Farmers Win Prizes From Provincial Fair for Cereals.

Special Correspondence.

Special Correspondence. Cardiston, Alberta, Canada, March 5.— The Cardston district has finally put on a boom. Numerous transfers of reality lately made show advances in values nearly double those of six months ago. There is also considerable activity in the building trades. Through the "Dominion Seed Grow-ers Association," and the superiority of selected seed grown here the Cardston district achieved additional honors by being ordered to ship two bushels of "Alberta Red" winter wheat to the exhibition branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa. This wheat will be re-shipped from Ottawa to Dub-lin where it will be placed on exhibition at the Irish Fair.

In where it will be placed on exhibition at the Irish Fair. In addition to this order the govern-ment immigration department pur-chased 85 bushels of seed barley from a local farmer for free distribution. Word just received from the provin-clal seed fair now being held at Ed-monton, brings the glad news that this district captured all prizes for best samples of winter wheat, second for spring wheat, first for oats and second for barley. On the beels of the report, came inquiries for options on all avail-able farm lands situated not too far from railway transportation. Markets are continuing the vesy best, especially for good work teams. The "roller mills" have installed steam power, so that now there is an increased activity in export trade.

The weather of late has been all that could be desired; the health of the peo-ple good, and the rigors of winter al-most forgotten.

BOOKS AND THE

STRENUOUS LIFE.

Not least among the beneficient uses of books is their value as counter-checks to tendencies for the moment dominant—as reminders for the moment dominant—as reminders of the exist-ence of permanent standards which might otherwise, "in the clamor and rumor of things to be," find them-selves brushed aside and forgotten. There are periods in the world's his-tory when great works have to man-age to get themselves done somehow, and the noise of the operation is so deatening as to drown the scatter and sweeter sounds. Suppose you live across the street from where an 18-story office building is in process of diligent construction. The incessant chargor of the riveting machine and the hiss of escaping steam grow in the course of weeks to seem essential con-comitants of life. Then a fine Sunday comes, and you hear a bird sing in a dominant-as reminders of the exist Industrial Activity in Big Horn Col-

Then a fine Sunday comes, and you hear a bird sing in a tree which the march of progress has spared-mand you remember that there are other and pleasanter sounds than those which have filled all your waking moments on week days. So it is with the life of which the skyscrapers are the instruments and symbols. I was talking the other day with a young man of parts whom I had not seen since his graduation from college. There, he had shown an in-terest and a pretty taste in letters, and I had hoped to see him add some-thing of his own. But now he said, firmly though with a becoming diffi-dence of manner. That is incontestably the view which, owing perhaps to the Ameri-can's "extra drop of nervous fluid." of which Colonel Higginson somewhere speaks, is increasingly held by our aspiring youth: and "furious molling in the gold mill" becomes increasingly the law of our being. Imme-diately after the adoption of the Dec-laration of Independence, on July 4 1776, a committee was appointed to prepare a device for a seal, but the matter was not consummated until the date first mentioned. The device is on one side, a spread eagle, with a shield having thirteen stripes paleways and a chief azure, in one talon a bun-die of arrows, in the other an olive branch, in its beak a scroll with the motto "E Pluribus Unum" and over its head a glory breaking from the clouds, surrounding thirteen stars. the reverse is an unfinished pyramid symboling the growth and strength of the states, over it the all seeing eye in a triangle surrounded by a glory, and around the rim the words, "Annuit Coeptis" (God has favored the under-taking) and "Novus Ordo Seculorum (a new order of things). SHOCKING GUN ACCIDENT. A very singular and sad death occurred on the bad lands just west of the Ashley valley this week. Jerman Herrea, a young Mexican, went out to herd sheep of the county commissioners. Mr. Hack-ing learned Tuesday that his sheep were scattered and no berder at the camp. A searching partywent out Wednesday and they found the body of the herder, about three-quarters of a mile north of the camp. Just south of the old Indian trait. Careful investigation was made and no indications of foul play were evident. The man lay upon his rifle, a wound under the chin and an ugly hole in the top of his head. The body was brought to the val-ley and Precinct Judge Brig. Christensen was summoned to hold an liquest. It was decided that the man came to his death by an accidental gunshot wound. It seems he was standing with his chin resting outschered. Marriage licenses have been issued to the following couples: James Howarth of Nephi and Mary Newman of St. Johns.
