and which, with the two kinked at the morning session, made a total of eight for the day.
Perhaps the most sensational case heard in the afternoon was that of Bertha E. O'Donnell against Thos. O'Donnell. The testimony in behalf of pialntiff showed that O'Donnell had been convicted of burglary and after he served as term in the state prison he called at the home of his mother-in-law. Mrs. Alvina Pratt. In this city, and asked to see his wife. Sherefused to see him or to have anything to do with him, and he called a second time, armed with a razor and forced his way into the house. He threatened to kill his wife, whereupon Mrs. Pratt grabbed a chair and struck him over the head with it. This dayed him and he left the house without further trouble and has never been seen since. They were married in this city on May IS. 1898. The court took the case under advisement until next week to allow plaintiff to get evidence of defendant's prison career.
Divores were granted to plaintiffs in the following cases:
