Passed Away Suddenly When Convalescing from Severe Illness.

Special Correspondence.

Special Correspondence. Franklin, Oneida Co., Ida., June 18.— On Saturday night, the 11th Instant, Mrs. Lottle Adamson, wife of Mr. An-drew Adamson, passed suddenly to the great beyond, following a severe illness from which it was supposed she had re-covered. The funeral services, post-poned till the return of her daughter from the 'world's fair, were held on Thursday, in the meetinghouse, and it was a very large gathering, the largest was a very large gathering, the largest that has been seen in Franklin for many years. The choir furnished beaumany years. The child furnished beda tiful music. The speakers were Father Kershaw of Preston, Elders William M. Webster and J. J. Hill, all eulogizing the beautiful life of the deceased and offering comfort to the bereaved. Bene-diction was offered by Fatriarch I. other fruit orchard it is just as well to have a fine one as an ordinary kind. The former will not cost much more in the end, and it will prove profitable, while the latter will not. Plant trees of well-known marketable varieties and get good specimens from rellable deal ers. Spray them every season and pro-tect them from pests of all kinds. Do not let them injure themselves by bearing heavily the first two years. Fluck off the blossoms or fruit, so that no limb or branch will be strained. Over-pro-duction at an early age is deadly to a good tree. Each year set out new trees in the place of any that may be injured or killed. Do not have a ragged oror killed. Do not have a ragged or-chard, but try to make every tree come up to the standard. This can be easily done if one has ordinary intelligence and will give the time to the work. Use only cultivated crops in the apple orchard. Wheat, oats and timothy are bad for the trees. They take too much from the soil, but cultivated crops, seeding the land to clover or cowpeas every two years, will produce excellent every two years, will produce excellent results.

ANOTHER THRIVING COLONY. Going Into Fruit Growing - Schools and Other Organizations.

Garland, Boxelder Co., June 16 .--- Last Garland, Boxelder Co., June 16.-Last Sunday at 2 a.m. the east side canal went out again. The break occurred at flume No. 3, about two miles above Collinston. About 150 feet of flume was wrecked. The repair work is be-ing pushed as rapidly as possible. The 11-year-old son of Albert Grover was kicked by a horse on Monday, and sustained a broken leg. The boy is getting along nicely. Garland will have an up-to-date school. Preparations are being made to Special Correspondence,

Tabor, Alberta, Canada, June 16.— Tabor is situated about 25 or 30 miles northeast of Stirling, on the main line of the C. P. railroad. The townsite is as level as a floor. There are about 40 families located near the town of Tabor. They have more good wells today than Raymond has, and they average from 5 to 40 feet deep. The soil is of a sandy nature, and cannot be excelled in Aita. The people are going extensively into

The people are going extensively into fruit raising, expecting to set out about $700 worth of trees this fail. The bountiful harvest which will be reaped at Tabor this fail will prove that be not a soft as a some people is not so dry as some people think it is. A school district has been granted the people, and the trustees have appointe people, and the trustees have appointed a meeting to vote on building a $2,000 schoolhouse, which will be under head-way in a short time. Some of the Church organizations are also being established in the colony. The Sunday school was organized recently, with William Russell as superintendent, and Brothers Layton and Dunkin as assist-cate. It is avaected that a ward orants. It is expected that a ward or-ganization will be effected in the near future.

SMALL ORCHARDS.

It is almost as difficult and expensive to care for five acres of orchard trees as it is for ten, and it is misplaced en-ergy to attempt to plant orchards too ergy to attempt to plant orchards too small to occupy one's full time, says M. T. Warring, in American Cultivator. As a good deal of modern orcharding expense consists in the labor of spray-ing and fighting insects, it will pay better to have an orchard large enough to warrant one in purchesing the nec-oscorr apparation to spray properly. A essary apparatus to spray properly. large orchard also tends to protect itself from the winds, and in winter and summer there may be a consider-able saving from this. The trees on the outside nearly always produce less than ose inside
