

M. B. MACKEY &amp; CO.

The geographical position of Salt Lake and its status as a commercial metropolis renders it the natural headquarters for printing for a vast region of country. Hence many of the most skillful men of the art have been attracted to this city and the primitive job printing plants of a quarter century ago have grown to the proportions of large and finely equipped publishing houses, where all manner of newspaper, book and fine job printing is executed. A leader of this class is Mackey & Co., at 263 1/2 South Main street. Of this association Mr. W. B. Mackey is president, and Mr. J. G. Colville, secretary and treasurer, both practical printers and young men of the trade, whose enterprising spirits led them first to start the initial plant and whose intelligent industry has enabled them to build up an institution in competition with the largest printing houses of the west. They occupy two stories and a basement, with an office abundantly equipped with every type, all requisite machinery and modern presses. They have been established in Salt Lake for the past 10 years and their record has been that of growth and prosperity. They now employ 20 expert hands and do the best latest labor saving devices known in any of the large eastern cities. The firm is an able and honorable one, and carries and supplies the best in their lines.

JAMES ANDERSON &amp; SONS.

The enormous increase in the demand for castings of all kinds has rendered their manufacture a prominent industry of Salt Lake City, and we have here located a foundry prepared to turn out the best work in the shortest possible time. This is conducted by James Anderson & Sons, and the proprietors are all experienced practical men in the business, who are widely esteemed for their sterling integrity. The foundry is located at No. 344 and 346 west Fifth South street, and this is a modern building equipped with all the best machinery, accessories and appliances and employment is given a large staff of experienced help. The firm are noted for using the best material and for making accurate casting, to any pattern or design, flawless and guaranteed to stand all the strain required, and they turn out all work on short notice and do so at the most reasonable charges. They pay special attention to getting out castings for new inventions, and implements on patents doing the work at very moderate prices, and receive

P. BULLER BREWING CO.

There are many reasons which conduce to our citizens using the product of the P. Buller Brewing Co., and one of these is that the United States Health Bulletin, the highest authority in the republic, has after laboratory tests declared that their beer is the purest and best. Not only is this also admitted by all consumers, but the company is a home institution, operated on home capital and employs a large number of citizens, and it is a business policy to buy from outside points, even were the home product not among the best, as this is. The proprietor of the brewery is Mr. Peter Buller, who succeeded the old firm of A. R. and H. S. Margotta three years ago. He is a genial, liberal and experienced business man, upright in all his dealings and very greatly esteemed by his patrons. The brewery is located at No. 317 Second W. St., telephone 1195, and the plant is excellently equipped, large cooling rooms and storage being utilized, bottling works, and all necessities of a first class brewery in service. P. Buller Brewing Co. manufactures Lager beer and porter, and utilizes only the purest and best hops, malt and filtered water, and their product is absolutely pure while it has a fine flavor. For hot weather it is an ideal drink, being both cooling and a tonic, and is especially good for those suffering from lassitude. It is sold to the trade of the city and surrounding towns at close prices and prompt delivery of all orders is made, and every keg of beer or porter is sent out in perfect condition. The brewery's annual trade is immense and constantly growing.

SAM LEVY CIGAR MFG. CO.

In the manufacturing and handling of choice Havana cigars no house rivals that of the Sam Levy Cigar Mfg. Co., and since it was established in 1870, it has always held a leading position secured from the most progressive class of dealers in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada, and the trade steadily grows each year. Their trade mark "Sam Levy's Famous" denotes that the cigar is made from the purest and best cigars and wrappers, by expert skilled cigar makers, and all ready-made cigars are put up in boxes in the most attractive manner. They make their "Flora De Motto" in five sizes from clear Havana tobacco, and this has become immensely popular. The factory and office are located at 171 South Main street, and the factory is always kept scrupulously clean. The company buys its leaf tobacco with expert judgment and makes special brands to order, as well as making their own standard brands. For all lines of cigars the very closest prices and most liberal terms, and traveling salesmen are constantly on the road, and all orders are promptly filled.

KELLY &amp; COMPANY

Prominent among the most progressive concerns in the city is Messrs. Kelly & Company whose modern equipped plant is located at 68 West Second South street, phone 122 k. They are manufacturers of Kelly's patent flat opening blank books, the strongest and best made, while they do the best class of commercial printing, book binding, engraving, etc., and make a leading specialty of furnishing Loose Leaf Leaders of the best makes with all the necessary equipment, making right in their own plant on short notice leave to suit any business. Stock certificates are engraved and seals made to order, in fact they make a specialty of stock ledgers, assessment books and all required stationery and they have a very large trade in Salt Lake City and throughout Utah and adjoining states. All mail orders being promptly filled. They carry in stock a well selected stock of stationery, office supplies, legal blanks, filing cabinets, etc. Messrs. H. Kelly and Mr. Albert H. Kelly, Jr. are the co-partners, have established a reputation for carrying in stock the thoroughly the cleaning and repairing of garments becomes a part of the work of almost all tailors, and the character of the work performed varies with the dispositions and the consciences of the men who propose to do it. Hence the results are good, bad or indifferent, according to the person or the establishment where the work is done. The Salt Lake Cleaning company was organized by an association of reputable business men, incorporated in June, 1902, the design being the establishment of a first-class house for cleaning and dyeing, where only thorough standard work was to be done, and satisfaction given in every case. That this plan of business has been faithfully adhered to is evidenced by the large daily budget of work that turned out; also that the company, though in operation only a little more than one year, now employs eight skilled workmen and the entire force is kept constantly busy dyeing, cleaning, repairing, pressing and putting the clothing of the people in a thoroughly renovated condition. Mr. M. Redell is president of the company and Mr. W. H. Innis, secretary. The work rooms occupy a floor space of 25,150 feet, at No. 27 east Third South street, and is the largest house of its kind in the city, or in the state. Such are their facilities that every individual order receives immediate attention and calls and deliveries of work are made to any part of the city.

PARISIAN CLEANING AND DYEING WORKS.

A glance at the price list of the Parisian Cleaning & Dyeing Works will assure the reader that the charges made for the very best work at this progressive establishment are not only moderately moderate. The finely equipped plant at 55 west First South street, telephone 1411, was established one year ago, and the proprietor, Mr. G. W. Meeks, and his appliances are in service. The proprietor, Mr. Camille Pauline, is a young enterprising business man, honorable and upright in his dealings. Dry cleaning of ladies' garments, gloves, ribbons, etc., and of piece goods for the trade is a specialty, gentlemen's clothing being also dry cleaned, pressed, etc., and dyeing is a leading feature of the business.

COE BROS.

For the past thirty years the firm of Coe Bros., the popular carriage workers and blacksmiths of this city have been accorded a very large and growing patronage due in a great measure to the excellent work they turn out and the promptness in filling all orders. The partners are skilled, practical men in all branches of their business, while in the repairing of vehicles they have the services of Mr. G. W. Meeks, a specialist in this line of great ability, and no firm has a higher reputation for liberal and fair dealing or is more generally respected by the community. Their spacious shop is at 125 East Fourth South street, where they occupy an entire two story brick building, 50x125 feet on ground area, well filled up and equipped with the best machinery, tools and appliances, and only expert help is employed. They make a specialty of carriage repair work, carriage painting, putting on of rubber tires, setting tires, scientific horse shoeing, and general blacksmith work and in every branch accord the most entire satisfaction to their patrons while their prices are exceptionally moderate and they cheerfully furnish estimates when desired. Telephone 1134 k.

SALT LAKE SHOE AND REPAIRING CO.

Those who desire easy fitting, comfortable and shape retaining footwear will always find it if they have their boots and shoes made to order by a firm which cuts a last to fit each foot and makes up their goods on scientific principles. In Salt Lake City this great desideratum can be found at the Salt Lake Shoe and Repairing company, of 372 South Main, near Fourth South street, which has built up a large local patronage. The proprietor is Mr. S. A. Johnson, an expert practical shoemaker of wide experience, thoroughly capable and reliable. Ladies and gentlemen's footwear is made to order at very

CUNNING DECOY; MYTHICAL FORTUNE

Two Aged Men Lured Eleven Thousand Miles and Mercilessly Begged for a Joke.

FROM AUSTRALIA TO ENGLAND.

Expected Great Riches But Landed Penniless to Find Themselves Victims of a Hoax.

Special Correspondence.

London, Sept. 23.—When first the story was told in a London police court the other day of how John and Frederick Goodwin, two old men of scanty means, had been lured from their homes in Australia to this country by the promise of an imaginary fortune, it appeared as if their case was about the best possible warning to folks in America and elsewhere who are inclined to nibble at the tempting bait thrown out by wily "next-of-kin" agents here. But the amazing fact brought out by the later developments in this mysterious affair is that apparently no one profited in the slightest extent by getting this credulous pair to spend every penny they possessed in getting from the Antipodes to London and stranding them here. No "missing heirs" agency even tried to get money out of them, so the explanation seems to be that whoever inserted in the Australian newspapers the advertisement by which the Goodwins were duped into believing themselves heirs to $450,000 and who kept up the game of deception right up to their arrival in this country, so as just for a joke. Of these two disheartened men, whose only request is now that they may be provided with means of getting back to Australia, the elder is nearly 70, and the other only a few years younger. The former, John Goodwin, was a watchman at a hospital at a small town in Queensland, with a salary of $500 a year besides his board. He was married to one of the attendants at the hospital. The other brother, Frederick Goodwin, was a shepherd in New South Wales, who had laid up a little money. The Goodwins came to Australia together from England in 1861, but they afterward separated and actually had not seen or heard of each other for years until the advertisement published in the Australian papers led to the effect that they were heirs to a fortune finally brought them together a few months ago.

THIS CAUGHT THEM.

This was the advertisement that caught the eye of both men, printed in their daily newspapers: "Goodwin—If this should meet the eye of John Mackenzie or Frederick Holland Goodwin, sons of F. C. Goodwin, M. D., late of Manchester, Lancashire, England, who sailed per ship Waverley from East Indies Dock, London, for Brisbane (Captain Murphy) 1861. Uncle Holland dead; money and property left £450,000. Communicate Harrison and Baxter, solicitors, High Holborn, London, or Sir Humphrey de Trafford, Trafford Park, Manchester, Lancashire, England."

Now the Goodwins did hail from Manchester, they had sailed on the ship named, and they had an "Uncle Holland" so they never doubted they were the persons "wanted." John Goodwin was the first of the two brothers arrival and that the nobleman had died, and the "heirs" should go to Manchester immediately and apply to a legal firm there whose name was mentioned, and receive from these lawyers their inheritance.

NO SUCH FIRM.

But when the brothers, having hurried to Manchester, tried to find the legal firm at the address furnished them, they failed. There was no such firm in Manchester. Then they called at the office of Sir Humphrey de Trafford, also in Manchester, where, though they were treated politely, the half-crazed men were told nothing was known of any relative of theirs having died and left a legacy for them. Almost hopeless now they spent all the money they had left between them in getting back to London and there made search for "Messrs. Harrison & Baxter." But in High Holborn, where the lawyers' offices were supposed to be located, no such law firm existed. And so the two old men at last gave up and realized that they had been duped.

DISAPPEARED ENTIRELY.

Evidently the disappointment was too much for the younger brother, Frederick, for he disappeared entirely after the last face and John Goodwin has no idea what has become of him. The latter, however, continued in making his way to the police court in the Southwark district of London and laying his case before the magistrate there. At first, of course, he was looked upon with some suspicion, but in inquiries made by the police have established the fact that everything that he has said is true, and that he and his brother had arrived in London from Australia together.

ADRIPT AND PENNILESS.

Meanwhile this man of nearly 70, heart, penniless, in what is now a strange country to him, is in about as dire a straits as a man could be in. He has no sort of work except such as he did in Australia. Meanwhile two sisters, the Southwark police court magistrate advised him to apply to the agent general in London of the Queensland government for means of getting back to his home and his wife. The official, however, replied that there were no funds for such a purpose and actually advised the veteran, who, by the way, is partially crippled, to try for a job as a stoker!

FROM THE "POOR BOX."

At present, John Goodwin is living on 75 cents a day which the Southwark magistrate has allowed him from the public poor box. Meanwhile two sisters of the Goodwins have turned up in London, having learned from the newspapers of their brothers' straits. From them, the disappointed fortune-seeker has learned that their "Uncle Holland" died many years ago, leaving about $2,000, which was bequeathed, however, to some illegitimate children of his with a small reversion to his niece the only one of his brothers' family whom he remembered in his will. The sisters have no means of their own, both being "companions" and are unable to do anything of consequence to assist their brother.

WHY NOT IT?

But there is no light upon the mystery of why these two inoffensive old men were dragged from Australia to London and duped into spending their all upon their useless quest. It cannot be discovered who inserted the false advertisement in the Australian newspapers nor who sent the letter received by the Goodwins on reaching London. Evidently, however, the author of this "joke" was perfectly conversant with the Goodwin's family history.

The Medical Profession.

MEDICAL PROFESSION.

Among the professions there is no class of citizens who contribute in larger degree to the moral status of the community and enter into the upbuilding of the city than the gentlemen of the medical fraternity, while as a body they constitute a formidable power for education and intellectual advancement. Physicians might be mentioned by the score, who have been not only successful in their practice but have attained wealth and prominence in the community as influential citizens. Prominent among those who have labored in this community for many years and with credit to their profession are: A. O. Bower, M. D.; Stephen A. Richards, M. D.; A. J. Hosmer, M. D.; C. G. Plummer, M. D.; John G. Giesy, M. D.; T. B. Beatty, M. D.; John E. Critchlow, M. D.; Herbert C. Deane, M. D.; Samuel H. Allen, M. D.; C. F. Wilcox, M. D.; Alexander C. Ewing, M. D.; Union Washington, M. D.; J. C. Hanchett, M. D., as well as many others all of whom are members of and sympathetic practitioner of social and professional prominence.

R. A. HASBROUCK, M. D.

Dr. R. A. Hasbrouck is prominent among a numerous class of physicians and surgeons of Salt Lake whose citizenship leaves three noble characteristics, namely: intellectual culture, skill in practice and the spirit of business enterprise. Thus Dr. Hasbrouck, aside from his position as a physician and surgeon, is to be numbered among the people of public spirited enterprise. He has been a resident of Salt Lake for the past fifteen years, and in that time while persistently following the lines of his profession has made some profitable investments, and among other business interests, is president and manager of the St. Joe Mining company, which controls and owns quite a number of valuable properties. Dr. Hasbrouck is a graduate of the Bennett Medical college, class of 1885, and started upon his professional life in that city. His office for his professional and all other business the various medical associations and societies.

DR. S. H. PINKERTON.

Prominent among the eminent members of the medical profession in Salt Lake City is Dr. S. H. Pinkerton, whose office is in the Deseret News building and who resides at the Knutsford hotel. Dr. Pinkerton, who is an important city realty owner and one of our city's most progressive and public spirited citizens, is a graduate of Bellevue Medical college, New York City, class 1883, and was house surgeon of Bellevue hospital in that city 1883-1886. Coming later to Salt Lake City he established his present large and influential practice and took a high place in the ranks of the profession in this state. He is surgeon-general of Utah, and chief surgeon of S. L. railroad as well as being visiting surgeon of St. Mark's hospital, and the duties of these positions Dr. Pinkerton carries out with great credit and honor. In his practice he is courteous, kindly and sympathetic, is well read on the live issues of the day, and is a cultured and refined gentleman and a worthy type of the highest citizenship. He is a member, and a valued one, of the local and state's medical societies.

DR. M. A. HUGHES.

In making this casual review of the commerce, the trades and the professions of Salt Lake, the "News" cannot lay too much stress upon the gratitude that is due from the public to the medical bodies of city and state, and particularly to the older members of the fraternity. The gentlemen have contributed an invaluable part to the upbuilding of the city in everything that redounds to the welfare and prosperity of the people. Beyond the benefits of their noble professional services, they have freely contributed their time and talent to the councils of the people upon questions of public benefit, and have faithfully rendered the support of its government and have in many ways contributed substantially to the material growth of the city. A prominent representative of this class is Dr. M. A. Hughes, who has been with us for many years, and is a prosperous citizen, owning his own elegant residence at No. 1068 east First South, besides other valuable realty holdings. Dr. Hughes is a veteran in the practice, having graduated from Wooster University, Cleveland, Ohio, in 1875. He is a prominent member of Salt Lake county and Utah State Medical societies, of the Rocky Mountain Interstate Medical association, and the American Medical association. His practice is limited to the treatment of such diseases, and their proper cure, while they at the same time study deeply every advance made in medical science in that special department. Dr. Fred Stauffer, whose office is at 113 to 120 Deseret News building, residence 208 north State street, and who is a graduate of one of the leading colleges of our country, is a specialist in all diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, and although he has been in practice in Salt Lake City less than two years, he has built up a very influential and extensive practice, and is one of the most highly esteemed physicians in this city. He is a really owner, who interests himself in every good work tending to the advancement of our city and its general prosperity. He is a member of the Utah State and Salt Lake County Medical societies, of the American Medical association, etc., and a regular attendant at their meetings, while he is an honorable, cultured,

DR. J. B. KEYSOR.

In the exacting requirements of the present day for proficiency in the dental art, Salt Lake offers no exceptions to the rule which obtains in the older and larger cities of the country, that the successful operator must rise to every emergency of technical skill in his profession. As a rule the dentists of Salt Lake are noted for their personal refinement and their accomplishments in the profession. Prominent among those of large success in the dental profession is Dr. J. B. Keysor, who enjoys the unique distinction of having been born and raised in Salt Lake City; hence becoming a pioneer of the native population. Dr. Keysor has been for 18 years engaged in the practice of dentistry, and for the past fifteen years maintaining his own establishment. He occupies spacious and elegant parlors and operating rooms with the latest and best of modern equipment at Rooms 2, 3, 4, Lohlin block, No. 240 Main street. In dental surgery, treatment and artificial work Dr. Keysor is noted for his consummate skill and the exceptional success of his original methods. He is one of the best known men in the city, is a man of great personal popularity and has a large and excellent class of patronage.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

As the result of observations at the Biologist association's Lowestoft establishment, it has been found that of four plaice marked with tabs and thrown into the sea off the north of Holland one made a journey of 170 miles in forty-five days, another was caught at a distance of 90 miles in eighty-four days, a third traversed 53 miles in seventy-four days, and the fourth had traveled 61 miles in sixty days when taken. All the fish had taken a westerly or southwesterly direction.—Tit-Bits.
