THE DESERET HOSPITAL, UNDER the most favorable auspices, is now open for the reception of patients, having removed to that large and commodious building lately occupied by the Deseret University. The appointments are new and of the first order. The halls and rooms are thoroughly ventilated, and warmed by a furnace and steam heating apparatus extending through the whole building. Good and capable nurses are supplied, and every attention paid to the comfort and welfare of its inmates. The medical department comprises a fine stock of drugs, and a line of some of the most valuable and elegant surgical instruments and appliances ever imported into the Territory. Arrangements have been made to secure the first medical talent the city affords for the benefit of patients. A specialty is made of the diseases of women, and correspondence is solicited from the afflicted.

Hereby cautions the public NOT to Employ or Communicate With a man styling himself "Dr. Foot, Jr." without making due inquiry.

This man came to Salt Lake City representing himself as the son of Dr. E. B. FOOTE of New York, the well known specialist, as abundantly proved by affidavits. As rumors came into Salt Lake City from Dakota and Montana from an exposure made there, he changed his base and represented himself as the son of a more noted specialist in New York City than Dr. E. B. FOOTE, the well known author. Mr. JOHN F. THOW, of the well known THOW Directory, in New York City (forty years in the directory business), Ex-Governor FRANK FULLER, of Utah, and the Hon. ABRAM WAKEMAN, for many years Postmaster in New York City, and Surveyor of the Port, gave their affidavits that there are no other doctors in New York by the name of FOOT or FOOTE, excepting Dr. E. B. FOOTE, the the author of "Medical Common Sense," etc., and he has two sons, Dr. E. B. FOOTE, JR., and Dr. HUBERT T. FOOTE. The genuine Dr. FOOTE, Jr., will hereafter always employ the initials, E. B., in designating his name. Therefore he has been known not only at home but wherever his publications have been circulated, by the name of Dr. FOOTE, Jr. Greater care will be taken hereafter, in view of the fact that an unprincipled person has assumed to profit by his and his father's reputation.

ANTI-"MORMONISM" IN BRISTOL.

JARMAN RABID AS EVER—DEFENSE OF "MORMONISM" BY A SECULARIST—SUGGESTION THAT JARMAN'S CHARACTER BE SHOWN UP HERE.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 22, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

Some of the people of Utah will doubtless remember a creature named Wm. Jarman, who figured some years ago in the police court in Salt Lake City as the defendant in a larceny case, when he escaped justice through a technicality, and who behaved so badly to his family that no one could live with him. He left Utah, went to California and subsequently returned and tried his hand at swindling people in mining matters. He next turned up in New York, where that theological jumping-jack Talmage patronized him as an anti-"Mormon" lecturer with magic-lantern appendages. But even the reckless pulpit contortionist of Brooklyn was sickened with one dose of Jarman and promptly shut off the "series of lectures by Rev. W. Jarman ex-'Mormon' High Priest, etc.," after one disgusting exhibition of Billingsgate illiteracy and mendacity.

The renegade then came to the shores of his native land, where he hoped his youthful villainies were forgotten, or that they would be condoned by virtue of his

RAMPANT ASSAULTS UPON "MORMONISM."

The latter surmise proved to be correct, and pious "Christian" ministers have here and there taken him under their wing and put him forward under their sanction, buffoonery, profanity, lunacy and all, because he is perfectly indifferent to truth or consistency, but launches out into the most rabid and filthy tirades against the "Mormons." It is marvelous to a thoughtful person that such a low, repulsive and evidently degraded creature as this Jarman can gain public attention.

On any theme but "Mormonism" he could not draw the notice of even a group of country bumpkins. But in Sheffield, Leicester and other large towns he has raised such a furore as to drive thousands of people into anti-"Mormon" frenzy. His latest exploits have stirred up a tumult in Bristol, where a mob of zealous "Christians" burst into the Saints' meeting house, and, after assaulting the Elders, destroyed the communion service, stole hymn books and would have committed personal outrages but for the intervention of the police.

A gentleman named John W. White, a secularist of nobility and prominence who has been an eyesore to the sectarians in that vicinity, because of their failure to worst him in argument or frighten him by their violence, seeing through the villainy of Jarman and the hypocrisy of the preachers who supported him, arose in one of the Jarman's anti-"Mormon" meetings and attempted to show the audience what kind of a being they were listening to. The result may best be seen by reading the following from a letter which Mr. White wrote to a friend who sent it to Elder Ricy Jones with whom Mr. White had had some correspondence, and it is now forwarded with the witnes's consent to the DESERET NEWS: [An account of the same affair was published in the News some time since but it will be seen that this statement gives more of the details. Ed. D.E.N.]

MR. WHITE'S LETTER.

"The following will show you the vileness of that rascal Jarman. On Monday last, the first evening of his proceedings in Bristol, I attended his lecture and accepted his challenge to defend Mormonism, at which he was surprised, for the reason that he well knew in former places wherein he had appealed no one was in a position like myself to challenge him, he also knew that the appearance of a 'Mormon' on Jarman's platform after he had appealed to the passions of the people would, as I shall show, result in riot and lynch law. I would strongly advise any 'Mormon' not to show on Jarman's platform, for the audience, backed by the police, will be totally against him. However, I was requested by Jarman's bump-feeler and a portion of the audience to go on the platform, which I did: on my way thither I saw Jarman, earnestly asking who I was, and when I came to the platform. I stated that I was not a 'Mormon,' but a secularist, and only wished to appeal to the audience for civil and religious liberty, all to follow any religious belief they felt to be true, with equality in the eye of the law. Directly the vile apostate had information of my reasoning powers, he appealed most earnestly to the animal passions of his audience not to hear me. Then arose a scene of howls, groans, mingled with cries of "turn him out," and "lynch White," but White is too much accustomed to such Christian courtesies, and refused to leave the platform until Jarman had promised to allow me discusssion at the end of his peep-show. I then left the platform and took my seat in the body of the hall, amid the derisive cheers of Jarman's sympathisers. At the end of the show Jarman turned down the platform gas and walked off the platform. End of Act I.

ACT II.

On the following Friday evening I again attended Jarman's meeting, of which I had given previous notice, attended by two friends and armed with documents, fatal, if allowed to be fairly used, to his monstrous perversions of the truth. I awaited my turn for the challenge and informed Jarman that I wished to debate his wild assertions, he again appealed to the people against me; however, myself and two friends forced our way to the platform and a cowardly director of the hall named Pine, pushed my two friends over the platform stairs; his valor and directorship were tempered with a little discretion when I arrived—we knew each other in past matters—and we were allowed on the platform. I appealed to the people to show me a little of that "British fair play" that English bullies boast of, and told them that I had in my possession a letter from one of Jarman's ex-wives I wished one of my friends to read to the audience. Curiosity temporarily became a substitute for passion, and we obtained a hearing to read the letter. I stationed myself at the front of the platform, Jarman on my right and my friend who read the letter on the left; I did this telling Jarman that whatever resulted I would knock him over the platform if he made any attempt to snatch the paper from my friend's hands. Jarman had a six-shooter and another pistol on the table by his side. I then gave my friend the copies of the police and divorce court proceedings which had taken place in Utah, to read. It was a picture to watch Jarman's face, in its calm moments not containing a ray of intellectuation; it was now a picture of intoxicated rage and fear, his mouth and eyes twitching, his hands clasped as if appealing to the people for sympathy. Mind you, hundreds against three! My friend now became nervous and could not proceed with the reading. The apostate taking advantage of this again successfully appealed to the people; then commenced a scene that almost baffled description even to a cool observer. The Christian bullies charged the platform over chairs and any other obstacle that came in their way, with cries of "Lynch White," hoots, groans, howls and screams of women and children. The cowardly blackguards reached the foot of the platform and seeing that I did not flinch an inch from them but stood waiting their attack and bowing and laughing at them. The gas was turned down and the meeting broken up without the picture show and the 'Christian' bullies waiting in Cumberland Street to lynch one man

"My next proceeding was to again challenge Jarman, for I should have mentioned in Act I that I had, in the presence of the audience, used the following expression to Jarman's face: "Jarman, you are a wicked, monstrous liar," and "I challenge you to enter an action for libel." Mr. A. V. Call, a 'Mormon', heard me use the expressions in the ante-room. We selected a committee of six to inquire into the case on the following (Saturday) morning. I was simple enough to think I had obtained a modicum of justice from the renegade, but Saturday evening came and I found that his idea was only to get copies of the paper in my possession and his committee would not even allow a private discussion with my committee. End of Act II.

ACT III.

"Saturday evening came, and as the fact had been spread that a debate between Jarman and myself would take place, the hall was crowded in every part. The apostate arrived on the platform with a host of papers, with which he occupied nearly two hours in pleading his cause to the people. He stated that his wife wrote the letter, a copy of which, from the Star, was in my possession, with a revolver at her head. He said that his conduct in the past had nothing to do with his present, as he had been penitent for his error in joining the 'Mormon' Church. He appealed to the audience not to hear me because I was an Atheist, and he won applause by stating that only the Atheist scoundrels allowed the 'Mormons' fair play; and he used libelous expressions about my character. In addition four policemen were present to arrest me at his bidding; however, as policemen and brute force have no effect on me, I went to the platform and obtained the chairman's sanction to address the audience. Jarman had gone to the ante-room to dress as a 'Mormon' High Priest, and as soon as he found I was on the platform he returned to it and advised my being put off. Then commenced a scene of riot even worse than on the previous evening, but again the police and rioters were afraid to tackle me, and the meeting was broken up in disorder.

"Even to those possessing a knowledge of human nature, its passions and sympathies, reason fails to understand the morbid condition of mind of the majority in applauding such wretched scandals for an intelligent brain must recognize the truth that such hellish proceedings as the apostate describes would not be tolerated in any country. Genesis informs us that the Creator made man in his own image, it is only charitable to suppose that some distortion from the original took place in Jarman's make up.

"In my attempts to be heard I succeeded in establishing the right of the 'Mormons' to an exposition of their doctrines as well as to show that there existed a defense for them. Had my defense, when heard, proved untrue, Jarman would have won a victory instead, he has been defeated, in the minds of thoughtful people."

The foregoing shows the spirit in which any attempt to meet the vagabond who is bringing trouble upon the Saints in many parts of England, will be met by the roughs backed by the clergy who support the impostor. At present it is useless to reason with them. This excitement, however, will subside, and sensible people will listen to facts and testimony. The results will be good. In places where the noise has quieted down, the meeting houses of the Saints formerly unnoticed, are attended by many strangers, and better opportunities than afforded for years are opened for the dissemination of the truth.

A SUGGESTION.

In view of disabusing rational people's minds of the falsehoods told by Jarman, would it not be a good idea to get up and publish in the DESERET NEWS, an array of evidence concerning that erratic and villainous person, which can be used to show his true character? Let statements be obtained from those whom he has defrauded and attempted to defraud, his abused and forsaken family and those who know of his infamy in England and America, when sworn to before a competent officer be published under one head in the DESERET NEWS. This may be a little out of the ordinary course of that paper, but circumstances warrant the proceeding.

It is only by convincing the public of the kind of thing they are feeding and pampering that the violence he is inciting can be stopped. Every man from Utah who attempts to correct his libels he points out as a "murderer with fifty or a hundred wives whom he chains up and beats," as a "leader at Mountain Meadows," as a "Danite," or as one who "dug his grave when the Mormons were going to cut his throat," or something else equally vile. If the News will publish facts concerning this creature that can be used by friends like Mr. White who by the by are few and far between, they will do more to counteract the atrocious libels spread abroad than a cataract of argument. Silence has been the policy pursued here in relation to him up to the time of Mr. White's appearance against Jarman, but this may not always be wise. In case of need, such affidavits would be appreciated by many and might be of great benefit to EXILE.
