AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT.—Richard III. at the Theatre. Mr. Coudock as Gloster!

THEATRICAL.—To-night the great tragedy of "Richard III." will be presented. The character of Richard is one which the aspirants of honors in the heavy line of the drama never fail to attempt; yet but few are successful. In Mr. Coudock personating the character, we have this satisfaction: he is not an actor who essays the character before a western audience to see how he can succeed in it; for he has won fame and histrionic honors in the past, years ago, and yet retains the full vigor of power by which he secured his triumph. His Richard is said to be very fine. Miss Coudock, and a full cast of competent ladies and gentlemen support him. The laughable farce of "My Wife's Maid" will conclude the performance.

A NEW PAPER.—The Daily Rocky Mountain Star is the title of a new daily paper which made its first appearance at Cheyenne, Dacotah Territory, on Sunday, the 8th instant. The Star will be Republican in politics, and is under the editorial management of O. T. B. Williams, Esq., with J. J. Petlock, Esq., as publisher. There are three daily papers now published at Cheyenne.

INVITING COLDS.—It is no uncommon thing for careful mothers to wrap up little boys so closely about the throat and head, when cold weather sets in, that the parts covered are kept in a continual state of perspiration while the covering remains on. Warm woolen comforters are tied around the throat, and crossed over the head, to keep the ears warm; and if they should get loose, or move in the least, the cold air striking upon the heated parts, feels almost like a knife cutting the skin. This is simply inviting sore throats, catarrhs and pulmonary affections, rendering the little one's throat and head susceptible of colds and making him enervated and puny instead of strong and cold-defying. A golden mean between unwise exposure and undue carefulness should be observed, so that those parts of the human system which must be more or less uncovered may not be too easily affected by such exposure. A child whose head and throat is so carefully wrapped up at times, is liable to take cold at any moment about home when merely passing from a close warm room to the open air, in certain conditions of the atmosphere. It is wise to take all needful precautions to preserve the health of every one, young or aged, but cumbersome wrapping to preserve heat at one time, of parts liable to exposure at another time, does not seem to be the wisest thing that could be done to avoid colds and the diseases consequent upon them. Washing the throat with cold water regularly, and where it is weak rubbing a little alcohol upon it, with the head kept moderately cool is a much better preventive than heavy wrapping.

CREDIT.—The "Holy Land" article, by "Mark Twain," the latter part of which was published yesterday, should have been credited to the Alta California.

SHOWER.—A smart ball shower about mid-day was the atmospheric effort, following a thick overhanging of clouds. An exchange says that the Indians in their neighborhood are predicting a severe and an early winter. If so, their calculations are incorrect, as far as the early setting in of cold and snowy weather here is involved. It is still cloudy overhead, but quite mild.

PERSONAL.—Mr. James Stark, the celebrated actor, arrived in this city, by stage, from the east yesterday afternoon. For years Mr. Stark has sustained the very highest reputation in his favorite roles. In the heavier roles—and in light comedy, he maintains a very high reputation in the profession. When passing through Denver, this last time, he gave a reading for one night, attended by the elite of the place, which was successful in every respect. It is nearly three years since he passed through our city going east. At that time there was no opportunity of his appearing on our boards, but we trust our citizens will have the opportunity of judging for themselves of his fine abilities at a not distant day. He has some thoughts, during his sojourn here, of visiting his brother, Mr. Daniel Stark, of Payson, Utah County, and enjoying a brief period of fraternal society.

THE WEATHER.—By Deseret State Telegraph line we learn that the following is the state of the weather to-day, at the points named:—

Logan; cloudy, with about an inch of snow on the ground. It looks like moresnow.
Ogden; fine and clear.
American Fork; sun shining, but cloudy. It looks like storming.
Mount Pleasant; cloudy, but mild.
Cove Creek; very dark, with a south wind.
Parowan; cloudy, with a cold south wind.
Tukerville; very cloudy.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES BY STAGE TO-DAY.

From the East—Mrs. White, James Stark.
From the West—James Laughley.
To the East—Hon. S. P. McCurdy, Charles Laffin, Geo. Carlton, J. R. Murphy, W. L. Kane.
To the North—J. R. Ellis.

BENEFIT.—We understand that Mr. J. M. Simmons, long connected with the drama in this city, will be the recipient of a Benefit on Monday night, which will no doubt be a very successful affair.

Foreigners very slowly adopt American improvements, but they have to come to them at last. It is announced that the Chief Commissioner of the London Police has at last made up his mind to have the principal police stations connected with his office by telegraph lines, and also to have telegraphic communication established with the principal station of the Fire Brigade.

At Montreal, a French newspaper is published for the purpose of advocating Canadian annexation to the United States. A paper with similar object is also published in Nova Scotia.
