cheers.]

N. W. CLAYTON, ESQ.,

said he thanked the people for his nomination for councilman from the Fifth precinct. If every man does his duty on election day I will serve as councilman, and if I do I promise you that I will be found defending truth and liberty.

The Mandolin and Guitar Club rendered a beautiful selection, and for an encore gave "Where did you get that bag?" Three hearty cheers were then given for the club, and they responded with another piece.

HON. HEBER J. GRANT was received with cheers, and said in substance—I am interested in the growth and development of
