Two remarkable tests were made on what is termed "hone coal," a coal that is so high in impurities that it is now being thrown away by the mine opera-tors as worthless. In one test on the gas engine it took 2.15 pounds of this supposed worthless coal to produce a horsepower for an hour. This coal had it per cent ask and would be consid-ered valueless as a producer of power in a steam engine. Another sample of this coal produced a horsepower for 1.68 pounds. This coal contained 29 per cent ask. Perhaps the most en-couraging feature of these tests is that the low grade fuels, such as lignite and "bone" coal, produced more power in the gas engine. This would indicate vast commercial possibilities for the west-ern part of the coal is inadequate and where there is a superabundance of the low grade fuel.

HE beautiful and fertile Teton Valley lies in the eastern part of Fremont County, Idaho, about 75 miles south of the Yellowstone National Park, and about 225 miles north of Salt Lake City, along the boundaries of Wyoming and Idaho State line. The average elevation is 6,000 feet above sea level. It is surrounded by a large range of mountains excepting on the north where you will find low rolling hills, especially adapted to dry farming. The valley proper is about 30 miles in length and 15 miles in width with a gradual slope to the center from either side. The soil is a black loam mixed somewhat with gravel through the center. Along the foot of the mountains, however, and for some miles toward the center the soli is almost free from gravel and a heavy, black loam, which has been proven to be excellent beet, grain and vegetable land. We have an abundance of water, no valley anywhere better supplied with water, and thaat, too, practically free from cost to the farmer as most all own and operate their independent ditches which are taken from the various streams running into the valley from the are taken from the various streams running into the valley from the mountains on either side. We have an unlimited supply of timber, a load of house logs, poles, fence posts, fire wood, or saw timber can be had from any farm within the borders of the Teton Valley in less than a day, and from a good many homes the farmer makes two trips into the timber in one day. Lumber sells at $12 per 1,000 feet at the saw mills and $15 per 1,000 feet delivered. Teton mountains are noted among sheep and cattle men for their excellent quality of sease and of which there is and cattle men for their excellent quality of grass and of which there is no limit. The valley, hills and mountains are as pretty and green as lawn during the spring and summer. There are few places in this green country of ours where the farmers can just open his farm gate and his sheep, cattle and horses are in grass, while still within his view, yet we boast of such a condition in the Teton Valley. It is an excellent dair-ing country, farmers make from $3 to $5 a head on their cows per month, patronizing the creameries of which there are two in the valley. There are no better countries for raising cattle, sheep or hogs, than the Deton Valley. There are about 2,600 people now living within the borders of this picturesque valley, and room for ten times that many, and then they could have to exceed 40 acres to every soul, or about 200 acres to the family. There are eight towns fairly well started, ten general mercan-tile institutions, a branch of the Consolidated Wagon & Machine Co. of Sait Lake after of Studeaker Brog Co. of Utah a number of blacksmith tile institutions, a branch of the Consolidated Wagon & Machine Co. of Salt Lake City, of Studebaker Bros. The average yield of grain, taking the val-ley over, is about 30 bushels per acre, while we have some farmers who raise as high as 90 bushels per acre. The average yield of hay is from 3 to 5 tons in two cuttings. The exception 5 tons in one cutting.
