G. A. R. Chief and Party Greeted by Veterans in Notable Gathering Last Night.

Commander-in-Chief Henry M Nevius of the Grand Army of the Republic was last night a guest of honor at the first reception tendered his distinguished party in Salt Lake. The hosts were the old soldiers of the G. A. R. who reside in Salt Lake and vicinity, and their entertainment for their commander-in-chief consisted of a campfire gathering held in the I. O. O. The decorations at the Commercial club in entertainment of the visiting officials of the national G. A. R. and in homor of the annual banquet of the club, are the most elaborate ever installed there. The stairway approach from the curb-stone to the corridor entrance to the club, is enclosed by carvas awning, and decorated for its entire length with fes-tooms of national colors, and red, white and blue incandescent lamps. Within the club apartments, there is a scene of beauty to behold. The corridor, ceillings and walls are masses of handsomely festoned bunting, illuminated by color-ed electric lamps; the offices, sitting and reception rooms are draped in col-ored bunting, with impromptu window curtains of the same material, while colored lamps are copiously scattered. But the diningroom is the gem. There, the celling is one mass of white bunt-ing, bunched in exaggerated "Lincrusta Walton" effects, relieved by white bunt-ing streamers decorated with colored incandescents, and further relieved by of American flags of various sizes, and colored bunting, artistically grouped in very effective forms and styles. The chandeliers are decorated by colored papers, and the windows are curtained in the national colors. The entire se-ries of club apartments present a beau-tiful appearance such as they never did before. Manager Fisher Harris and the officials of the club would be pleased to have the ladies of the club call to impect the decorations between 5 and 6 p. m. today.

LANE'S COMMENT ON HARRIMAN CASE

Chicago, Dec. 15 .- Franklin K. Lane, of the interstate commerce commission in an interview here regarding the decision of the United States supreme court in the Harriman case limiting the authority of the commission to compel answers to certain questions, said that in his opinion the decision would not result in any great limitation of the powers of the commission. He saw in the decision, lowever, a strong argument for governmental control over the capitalization of railway companies in order to protect the people's money invested in railroads against the possi-

Things in general are progressing favorably, and a great future is predicted for the locality of which Myton is the center. In the opinion of Mr. Clark, the government made a mistake in alloting to the In-dians the better portions of the land, leaving for settlers the poorer tracts. The redmen, he says, would have made just as good use of the one as the other, which practically amounts to no use at all.

Just as good use of the one as the other, which practically amounts to no use at all. The Indians of the reservation are now citizens, and as such are entitled to the franchise. At the last election many of them voted. The Indians, however, are not entitled to all the privileges vouchsafed to their white brothers. The sale of liquor to In-dians is strictly prohibited, but this condition, in the opinion of Mr. Clark, is more of a detriment than other-wise not only to the Indians but to his white neighbors. As the law now stands, an Indian is not permitted to enter a saloon, but the utmost vigil-ance cannot prevent him from getting hold of large quantities of whisky, which he proceeds to drink as quickly as he can, for fear of confiscation, and the result is that he is soon murderousthe result is that he is soon murderous the result is that he is soon murderous-ly crazy. Since prohibition does not prohibit regarding the Indians, Mr. Clark thinks that the better way to deal with bin is to give him equal privileges with the white man.
