

most practicable route for the great Pacific Railroad that will be found in this north country.

The natives are peaceable. The roads for hauling out of the valley are almost impassable.

ADMISSION OF DESERET.

Telegrams published by us on the 3d instant informed the public that our Delegate, Hon. W. H. Hooper, had introduced a bill to create the office of Surveyor-General for this Territory, and establish a land office, also to extend the Homestead and Pre-emption laws over the Territory. We learn from the Washington Globe of the 3d, that he also introduced a bill for the admission of Deseret into the Union, which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on the Territories. The Captain is evidently determined to keep the subject upon the tapis.

LOCAL ITEMS.

SAB BATH MEETINGS.—Elder Orson Pratt occupied the forenoon. He spoke on the blessings that have been received by, and that are promised to, the Saints; and the increased responsibilities which thereby rest upon them to work righteously.

Afternoon.
Elder George Q. Cannon spoke. His remarks were reported.

Elder R. Williams bore his testimony.
Elder Joseph W. Young spoke of the revelations which have been made known to the Saints, and reasoned on the importance of living up to the knowledge thus revealed, instead of seeking for further revelations without abiding in those which have been given. He reasoned on the difference between faith and belief, and bore testimony to two remarkable instances of healing which he had himself experienced.

THE LITTLE DEARS.—We are fond of infants, the little darlings, as everybody ought to be; and we like to see them, and hear them sometimes, in their proper places; but a theatre, in the light of an interesting scene, when the audience is giving to an actor its greatest tribute of praise, wraps attention, is not exactly the place where we like to hear the "shrill treble" of their infantile voices. Mothers like, occasionally, to see the play, and they like, always, to have their infant treasures with them, but we would suggest that the little ones be left in charge of some competent person at home while mammas visit the Theatre; then they will not disturb the entire audience, and, perhaps in a most interesting part of the play, attract the attention of all present from the stage and the actors, where it ought to be directed. By all means let them be kept from the Theatre, until they are old enough to understand something of the performance and be able to enjoy it.

THEATRICAL.—There was a good house on Saturday evening at the last representation of "Henry IV." and Mr. Couldock's Falstaff.

Miss Nunn's singing and Miss Clive's dancing drew accolades.

To-morrow evening "Richard III." is announced for performance. This great tragedy is so well known that comment on it is needless. Perhaps no one of Shakespeare's productions has so often drawn such immense audiences, and in no character drawn by Shakespeare has dramatic genius won greater triumphs than in that of the cruel and bloody Richard. The part has never been attempted here but by Mr. Lyne; and there is little doubt but a very crowded house will assemble to witness it to-morrow night, with Mr. Couldock as the tyrant hunchback. Miss Couldock plays Lady Anne. The other characters are in capable hands. The farce of "My Wife's Maid" follows, making, altogether, a very strong, and a lengthy bill. The audience should be seated at seven o'clock, the time appointed for the performance to commence.

MASONIC.—On Friday evening last the W. satch Lodge held their monthly meeting, and with other business transacted, the following officers were elected: R. H. Robertson, Worshipful Master; S. S. Walker, Senior Warden; E. B. Zabriskie, Junior Warden; M. H. Walker, Treasurer; J. Cunningham, Secretary; O. F. Strickland, Senior Deacon; W. R. Story, Junior Deacon; George Bauman and J. Swartz, Stewards; and H. Reuben, Tyler.

REMOVED.—Messrs. Strickland & Robertson, Attorneys-at-Law, have removed their office from East Temple Street, to 2nd South Street, up stairs, above the Store, occupied by R. G. Sneath.

RISING.—The City prison is rising, and one story is nearly completed. The workmen continue working on it; more than two-thirds of the rock for it is already hauled; and teams are still employed bringing the residue of the rock for its erection.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The past fine weather has been wisely and judiciously taken advantage of by those who have had buildings under course of erection. The result is that several buildings which would have suffered severely had stormy weather set in, are now covered, and the inside work can be prosecuted at leisure.
