THE GOLDEN BULE IN POLI-TICS.

In consequence of the peculiar circumstances that have surrounded the people who founded and built up this Territory, they have been compelled to assume an attitude which has exposed laws upon the subject. them to the charge of illiberality in It takes the present law as its basis; politics. The unity of sentiment and specifies at length and in an explicit action which is a characteristic of the manner, the duties and powers of the "Mormons," has been attacked by territorial school commissioner; has a their enemies as the principal reason for assalling them. It is the chief ty superintendents; provides for source of their strength. It has been teachers' institutes and county the means of their preservation. And it has also been a stern necessity. "United we stand, divided we fail," is districts; provides for the organization a motto that could be adopted by the of new ones; specifies the powers and "Mormon" people as peculiarly their own. Political division is political weakness, and certain persons who in times past have desired to obtain supreme control in Utah have ever sought to divide the majority and thus break in to grasp political power.

The people of Utah have seen and felt the necessity of supporting their friends in such political contests as teachers, while each district is left to have occurred, as against that class of tax itself for school buildings, apparatheir opponents, who have, as a rule, tus, etc. In this way free schools been in all respects their enemies. Candidates for office representing that class of the minority alluded to have been engaged in warring lupon the dearest rights of the majority. It would have been the most supreme folly not to resist their encroachments and defeat their intentions. Thus the minority have usually been kept back from the coveted prize they hoped to gain, and the adventurers among them have been full of ans-

Anynow, the statement has raised quite a discussion, lawyers judges, preachers and politicians taking part. Some maintain the Cardinal was right, while others condemn him Cardinal Manning, as is well known is one of the best educated men in England, and his opinion is entitled to consideration. Many of the greatest of our American prachers have condemned the Cardinal, and they hold that a citizen's natural rights does not warrant him to steal. There is one thing certain no citizen, subject, indi-vidual or human biped of any kind, class, color or creed ought to die of hunger in any well regulated commun ity. And here will be seen the super ority, sublimity and heavenly wisdom of "Mormonism" as compared with all existing religions and philosophies. But there is a higher ground than that of political condict. It is that where glisten the sacred letters of the golden rule: "Whatsoever ys would that answer to a complaint in a civil action men should do unto you, do ye even so in the courts, and is supposed to conunto them." That is the true "Mor- tain all of the defenses which the demon" position. It is only the pressure of circumstances and the require- or claim. And the parallel goes fur ments of the times which have hindered them from occupying it in politics. The leading spirits among the "Mormon" people have, from the beginning, recognized the fact that the wishes of the minority are entitled to respect, and that the majority should always be as magnanimous as is consistent with the general safety. Non-"Mormons" were elected to the City Council in sive, at least not at present, and that Nauvoo when they were a much smaller minority than they form in Utah.
