ENCOURAGES PRACTICE.

In teaching of the plan to encourage the teaching of the rifle in the militia and rifle practice among the students, the war department has revised the orders governing the allowance of small arms ammunition to institutions at which officers of the army are detailed as instructors. Under the new regulations $21,000 has been set aside for the 100 such institutions to include 100 such institutions, blank ammunition, 22 caliber ball cartridges for gallery practice, and target supplies. Issues will be made on requisitions certified to by the professors of military science and tactics, specifying the actual facilities for the gallery and range practice, the time allotted by the institution, and the number of students enrolled in the military department to whom opportunity is afforded by the authorities of the institution to participate in gallery or range practice or both.

The war department specifies the maximum allowance for each student at 40 rounds of rifle-ball cartridges for each range the total not to exceed

BABY BOY HAD ITCHING HUMOR

Which Broke Out in Different Places—Nothing Would Help Him—Mother Almost in Despair—Skin Quickly Healed Without a Scar and Trouble Has Never Returned

SINCE USING CUTICURA MOTHER GIVES IT PRAISE

"Several months ago, my little boy, now two and a half years old, began to break out with itching sores. I began to treat him, and as soon as I got that he was healed up in one place, he would break out in another. I was almost in despair. I had heard of Cuticura and I had read that it would help him. One evening I read a testimonial from a lady who had cured her little boy with Cuticura. I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and after using them three times, the sores commenced to heal. He is now well, and not a scar is left on his body. They have never returned nor left him with bad blood, as one would think. Cuticura Remedies are the best I have ever tried, and they are surely great. I shall always have them in the house, handy, and shall highly recommend them to any one who is suffering likewise. I cannot give them too much praise. Mrs. William Gooding, 122 Washington St., Attica, Ind., July 22, 1907."

ITCHING TORMENTS From little patches of eczema, tetter, milk crust, scabies, etc., on the skin, scalp, or hands of infants, children, or adults are instantly relieved and speedily cured, in the majority of cases, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great Skin Cure, assisted, when necessary, by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. Cuticura Remedies are guaranteed absolutely pure.

SPLENDID RECIPE TO CURE CATARRH

Gives Advice, Also a Recipe To Cure Catarrh, Which Is Easily Mixed by Anyone.

DIRECTIONS TO PREPARE.

Simple Home Prescription—Make Some Up and Try It—Don't Cost Much and Is Said to Do the Work Promptly.

Here is a prescription which should be valued by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it should prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season. Any one can mix the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce. Compound Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in tea-spoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. Get these ingredients from any pharmacist whom you know handles only pure drugs.

This prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within a year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disease and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within a year.

As this valuable, though simple recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every reader who suffers from catarrh.

WOOD STILL REQUIRED AS BUILDING MATERIAL

Great as the advance in fire-proof construction has been during the last ten years, there has been no let-up in the use of lumber, and both architects and builders find themselves so dependent on wood today that they are compelled to admit that the forests of the country are likely to be the chief source of building material for many years to come.

The use of cement, terra cotta, brick and stone, with a framework of steel, will make it possible soon to do away with wood entirely, "is a remark often heard, and, in a sense, when one stands on the lower Broadway and looks up at the towering skyscrapers, the statement seems to contain much truth. As a matter of fact, however, the popular idea that fire-proof materials will do away with the need of using lumber in a comparatively few years is a very erroneous one. All of the various fire-proof materials going into the approved construction of the more substantial buildings are used in greater quantities now than the world dreamed of a few years ago, yet the heavy demand for lumber continues.

That wood predominates is shown by the annual building records. Of the permits issued for buildings erected last year, approximately 61 per cent were constructed of wood, and the remaining 39 per cent of fire resisting material, according to the report issued by the geological survey on operations in 19 leading cities of the country. These figures are the more significant when it is realized that they only represent the building activities in the largest cities; they do not take into account the construction of dwellings, stores and other buildings in the thousands of small cities and towns scattered over and not included in the 19 cities on which the reckoning is made.

In towns and small cities wood is usually the predominating building material, and it is safe to say that if the statistics had included figures for all places of whatever size, the percentage of wooden construction would have been much greater. These figures, as a rule, are only for the corporate limits, and the suburbs of these cities have each very large amounts to be added. The cost, also, is relatively higher in these cities than in towns nearer the base of the supply.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER SHOT IN STREET DUEL

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—Richard Burke, a bystander, was probably fatally wounded and Andrew Loneragan was shot in the arm in an exciting pistol fight with George Medway in front of the Bellevue Stratford hotel in Broad street here tonight. According to the officers Loneragan and Medway had a dispute Saturday night over the proceeds from the sale of tickets for the army and navy football game which they had been "scalping" together. The men met tonight and the fight was renewed.

VAIL IS MISSING, LIKEWISE FUNDS

Firemen Do Not Seem Much Concerned, Having Known Of Affairs.

SAY HIS MIND IS DERANGED

Friends of Former Fire Chief Believe Poor Health and Business Failures Have Caused His Troubles.

Former Fire Chief Charles T. Vail is missing from the city. He disappeared about two weeks ago after he had sold his interest in an automobile establishment in South Main street. His absence became a matter of interest when it was remembered by the members of the fire department that he was the custodian of a sum amounting to about $7,000, part of which was a fund which is known as the Fireman's fund.

That Vail, for a long period has been suffering from mental disorders his friends say there can be no doubt. After he left the fire department he entered various business ventures and all of these turned out badly. This fact seemed to have preyed on his mind and his closest friends say that his disappearance is the result of their alarm for his safety fearing that he has been injured.

Among the members of the fire department there seems to be an air of indifference and resignation to their fate. All are satisfied that the funds are no more, and some go as far as to state that they knew all the time that the chief had appropriated the money for his own use long before he quit the department.

THE BENEFIT FUND.

The fireman's fund which is supposed to have amounted to $3,875.50 was turned over to Vail by his predecessor, it was money derived from the sale of worn out apparatus and was supposed to have been used as a benefit fund for the firemen. When Vail assumed charge of it the fund was invested in stocks and bonds which were paying good interest. Three months after he entered the office the securities turned over to him were sold through the secretary of the fire department. No accounting was asked from him by the members of the department, who said some time afterwards a few grew suspicious and asked how the fund was. Vail is said to have given his word that it was safe. Matters went in this way until the council asked for Vail's resignation.

About three weeks after Chief Gloré had been installed in the office he petitioned the council to investigate and ascertain the exact amount that was in the fund. He could make a report to the firemen. When Vail found out about this he went to Gloré and assured him that he had the funds, and that they would be turned over in short time. Gloré told him that he did not want them turned over to him personally as in his capacity as chief he thought he had no right to assume charge of them. He told Vail to turn the money over to some bank and deposit it as the fireman's fund. This Vail agreed and promised to do, and the matter was dropped. It now appears that this was never done, and the department had already used the money for his own use.

ENTERED SALOON BUSINESS.

When the action of the council turned Vail out of the fire department, he became connected with the Alamo saloon in Commercial street. It is not known whether he had any money in this enterprise or not, but it is understood that he lent his name to the owner in order that he might make a report to the firemen. When Vail found out about this he went to Gloré and assured him that he had the funds, and that they would be turned over in short time. Gloré told him that he did not want them turned over to him personally as in his capacity as chief he thought he had no right to assume charge of them. He told Vail to turn the money over to some bank and deposit it as the fireman's fund. This Vail agreed and promised to do, and the matter was dropped. It now appears that this was never done, and the department had already used the money for his own use.

RURALISTS ATTEND COUNTRY LIFE MEETING

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 30.—There was a large attendance today of men and women, mostly ruralists, at the meetings of the division of the commission on country life appointed by President Roosevelt, now making investigations in the coast states. Among the members of the commission present were Dr. L. H. Bailey, chairman of the board of agriculture, New York; Henry Wallace of Iowa, W. A. Beard of Sacramento, and Dr. C. E. Stiles of marine hospital corps. Farm and country life in all its phases were widely discussed by the commissioners and farmers. The discussion developed into an inquiry into the question as to the reason why farm life in California has so many sides that are distasteful, both to the farmer and the people who work for him, encouraging a desire for the city with its excitements and greater comforts. Long hours of toil, lack of school facilities, little, if any, social life, a dearth of competent help, and poor prices for products, were some of the reasons given why farm life is distasteful.

This was not a success and Vail gave it up. It was then that his friends noticed the change in the man. It was known that he was not successful in his various schemes to make money and this fact together with failing health caused his wife to fear for his safety.

Mrs. Vail went to Pasadena, Cal., some two or three months ago for her health and Vail stayed in town. On Nov. 19 she wrote to a close friend of Vail and asked for information as to his whereabouts. It was about a week after this that he was last seen.

STANDARD OIL FINE.

Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte Submits Petition For Writ of Certiorari.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Atty. Gen. Bonaparte today submitted to the supreme court of the United States his petition for a writ of certiorari to the circuit court of appeals for the seventh circuit ordering for review the judgment of Judge Landis in the rebate case against the Standard Oil company in which the company was fined $25,000,000.

Atty. J. S. Miller made a request for three weeks' time in which to file a reply brief, but the request was opposed by the attorney general, who said that the government would consent to only two weeks. The court, however, granted the request, fixing Dec. 21, as the time when the brief must be submitted.

The effect of granting Mr. Miller's petition will be to postpone until after the Christmas holidays the court's decision as to whether the Standard Oil case should be reviewed by the supreme court.
