Over 200 delegates are presessat, representing nearly every state in the Union and estimated capi-tal of $500,000,000. Albert Lieber, on behalf of the Indiinapolis brewers, welcomed the delegates. He said: Considering that the use of fermented beverages is as old as mankind, that fermented decoctions of cereals have been popular among the Teutonic nations for a thousand years, and that is preservation of a custom or habit irough all the stages of development and progress of a nation from barbar-sm to dvilization permits the conclusion that such custom or habit satisfies an actual or irrepressible desire, s. that its eradication is impossible, that its cratication is impossible, i am, indeed, of the opinion that we are entitled to hanks for the perfection of the art of brewing, and that there would be more wisdom and practical prudence in legislation favoring the popularization of beer, than in legisla-tion incited by the unjustified prejuces of the overgealous temperance uivanate. The production of beer in the United States has grown from a little over six p.illion harrels in 1870 to probably more than fifty millions in the present year. It has grown nearly four times as fast as the population. If we were not fur-nithing the people a good, pure and healthy product, this remarkable in-crease would have been impossible." The report of the board of trustees was read, as follows: "There can be no doubt that the agitation of the antisaloon league has misled many wellmeaning lawmakers and electors, and that by it great injury has been and more may be inflicted upon our indus-try, but we are confident that it will not e long before the electors, realizing he ultimate object of the league, will deal with it as they have dealt with
