NEWS OF THE DAY.

In the case of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co. vs. James Young, etc., the Supreme Court of the U. S. has reversed the decision of the Circuit Court of California.

A Carlist battery fired on a Spanish squadron, and killed the admiral.

One of the most terrible disasters on record occurred at South Holyoke, Mass., last night—during service in the Catholic church, seven hundred people present, the building, a wooden structure, caught fire, and in less than half an hour between seventy and eighty persons were burned to death, and forty or fifty others more or less seriously injured. For particulars see telegrams.

At Versailles, O., yesterday, while four children of S. M. Christian were trying to light a fire with kerosene oil, the can containing it exploded, and all the children were burned to death.

There was a series of terrible earthquakes in Asia Minor, in the early part of the present month.

Mr. Maynard, the new U. S. minister to Turkey, has reached Constantinople.

The schooner "Lone Spring" a leak, and sank in Lake Huron last Monday; the crew took to the boat, and had a terrible struggle to save their lives, their feet being hung and ice.

An engineer on the U. P. R. R. was drowned at Cheyenne, yesterday.

There has been a big fire at Tilton, N. H.

The survey for the proposed canal across the Isthmus of Panama is completed.

The Sioux chiefs at Washington seem to be unusually obtuse—the President and the Secretary of the Interior told them that the government does not wish to force them from the Black Hills, but if they do not move they are told that perhaps the whites will be allowed to enter, and it is probable that Congress will stop their supplies. The chiefs say that if this does not suit them they will understand it. They have force they will never go to Indian Territory, and they say that if the government tries to force them it will require the whole of the army.

Jackson, the $800,000 defaulter of Boston, has been held to answer in $19,000.

There has been great excitement on the New York Stock Exchange to-day, and at times it has seemed as if a panic was inevitable.

A CURIOUS VERDICT.—A Nevada juror, says the Virginia Enterprise, impelled to inquire into the cause of the death of Samuel Day, who was injured in the Ophir mine, took two days to render a verdict, and here it is—

"The deceased came to his death from injuries received in the shaft of the Ophir mine; and we, the jury, are of the opinion that it would be better for the public to employ a physician who is not accustomed to imbibing intoxicating liquors to extremes; and also to employ those who are competent to attend to cases of amputation without experimenting. The jury are also of the opinion that the foreman of the Ophir mine, Robert Marshall, is deserving of a severe censure for the utter negligence and indifference exhibited by him in not endeavoring to ascertain the cause of the accident. We are also of the opinion that S. Curtis, superintendent, and Mr. Brophy are very competent officers.

THE DRUNKENEST CITY.—New York seems to be making a valid claim to the disreputable pre-eminence of the drunkenest city. According to the latest statistics of justice that city had 40,777 arrests last year for being drunk, or drunk and disorderly, one-third of that number being of women. According to another return, the number of cases of drunkenness was 638 for every 10,000 inhabitants, with 8,403 liquor saloons, or one to every 119 men, women, and children. In the drunkenest and worst portion of London, especially selected on that account, the drunks amounted to 384 for every 10,000, in Liverpool 329, in Cork 352, and in Dublin 418.

In round figures, therefore, New York may be said to be nearly three times as drunken as London, and nearly twice as drunken as Liverpool, Cork or Dublin.

Further Particulars of the Holyoke Disaster.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., 28.—Intense excitement prevailed last night in Holyoke, centering opposite the church at which the disastrous fire occurred, and at various points to which the burned were carried. The people rushed pell pell into the burning building to rescue friends, and it was with difficulty they were kept back. This was particularly the case with parents, who, on the first impulse, rushed from church to save their own lives, but, remembering they had left children behind to perish, returned impetuously. Actual personal violence had to be used in several cases to keep women back. All about the streets, men, women and children were weeping and piteously inquiring for friends who had been saved. One woman was positive her husband had perished and could only be quieted by the assurance from a friend that he had just been seen walking with her. One of the most touching cases was that of two little girls, about twelve years of age, who rushed for the entrance of the building while the fire was at its height, thinking to find their father and mother who were within. They could hardly be restrained by an officer, who took them in his arms. It is a disputed question whether the girls were actually rescued or not. There are those who state positively that one of them was closed, and that it was impossible to open it on that account of the intense heat. The girls were rescued by a fireman who was on duty at the door and flourishing a club threatened violence to anyone who came near, in order to get the girls out, but without success. Others state as positively that both doors were open.

The church society was established about seven years ago and Father Dufresne has been the only pastor. The parish included all the French Catholics of the city, whose number is estimated at 2,500 persons. The church was erected in 1870, entirely of pine, and was about 100 feet by 60. It had two stories with galleries on the sides and north end, about twenty-five feet wide. There were two doors in the north end, and vestibule from which two doors opened into the body of the church. The galleries opened into the vestibule. At the rear end was another door, by which a few persons escaped.

Immediately upon the breaking out of the flames, all the occupants of the galleries rushed to the east door and falling upon one another choked up the doorway with their bodies, piled all ways. The firemen tried to force their way in, but were repulsed. From this mass chief Mullen rescued one young woman having taken off two dead bodies from above her. The chief and others had their clothes almost burned from them and were badly injured.

In the rear of the church was the priest's residence, which was destroyed. The walls were pulled down after the fire was nearly over. One woman jumped from the highest window down upon the street, breaking her arm. A man with a child in his arms jumped from a window and escaped.

It is not quite certain that all the bodies have been taken from the ruins; in the haste to get as many as possible from the building before it melted away, it is possible a few more may be taken from the debris.

Fifty Dead Recognized.

Noon. The bodies of fifty persons, burned to death at Holyoke, Mass., yesterday, were identified, in addition to those of fifteen or twenty who were at once removed to their homes by their friends. Nearly seventy were identified, and some forty more are more or less burned or otherwise injured. The hero of the disaster was John Lynch, a brave fireman, who was first to respond to the alarm. He describes the scene when he reached the burning edifice as an appalling wedged tight and immovable mass of humanity, none of them able to stir or stir. The terrible pressure of the crowd behind, while upon and over them a sheet of fire rolled like a wave streaming far and into an open air. Without stopping to consider their danger Lynch and Chief Engineer Mullen rushed into the flames, and by the aid of a pious cry of "For God's sake come and help us!" began pulling out bodies. Some poor creatures fell fainting on the way, and a well directed hydrant stream from Mount Holyoke hose struck the brave rescuer, and undoubtedly saved them from being burned alive. The first persons drawn out were burning, but they passed directly through the stream of water and were entirely unharmed. at Eagle caused criticism of the Indian management, but only because I had not done more before. I do not consider the Indian management generally good, but as a whole thoroughly bad. I do not acknowledge to the commissioner that I caused my complaints merely on the samples Red Cloud showed me, but have an abundance of other evidence of fraud practiced on Red Cloud and his tribe, that I stand ready to give before any proper tribunal. I do not consider your correspondent at all responsible for the errors in the dispatch, as he only repeated one of many stories sent out by the Indian ring to weaken the force of the facts I have shown the President and board of Indian commissioners."

Ogden Junction, May 27—

Dr. J. J. Murphy and E. G. Williams, of this city, have been attending on Mr. Albert G. Barrett of North Ogden, who has been for many years afflicted with a malignant tumor on the left side of the neck. On Tuesday, Dr. Murphy invited Dr. Waughman and Condon to operate on the patient, and they successfully cut out the tumor, and the patient is doing finely. Dr. Murphy speaks very highly of the surgery of Dr. Waughman and Condon.

From Mr. James Unsworth, who was in town on business to-day, we learn that the co-operative institution of Ogden and its branches have been consolidated. They consist of a mercantile institution, a dairy, an organization owning several mills, steam saws and a saw for sawing lumber and shingles, and a company owning the great dragon road to Blacksmith's Fork Canyon. These are all united in one incorporated company, with a board of thirteen directors, of whom an executive committee of five are empowered to transact business. This committee consists of the President, O. N. Liljenquist, the vice president, Hans E. Nielson and John G. Wilson; the secretary, James Unsworth; and the treasurer, A. P. Rose. Mr. Unsworth is business manager.

The dairy of the company will start next week, and their mills will be in running order in about four weeks. Good for Hyrum.

At the Devil's Elbow, about six miles below Black Hawk, on the divide of the Colorado River, where the bed of the river is torn out of the solid rock, owing to the extreme heat, the valley of Clear Creek at that point, an accident occurred on Wednesday evening last, which takes rank as one of the most horrible on record.

A Chinaman, Lin Wau, working in the gulch mines along the creek, was pursued by a wild Indian bull, which had wandered away from its herd up the creek. For safety the Chinaman took to the track, but was closely followed by the infuriated animal to the Devil's Elbow, where the bed of the river is torn out of the solid rock, owing to the extreme heat, the valley of Clear Creek at that point, an accident occurred on Wednesday evening last, which takes rank as one of the most horrible on record.
