Stole a Wheel and Sold it Three Times fecord of a Professed Preacher.

Felce Think They Have in Custody the Holdups who Terrorized Junction City Recently.

Detective J. F. Pender arrested A. g Lindquist, a Baptist preacher, yeserday afternoon on the charge of stealing a bicycle three different times during Thursday evening. Lindquist came to Ogden Thursday from Oregon, and put in the day around the city. He called on C. J. Lindquist and represinted himself as being his uncle and s Baptist Swedish minister, but had used all of his money traveling and was "broke." His story appeared straightforward and he worked on the heart of his supposed nephew, who gave him two dollars. The minister left after securing the money and promised to return the next day. When the shadows of night began to fall the shadows of hight began to fail the "saintly fellow" stole an Imperial bicycle from in front of one of the stores and sold it to a Twenty-fifth street saloon man for $4. While in the stice should of his relationship to salon he told of his relationship to his 'nephew'' and how he had taught nephew the ways of the Lord. When he left the saloon the bicycle went with he and was sold to another saloon-keeper for the same price. The sam. keeper for the same price. The sam, lak was told, and the "good Samari-tan" took his departure but evidently forgot that he had sold the bicycle already twice and he took it to another saloon and sold it again for $4. At the after saloon the bike was found yesterday morning. The matter was repolice and Detective to the und his man during the after-Pender for con is a house on Electric avenue. After his arrest he claimed that one of the "spotted doves" had robbed him or reacher. The date of his hearing has not been set.

The three men, James Cannon, Lewis Tybouldt and John Dwyer, who are now serving out terms for vagrancy in the eity jull, are also suspected of being connected with the several hold-ups which took place here a few weeks ago. Detective Pender took the photos of the three men to Salt Lake Thursday, and in company with Detective Sheets the two Wilson boys who were held up in Ogden the early part of last month and robbed of a gold watch and some noney, were hunted up, but they could and his son recognized Cannon as be Tybouldt as the man who stood at the r of the store watching. The identileation was positive. The police have ilso secured evidence that the men tent for a full set of burglars' tools, and hat they also bought pistols. ## SPANISH FORK JEX FAMILY REUNION.

Seventieth Anniversary of William Jex's Natal Day.

Special Correspondence. Spanish Fork, Utah Co., Sept. 5 .- This Latter-day Gospel is a marvel in working wonders in more ways than one. The truthfulness of the above re-mark is exemplified in what mark is exemplified in what was brought out at the Jex family reunion brought out at the Jex family reuhion in celebrating Wm. Jex's 76th birth-day. He and wife came to Uith in 1854, and their descendants today number 16 families, with a total of 100 souls, every one members of the Church. Besides putting in sixteen years of mis-sionary labor abroad, there are three sionary infor abroad, there are three Bishops in the family, with Bishops' counselors, Stake presidency of Young Men's and Young Ladles' associations, and officers in every ward organization as well as presidents of Seventies. The "News" is the favorite paper Seventies.

for these people for ten Semi-Weeklies and the faile comprise their reading matter. Only one other newspaper o section of the country has been blessed of late with most opportune weather. The result thereof is manifested in an assured abundant harvest, which is now in full swing. All crops are look-ing splendid, and the promise of a bountiful reward for labor expended is in view. Our orchards are a sight to behold, loaded down with fruit. The ranges are gicing promise of abundance for stock. The sheep industry is inter-esting; our local citizens many of them are going into the business, and no doubt our grazing lands will be utilized by men living among us, there-by centralizing money here for the future development of this favored locality. MOUNT PLEASANT.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition -- is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sore, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system A CONSTANT DRAIN all morbid, UPON THE SYSTEM. When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or nicer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, diseased body. Mr. J. B. Talbert, Lock Box 245, Winona, Miss., says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Springs, but found no relief. I was induced to try S. S. S. and it made a complete cure. I have been a per-fectly well man ever since." tly well man ever since

SSSS is the only purely veg-etable blood purifier known — contains no poisonous minerals to ruin the digestion and add to, rather than relieve your suffer-ings. If your fiesh does not heal readily when scratched, bruised or cut, your blood is in bad condition, and any ordinary sore is apt to become chronic. nd for our free book and write our in spite of its jungles, its vines, its network of roots and its swamps and bogs, on our left, and before us the wide stretch of sandy beach. The tide was out. A thousand sand spiders and crabs scampered at our approach or sought safety in their holes. Large sea birds circled around us, as if to say, What right have you to invade our territory?" and several times we thought a shark's fin could be seen gliding along on the surface, as the monster came into shallow water. To all of these beauties another was added. Along the shore are numerous cocoanut trees, almost all of them bearing fruit, and often we would stop and regail the inner man with a drink of fresh milk, straight from the tree that produced lt. Our Indian was Our Indian was expert not alone in obtaining the fruit but in preparing it for eating and drinking. One stroke with his machete out the outside busk, and the soft shelt inside as well, leaving the milk and meat exposed for use. During the middle of the day and until 5 o'clock p. m. we laid over awaiting the next low tide. Now we enjoyed a bath in the breakers. The beach was sandy, the water clear, the breakers high, and we were tem We were knocked about, turned heels over head, had our eyes, our nose and mouth filled with salt water and sand were struck by the waves and dashed around unmercifully, all of which we called surf-bathing and enjoyed it very We continued on the road that night until nine o'clock when we came to a river emptying rapidly into the ocean. The Indian, after testing the current, reported that it was too swift to cross, and that we would have to camp for the night. I disliked camp-ing until we reached our intended point a few miles farther on, where there was feed for our stock, and told him to try it again. He made a feeble attempt that quite put me out of pa-tience, so I determined to try it myself. The night was very dark, and the loca-tion of a ford difficult, but I stripped and went in. To my surprise I found a current that would easily take a mule off his feet, and I was glad enough to get out without having to float down to the ocean and come out with the breakers. Our camp was on the shore, but not much above high tide mark, as the land was low everywhere, Several times in the night the waves almost reached our tent. A heavy wind in the right direction would have washed us out.

TRAVEL BETWEEN TIDES.

The next day was a short one, and with no other accident than the tum-bling of a couple of mules down a bank we reached Puerto Dominical, where we found some people in a small hut, good feed for our inules, and a little lood for ourselves. The people, Indians from Boruca, do not make their home here, but come twice a year to tend to a banana orchard and corn field, and to gather the harvest. We were pleased gave us part of the hut for our things and extended to us the best they had, which, however, was not much, outside of some good coccanuts and yams, THE WORST ROADS YET.

The next day we reached Uvita. This is a day we shall never forget, for the roads in pure badness discounted anything and everything we had had be-fore. Mr. Pittler, in giving us guiding notes for the journey, wrote: "Here you might find the worst roads, and I do not think your mules will be able to carry their packs over them. I ad-vise you to get a boat at Dominical and take the packs by water." But there was no boat, and no other way than to have our mules try at least to carry their packs. The roads were partly by sea shore and part-ly over bold promontories very steep, and very rocky. The shore was the worse. It was lined with heavy rock, wore sharp by the action of the wave worse. It was incd with heavy rock, worn sharp by the action of the waves, or made slippery by the growth of mass. The boulders were thick in places and the poor beasts worried over them sometimes with a jump and a rush, at nearer to us. In a half hour we were through, and crossing a small estro were soon in the village, greatly to the astonishment of the villagers. There was no pasturage for our mules, so borrowing a canoe, I and the Indian crossed the narrow bay and from a grove of wild cane obtained a boat full of cane tops, which the hungry animals greatly relished.

A PRODUCTIVE LAND.

It may be noticed that all along the shore for the last three days of our trip the mountains hug the shore, in places coming down to the ocean in rocky promontories. There are places between the promontories, however, beautiful valleys opening where to the sea are found rich and comparatively out. with rich and comparatively level land. Usually there is a river or small stream of water running through them. Of size, they comprise all the way from a thousand to ten thousand acres of land. There is no harbor, and the sea is usually rough, or no doubt some of these ideal place would long since have attracted the settler. In some of these, such as Uvita, a few acres of the land is owned, and a little aranch established, but otherwise the land is all public. About the only pro-ducts that could be grown with profit for export, are cacao and rubber, but these would yield abundantly. Bana-nas, plantains, yams, corn and cocoanuts are now raised, and for these also the land is well adapted.

The plantain is far superior both as a fruit and a vegetable, to the banana. They are dearer, as the stocks do not yield so well, but their superiority makes up for the extra expense. An average plantain is about 8 inches long and as thick as one's wrist, but we have seen many, especially here at Pun-ta Mala, 12 inches long and as big around as one's arm. A banana a foot long and weighing two pounds would be a curiosity in our home markets, but here they are common in the plantain part of the banana family. This fruit is good also as a vegetable, and in the scarcity of corn is used by the natives as their staff of life. It is good roasted and helled fried on each when they and bolled, fried or raw, when thor-oughly ripe. It is sweeter than a banoughly ripe. It is sweeter than a ban-ana and contains much more food pro-perties. If once introduced at home at a reasonable price, I feel certain it would take the place to a great extent of the sweet potato and the bana-na. Its long keeping qualities render it a good shipper, for in a cool place it can be kept for a month in good

Tomorrow we start on our road for Boruca, three days' drive from here, and a heavy drive, for much of the way will be up hill, and one day will be very severe. As we shall pass no ranches on the way, we are laying in a supply of food, which consists chiefly of plantains and a little meat. BENJ. CLUFF. JR.
