

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY.

INFORMATION WANTED of a boy named Gustave Adolph Bergenstraale, who left Copenhagen, Denmark, April 15th, 1862, in company with a lady named Cais Lisa Bergenstraale Carn Larsen. His father wishes to know if he is alive or dead. "He was living with a bishop Wally (Weiler?) near the city." Address John Bergen, tailor, 55 Bleecker street, between Broadway and Bowery, New York.

How?—Is it impossible for the Associated Press to find somebody who will come within a reasonable distance of the truth, to act as A. P. Agent at Salt Lake City? Or is it to be understood that the A. P. is the supple tool of a few rabid apostate Mormons and Mormon-eating Gentiles? The latter is just how things look to a candid observer.

A CHANGE.—Quite a change in the weather since yesterday. There was a nice little shower during last night. This morning was cool and cloudy, then drizzly, until the afternoon, when a fine rain set in. The elements appear to be marshalling their forces for a stormy time. A little damp weather after the late dry spell will do good. It will help along the spring growth of vegetation.

TO TERRITORIAL JUDGES.—Washington, March 20th. The Attorney General to-day issued a circular to Territorial Judges, calling attention to representations made to him that some of them live outside their respective districts, and informs them that it is a violation of law, and they must reside within their district, and not leave it, except upon leave granted by the Attorney General.—New York Herald.

HORACE GREELEY writes to Senator-elect Fitch, of Utah, that he doesn't see how the Territory can come in as a State in the face and eyes of a recent act requiring a population which she lacks; but he does hope that we will pay more attention to our own morals and less to other folks' than Chief Justice McKean's rulings indicate.—Omaha Herald.

STUDYING THE ORES.—The American Journal of Education says—

"The students of the mining class in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology made an excursion with some of their professors last summer to the mines of Colorado and Utah. One of the results of this trip is the addition to the laboratory of the Institute of about eleven tons of gold and silver ore, upon which the students can try their skill. Here is a practical sort of studying."

MORE WHOPPERS.—Munchausen sends east the following:

"Salt Lake March 29.—Papers here are agitating the question of the possibility of a civil war in Utah as the result of admission."

"A memorial protesting against the admission is being signed by all the Gentiles and occasionally by the Mormons."

How's all that for concentrated lie?

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?—"Without the aid of advertisements I could have done nothing in my speculations. I have the most complete faith in 'printers' ink.' Advertising is the 'royal road to business.'"—Barnum.

"My success is owing to my liberality in advertising."—Bonner.

"Advertising has furnished me with a competence."—Amos Lawrence.

"I advertised my productions and made money."—Nicholas Longworth.

"Constant and persistent advertising is a sure prelude to wealth."—Stephen Girard.

"He who invests one dollar in business should invest one dollar in advertising that business."—A. T. Stewart.

WANTS THE COPPER.—The Cincinnati Times moralizes in this fashion—

"We hear some talk about the copper mines in Utah. Won't the Mormons and Gentiles hurry up, weed out their criminals, fight out their battles, settle up their difficulties, and then pitch in harmoniously and develop their copper mines?"

The "Mormons" have no difficulties to settle nor battles to fight. They have lived here a quarter of a century in peace and quietness when they have been permitted to do so. But some people, who ought to know better, seem determined that there shall be no peace, nothing but wrangling and confusion in Utah if they can in any wise cause such an undesirable state of things to exist. That's what's the matter.

STYLE.—There appears to be a disposition increasing in this city, particularly among the young folks, to "put on airs," or "style," or whatever else it may be called. Striplings on whose upper lip the indications of manhood have scarcely commenced to appear can be seen at any time dressed in the style most approved by the most arduous devotees of "snobbery," and puffing the blue smoke from a cigar. In addition to this, the stylish young person of the male persuasion must carry a cane, which in a hale young man is almost invariably a sign of mental weakness, and have his hair parted in the middle. In such young men this mode of dressing the hair is entirely unnecessary, if it be adopted to show how near they approach femininity, for they need not fear that any sensible person would ever accuse them of manliness of character.

In seeing so many of these "nice young men" around on the streets one can scarcely help thinking of the words of the Scottish bard:

"O wad some power the giftie gie us
Tae see oursels as ithers see us,
It wad frae monie a blunder free us,
An' foolish notion."

The foppish young man, as he struts along, fondly imagines that he is creating an impression on the beholder, and so he probably is for the matter of that, but, if he only knew it, the impression he generally makes would be anything but flattering to his vanity. Many young fellows put on airs that they may be attractive to the opposite sex, but sensible ladies admire a manly man and have no esteem for puppets, or young men who by their ridiculous airs make it appear as if they came into the world fitted by nature to occupy the position of a tailor's advertisement.

We do not wish it to be understood that we think that people should not dress well and suitably adorn their persons, for this would be a mistake. We like to see people dress in as good clothing as they can legitimately pay for. But it is the foppery in the cut, etc., that sometimes appears, to say the least, absurd, and above all the manners and carriage of some young men. And we would advise the young men hereabout, if they wish the respect of people, to avoid assuming the frivolous foppery which so largely obtains in large cities elsewhere.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY.

FROM ST. GEORGE.—Mr. D. Woolley, son of Bishop E. D. Woolley of this city, arrived from St. George yesterday, bringing with him some of the evidences of his industry, raised from the Dixie soil.

ADMISSION OF UTAH.—It will be seen by dispatches that Hon. William H. Hooper has presented the memorial adopted by the Utah Convention, praying for admission of this Territory into the Union as a State, to the House of Representatives, and that the document was referred. Also that Senator Nye presented the Memorial and the Constitution to the Senate.

BEAR LAKE.—Elder C. C. Rich stepped into our sanctum this morning, looking as hearty as ever. He arrived from Bear Lake Valley last evening, sleighing it to Evanston, and taking the rails thence. Elder Rich informs us that the past winter has been hard on stock, they having required more feeding and care than usual. Still the absolute losses were not serious, though many of the animals were their in flesh.

No "GENTILE SUN."—The following was among our last night's dispatches:

Corinne, Utah, 2.—The business men of this city, in a body, waited upon Judge Toohy, editor of the Corinne Reporter yesterday, and offered him a bonus of five thousand dollars to continue the publication of his paper here and not publish the Gentile Sun at Salt Lake City. The proposition was accepted and Toohy and the Reporter appear again to-day.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Mrs. Rebecca J. Smith, of Broad Mountain, Schuylkill Co., Pennsylvania, wishes to learn of the whereabouts of her son, Edward L. Smith, whom she last heard from in this city. He is twenty-one years of age, has dark hair and eyes and is missing two fingers on his left hand. Any person possessing the desired information will please communicate to the above address or to Pres. B. Young's office, this city.

MOVING.—The Dry Goods Department of Z. C. M. I. is engaged to-day moving goods into the fine large new building immediately west of the Eagle Emporium, the front part of which will be temporarily occupied as an office, until the partition between the room recently used as such and that lately used as a carpet room, is removed.

The business of the department is continually increasing and demands more room.

CHICAGO MERCHANTS.—Our merchants, says the Chicago Post, never had a better stock of goods in every department of trade than they have this day, and they were never better able to supply their patrons in the West more promptly, or on more agreeable terms. Trade is in a first rate condition. The gravest difficulty our wholesale merchants encounter is to find store-room; but even in this matter they are not wholly without resource. Every town in the West can procure its annual supply of goods from Chicago without delay.

"HOME AGAIN ONCE MORE."—Elder E. B. Tripp, who left this city on a mission to the eastern States on the 23d of last October, reached his home in this city, in good health, on the evening of the 1st instant. He traveled and labored first in the State of Connecticut, and after that in Maine, in which he remained until he left for home. He had a pleasant mission, being kindly treated by the people among whom he traveled and labored. He visited many who were baptized into the church a good many years since, most of whom are now making preparations to emigrate to Utah the coming season. He convinced several of the truth of the gospel, and would have initiated them into the church, but the weather was so cold—snow three feet deep and thermometer 10° below zero when he left—that baptism was deferred until more temperate weather. Among his converts he numbers his brother and family, also his father and mother, the former a Wesleyan preacher for fifty years, and now seventy-eight years old, his mother seventy-four. "All are coming to Utah" as soon as their affairs are settled and preparations made for the journey. Elder Tripp left Dexter, in the eastern part of Maine, on the 25th of March, and reached Omaha on the 30th. He left Elders H. S. Beattie and Richards, between Burlington and Omaha, on their homeward journey, on the 29th ult.; they went to St. Joseph to attend to some business there, and will reach this city, if all be well, in a day or two.

"DIXIE."—We were pleased to meet Hon. Erastus Snow to-day, who arrived from St. George on Monday night, and we are glad to be able to state that his health is excellent, having entirely recovered from the spell of sickness which he had some time since. He reports all things smooth and satisfactory in the "Dixie" region.

We are indebted to him for the following information: A road was being made and is near completion, from St. George along the base of a mountain to a quarry of black volcanic rock, of which the Temple there will be built. Some pieces of rock twelve feet long have been split for the foundation. The cost of making the road will not be less than $3,000.

There is a good prospect of that region being free from grasshoppers the coming season, yet the land may possibly suffer from drouth, but little rain having fallen, and there being a very limited amount of snow in the mountains.

General Forsyth and Col. Sheridan lately paid a flying visit through the Southern part of the Territory, on a tour of examination, that they might decide upon the best positions for establishing military posts. They selected a site for one at the mouth of Beaver Canyon, about a mile above Beaver City, and it is probable that several companies of U. S. troops will be posted there some time this spring. General Forsyth thought it was likely government would establish a depot of supplies and one company of troops in the vicinity of St. George.

There is a great deal of land on the Rio Virgen which could be watered from that river, which has not yet been cultivated, and Brother Snow is of opinion that the opening of mines to the north, east and west would justify the expense of irrigating this land. A number of earnest, energetic farmers are wanted there for this work.

The placer gold diggings on the Colorado extend along a distance of about 300 miles, wherever soil has been washed up from the river, from Pareas to the mouth of the Grand Wash. A road has been opened from St. George to the mouth of the Pareas during the winter, and one is now being made southeast, towards the mouth of the Grand Gulch, or outlet of the Pareas Valley.

REFORMATORY INSTITUTIONS.—An exchange says—

"Bishop Simpson perpetrated a good thing in answer to a question of church government, raised by some persons who objected that Dr. Newman ought to resign his chaplaincy to the Senate, as his pastoral period in Washington had expired. Bishop Simpson promptly declared that, under the general law of the church, he had the power to appoint chaplains to reformatory institutions, and he considered the United States Senate to fall within the scope of the rule."

Correspondence.

TOOELE CITY, April 2nd, 1872.

Editor Deseret News:

The annual conference of Tooele County was held here, on Sunday, March 31st, Bishop John Rowberry presiding. Three meetings were held and good instruction given by the brethren from the various settlements in the county. Amongst those who addressed the people were Elders Woolley, Childs and Caldwell, returned missionaries, who gave a brief but interesting account of their labors and travels, on their mission east.

The First Presidency and Twelve Apostles, also Bishop Rowberry and counselors, with all other local organizations, were presented to the people and sustained.

We have a very good Sunday school here under the direction of Thos. Lee, John Shield and Thos. Atkin, Jr., assisted by a corps of teachers, backed up with a small but respectable Sunday School Library. The subscription library still moves along; we had about sixty volumes added to it this last week, of a tolerably fair class of works, purchased in New York for this little burgh.

We have had three day schools and one evening school during last fall and winter, which have been very well patronized. The seventies and high priests have occupied one night each week during the winter in giving lectures on various topics, which has whiled away a few pleasant hours.

Through the efforts of H. S. Gowans, and R. Wurberton, Esqrs., we have a very respectable telegraph and express office in this place, which, of course, is very convenient. NESTOR.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The undersigned invite all citizens of Utah, who adhere to the principles of that grand old party of the people—the Democracy—to assemble in mass convention at the City Hall in Salt Lake city, on Monday the 8th of April, at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of taking initiatory steps for organization, appointing a Territorial Democratic central committee, and transacting such other business as may be suggested at the meeting.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY MEETING.—At the Republican primary at the Old Tabernacle yesterday evening Mayor Wells called the meeting to order when Hon. Samuel W. Richards was nominated for chairman and elected; E. L. Sloan being elected secretary.

Names of nominees for delegates to attend the Territorial convention to be held on Friday evening being called for, the following were singly presented to the meeting, and each in turn was elected, other names having been presented and withdrawn:

Elias Smith,	Enoch Reese,
A. M. Musser,	C. H. Hempstead,
A. P. Rockwood,	Solomon Despain,
Daniel R. Allen,	John T. Caine,
J. C. Little,	Abolam Smith,
Theo. McKean,	Henry R. Brady,
S. A. Mann,	Theo. F. Tracy,
J. D. Meagher,	Geo. E. Whitney,
Samuel Bateman,	Henry Rdy,
William G. Gallagher.

On motion, the secretary was instructed to furnish minutes of the proceedings to each of the daily papers published in Salt Lake city; and to notify the delegates of their election.

On motion of Mr. Whitney, it was resolved: "That in case any delegate elected by this caucus be unable to attend the Territorial convention, he is permitted to give his proxy to some suitable person to represent him in that convention."

The meeting soon after adjourned sine die.

To Pickle Meat in one Day.—Get a tub nearly full of rain or river water, and put two thin pieces of wood across it, and set the beef on them at about the distance of an inch from the water. Heap as much salt as will stand on the beef, and let it remain twenty-four hours; then take the meat off and boil it, and you will find it as salty as if it had been in pickle for weeks—the water having drawn the salt completely through the beef.

A lady took her son, of some five years to church. After the minister had been preaching about half an hour, the little fellow grew sleepy and began to nod. The mother roused him into attention several times by pinching, but as it seemed a hopeless case, she concluded to let him sleep undisturbed. After the little fellow had his nap out, he awoke, and saw the minister still holding forth. He looked up in his mother's face, and innocently asked, "Mother, is it this Sunday night, or is it next Sunday night?"
