stood. I recognize many of them as prominent 'antis.' and it was some of those very women whom I heard later wishing for the opportunity to cast one ballot at this critical time. How long do you suppose these carnest, highbetterment, are going to beat them-selves against the stone wall of unequal suffrage? The isues of this campaign converted hundreds of them, and other campaigns fully as critical-for the work is by no means ended-will con-vince many more of them how much ensier it will be to bear the burden of the duties of citizenship when they hold its supreme right, the ballot, in their hands."

The address at Cleveland recently at the sixteenth blennial conference of and Young Women's Christian Associa-tions, by Mrs. J. K. Dunn of Jamaica, who is President of the department of domestic science of the Brooklyn Insti-tute, was one of the most important of the conference. Mrs. Dunn discussed the subject of domestic science train-ing and its possibilities. Like many others who have studied this matter thoroughly, Mrs. Dunn finds the hope of the future housekeeper to be largetheroughly, Mrs. Durn hads the hope of the future housekeeper to be large-ly in co-operation. The practical value of this she thinks is being taught by the great trusts of the day, whatever else may be urged against them. "We must frankly acknowledge," she says, "that women realize less clearly then mean all that concentration means than men all that co-operation means -they have not grasped the importance -they have not grasped the importance of individual subordination to the general good. Nor do we always re-member that in the end this reacts so as to bring the greater good to the in-dividual. There will come a general readjustment of household labor. These who experience the transition period will suffer, but the altimate and nermawill suffer, but the ultimate and perma-nent gain will be great. Central kit-chens to supply several families will eventually become feasible, though exeventually become feasible, though ex-periments will be many and failures often recorded. By some, such possi-bilities are deplored as calamities, threatening the privacy and home spirit of the family, but we must remember that when the time is ripe the develop-ment for that time fits smothly into existing needs and conditions. The American home will survive, never fear." The managers of the associations throughout the country have already developed the domestic-science departdeveloped the domestic-science depart-ments of their individual institutions appreciably, but it is planned now to make this development still more marked, and an entire session of the Cleveland conference was devoted to a careful discussion of the subject.

The Maine Federation of Women's clubs has endorsed the resolutions of the Massachusetts Federation. These amendments provide for membership in the General Federation by State Federations only, eliminating all individual lubs from direct membership and leaving the state bodies free, as now, to make their own membership rules. These resolutions were adopted in the belief and hope that they would prove the solution of the color question, throwing it back into each State Fedform responsibility in the matter. The Massachusetts Federation, in submit-ting their resolutions to the board of directors of the general society, called for the amendments to be voted upon at the biennial of 1902. The petition has been taken to some extent as a standard by other federations. To vote against the Massachusetts scheme is to vote against reorganization on those lines, and is tacitly accepted as against the admission of colored wo-men's clubs to the General Federation. The big Wednesday club of St. Louis, the largest in the State, instructed its delegates to the recent State Conven-tion, held at St. Joseph, to present its decision that clubs containing colored women shall be eligible to the General Federation in those states in which bustible material, or, any rubbish, whatever, thrown into or upon any street, alley, sidewalk, gutter, ditch or aque-duct, canal, or vacant lot, shall be deemed a nuisance."

deemed a nuisance." Which is all very well so far, but these same city fathers like our natural parents "lay down the law" but don't always take the trouble to see that the law is obeyed. Bo the members of the home and education section, thinking to show their loyalty to the administration and their city, have determined to step in and help to enforce this ordinance. They only ask that the Council pro-vide suitable receptacles, such as other vide suitable receptacles, such as other well ordered cities have, into which the rubbish can be placed, instead of its being sown broadcast as is now the case. They plan to form clean city clubs in the various public schools, extract-ing from the members a promise to help along this movement by throwing their own waste paper, and lunch scraps, to say nothing of the deadly banana peel into these receptacles which will be placed at convenient points throughout the city. Another improvement they hope to effect is in the matter of straightening and placing regular and distinct sign posts. It would be next to impossible for an entire stranger to locate any address given in this city, for many of the street signs have never been put up, and quite as many are twisted, bent, broken. If not altogether missing. They are also going to interest them-selves in securing better janitor ser-vice in the public schools. Some of the new and large buildings look as though they might be scrubbed annu-ally, while a careless sweeping might possibly be done once a week. Such a condition is an offense to the eye as well as a menace to the health of the pupils.

pupils, pupils. And they also want to make a similar protest against a like condition in the street cars. Why do not those in au-thority observe this shiftlessness in re-gard to sweeping out the cars, to say nothing of the visible violation of the law relating to expectoration?

law relating to expectoration? We cannot hope to have our streets paved with gold and the foundation of the walls round about garnished with precious stones, but we can if we will all work together to that end, have what is more practical, a clean city, set upon the hills, the gates of which shall not be shut by day, and into it we shall bring the glory and honor of the nations.

they are eligible to membership in the State Federation.

The interest of Mrs. Lowe, the presi-dent of the General Federation, in the coming biennial meeting at Los Ange-les is very keen. It was the first federation formed after her accession to office, now nearly four years ago, and it is only just to add that to her personal, sympathetic effort the result was largely due. Mrs. J fl R. Burdette has been the President of the California Federation since it was formed, and, though not a pioneer club woman, has had sufficient energy and enthusiasm to make a capable leader. Mrs. Burdette has just completed a trip among the federated clubs of California to discuss plans with club members for the important which California women will fill next May as hostess to the general soclety.

The new Women's club in New York is purely a social organi-zation, to be conducted on the lines of a man's club. It is the latest of several attempts to found such an ororganization in that city, but it is different from any now in existence. The ladies' club, which died two or three years ago after a failing existence of about the same length of time, approached the nearest to the present ef-fort in scope and clientele. The new fort in scope and clientele. The new club undertakes to furnish a foot in New York for suburban members all the year round, and for New York mem-bers at such times of the year as their city homes are closed. The nouse has been attractively fitted to meet these requirements. There is a large recep-tion from combining writing and tion room, combining writing and reading corners, and a delightful dining room, where luncheon is to be served from eleven to two, and five o'clock tea from three to six. Dressing rooms with maids in attendance, and sleeping rooms to be had for a night, are at the rooms to be had for a night, are at the disposal of the members, and locked closets are to be rented at moderate rates, where a change of costume can be kept, if desired. In addition to com-plete telephone, telegraph, cab, and par-cel service, Turkish and Russian baths will be possible under the care of a trained nurse.

FOR A CLEAN CITY.

Home Education Section Ladies Lit, erary Club Working to That End.

"Dirt defies the king," runs the pro-verb, and as for the city street superviscr, the sanitary inspector, and the street car superintendent, all resist-ance is seemingly at an end. But the women of the Ladies' Liter-

But the women of the Ladies' Liter-ary club having proved by dear ex-perience a capacity to rout dirt from their own domains, are thirsting now to "show" these disheartened men; and the men are waiting to be shown. At least they are waiting, we are all agreed as to that.

And not only the women folk have noticed the laxity in regard to general city cleanliness but the unfavorable comment was heard several times in the east by tourists who had visited here, "I was disappointed in Salt Lake City. I had always heard it was such a clean walk kent town added to that a clean, well kept town, added to that was the charm of clear water flowing abundantly through little irrigating ditches at the sides of the streets. But ditches at the sides of the streets. But what I found were uncommon dirty streets, and dry ditches, proving the other report a mere fairy tale." Perchance in the millennium the water question will be settled, but that is an-other story. Some one has said, "Every man is individually responsible for just as much evil as his efforts might pre-vent," and if "cleanliness is next to codiness" then its opposite is next to yent," and if cleaniness is next to godliness," then its opposite is next to crime, and to permit filth or whatever tends to make uncleanliness in homes, or schools, or streets, or street cars, is to permit an evil for which we are individually responsible. The city fath-ers have been allve to their duty as city housekeepers and have framed an ordinance which reads as follows: "Any wrapping paper, waste paper, hand bills, old clothes, boots and shoes, hats, tin cans, broken dishes, or any com-
