

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Pay for Jurors.—The Court this morning ordered United States Marshal to pay per diem for one day's service and mileage on United States business.

Divorce Granted.—In the case of Ann Cottam vs. John Cottam, which was heard at considerable length in the District Court some time ago, a divorce has been granted.

More Peanuts.—Another bunch of peanuts was brought to our office this forenoon. They have been raised by C. Denney, of the 11th ward, and seem excellent in size and quality.

The Weather.—The weather today has been of the most disagreeable character. Wind and dust without measure. The faces of pedestrians, too, seemed to indicate that the air was decidedly chilly.

Send For It.—A bundle of bedding addressed Mr. Heathcote, Utah, U. S. A., belonging to some one arriving at the last company of emigrants Sept. 25, was left at Ogden, and is now in the possession of A. P. Rose, of Ogden, who desires the owner to send for it.

Goed to Franklin.—Milo Andrus, a well known and old resident of Utah, lately arrived from St. George, and after spending a day or two looking around our city, started north last evening, to visit friends in Franklin. —Ogden Tribune.

Re-opens This Evening.—The Twentieth Ward Institute re-opens this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The meetings will be conducted as heretofore—males and females together, under the sanction of the presidency of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association.

Park City Coal.—The coal discovered about two and a half miles to the north-east of Park City, and located in the interest of the Empire Mining Company, is said to be improving in quality. Prospecting is being pushed forward vigorously, and it will be continued until the real quality of the coal is ascertained.

Finished.—The Surveyors-General finished their labors yesterday, as expected. The result of their deliberations is now in the hands of the Hon. Commissioner of the General Land Office, (Mr. Williamson), and the proceedings were stenographically reported from day to day, they will doubtless be published in due time.

J. H. Clemetshaw.—A civil case against this well known individual, who is now serving a sentence of 14 years imprisonment, for perjury in connection with the Kallioch-De Young shooting affray, was brought yesterday in the Third District Court and dismissed. Every other case against Clemetshaw may as well be disposed of in the same way. He is safe enough for the next ten days anyway.

Battle the Enemy.—Fears are entertained, says the Provo Enquirer, that the grasshoppers will be troublesome in Sevier County, next year, judging by the myriads of eggs deposited in the ground. To battle the enemy, however, the farmers are plowing and intend putting in considerable grain this fall, and so get the start of the voracious pests by the time they are ready to commence their depredations.

Critical Operation.—Dr. J. M. Bonchett has recently returned from Cache Valley. While there he performed a somewhat critical operation on an eight year old son of Mrs. Torgeson, of Logan. The boy seems to have been suffering from what is professionally known as several costalgia, or hip joint disease. The Dr. had to get at the hip bone and remove the part affected. The operation was skillfully performed, but the lad, it is needless to say, will be a cripple for life.

The Indianapolis Election.—A vast amount of money, it is said, will change hands in this city over the result of the Indiana and Ohio elections. The excitement on Main St. yesterday, among a certain class—whose proclivities for betting are well known—clearly showed there was much money at stake. Rumor has it that $20,000 will change hands over the accredited result. It is also stated that already some thousands of dollars have been staked on the result of the election in the State of New York.

Pleasant Surprise Party.—A number of distinguished ladies assembled unexpectedly yesterday afternoon at the residence of Brother Easton Hall, in the Seventeenth Ward, to pay their respects to the veteran Sister Elizabeth Ann Whitney, familiarly known among the Saints as Mother Whitney, having rightfully earned the title of Mother in Israel through her labors for the Daughters of Zion in holy places, as well as her innumerable works of love and blessing from the days of Kirtland to the present time. The ladies brought with them baskets and pails containing a great variety of the choicest delicacies of the season. After the party had partaken of the refreshments, Mother Whitney sang one of her beautiful "Songs of Zion," blessing each one in the room.

Sister Elda made the opening speech, blessing Mother Whitney and dwelling enthusiastically upon their long and intimate associations together, even before they received the gospel, when they were Campbellites. All the other ladies followed with testimonies of love and appreciation, etc. One remarkable feature of the entertainment was that there were 10 ladies present who had lived in Kirtland and were intimately acquainted and associated with the Prophet Joseph. During the exercises, Sister Zina D. Young offered up a most eloquent and impressive prayer.

What were they doing there?—Yesterday evening, says the Journal of Tuesday, five transients, respectively Frank Brown, Thomas Allen, W. Dailey, Frank Kelly and Sam Davis (the latter a colored boy) were brought before His Honor, Commissioner Feshaw, upon a charge of maliciously breaking into a bonded car on the C. P. road. It seems that when the freight train arrived at Ogden yesterday, a noise of some one knocking in the car mentioned was heard and officer Pincock arriving on the spot, in company with the revenue officer here, opened the door and discovered defendants, and arrested them. The revenue seal had been displaced from its position on the outside of the car door, but the company's seal remained intact. The spokesman of the party told a straightforward story as to how they had gained admission into the car, he claiming that they had gained entrance on the opposite side of the car, the seal being broken at Winnemucca. Judge Brewster appeared for the defense, and the evidence of the prosecution going to prove that it would have been impossible for defendants to have entered said car through the door upon which was found the custom seal, without breaking the company seal, and they, the defendants, having refrained from touching any of the property in the car in which they were caught, the commissioner considered that the statute under which they were charged did not take cognizance of their case and accordingly, and very properly, discharged them.

Third District Court.—The Court met this morning at 10 o'clock, Chief Justice Hunter on the bench. The case of Lloyd Aspinwall et al., vs. the Wasatch and Jordan Valley R. R. Company, was called. This was an action brought in the Supreme Court of the State of New York. Judge Hunter holds that the judgment rendered in that court was without jurisdiction. The case rested on a question of service of summons. It seems that the transcript of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, shows that the summons was served on Charles H. Schofield, as President of the defendant company, while the evidence shows that Chas. W. Schofield is the president of that company, or was at the time of entering that judgment. Case was dismissed at plaintiff's cost.

The case of Louis Reggel vs. Thos. K. Snow. was dismissed for want of prosecution.

Appointment.—From the Mitlenial Star we learn that Elder C. W. Stayner is appointed to succeed Elder John Nicholson in the editorial department of the Star. Elder Nicholson will sail for home on the 23rd inst. The appointment is a judicious one.

Police Court.—An individual charged with drunkenness and profanity, was landed in the city jail last evening. He had an audience with Judge Poyer this morning and was fined $10.

Run Over.—A little boy playing in Main Street to-day was knocked down and run over by a buggy. The injuries he received did not appear to be of a serious nature.

"Elizabeth."—Remember the reading of "Elizabeth, Queen of England," in the Salt Lake Theatre tomorrow evening.

Mark Twain's New Story.

THE LIFE HISTORIES OF EDWARD MILLS AND GEORGE BENTON.
 Edward Mills minded from boyhood—George Benton never did. Edward prospered; George always had to be helped. They had the same adopted parents, who left all the property to George, because Edward could take care of himself. So that Edward was engaged to the girl that George was engaged to dropped him, as it was her duty to save George. Hard times threw Edward out of regular work, and he relapsed to common labor while—George became a flourishing merchant. A grand temperance revival was got up, and after some rousing speeches had been made, the chairman said, "We are now about to call for signers, and I think there is a spectacle in store for you which not many in the house will be able to view with dry eyes." There was an eloquent pause, and then George Benton, escorted by a red-shirted department of the ladies of refuge, stepped forward upon the platform and signed the pledge. The air was rent with applause and everybody cried for joy. Everybody wrung the hand of the new convert when the meeting was over, his salary was raised the next day; he was the talk of the town and its hero. An account of it was published. George Benton fell regularly every three months, but was faithfully recruited and with every time, and good situations were found for him. Finally he was taken around the country lecturing as a reformed drunkard, and he had great houses and did an immense amount of good.

He was so popular at home, and so trusted during his sober intervals—that he was enabled to use the name of a principal citizen, and get a large sum of money at the bank. A mighty pressure was brought to bear to save him from the consequences of his former life, and it was partially successful—he was "sent up" for only two years. When, at the end of a year, the tireless efforts of the benevolent were crowned with success, and he emerged from the penitentiary in a new man, he was met by the "Prisoners' Friend Society" met him at the door with a situation and comfortable salary, and all the other benevolent people came forward and gave him advice, encouragement and help. "Edward Mills had once applied to the "Prisoners' Friend Society" for a situation, when he was in dire need, but the question, "Have you been prisoner?" made brief work of his case.

While all these things are going on, Edward Mills has been quietly making head against adversity. He was still poor, but he was steady and sufficient salary as a respected and trusted cashier of the bank. George Benton never came near him, and was never heard to enquire about him. George had got to indulging in long absences from town—there were no reports about him, but nothing definite. One day a man in a white shirt and dark trousers, who was known to the bank and found Edward Mills there alone. They commanded him to reveal the "combination," at which he could not help but smile. He said he was in the "combination." The burglar killed him. The detectives hunted down the criminal and made him pay for the life of George Benton. A widespread sympathy was felt for the widow and orphans of the dead man, and all the newspapers in the land began to tell all the banks in the land would testify their appreciation of the fidelity and heroism of the murdered cashier by coming forward with a generous contribution of money in aid of his family now bereft of support. The result was a mass of solid cash amounting to upwards of $500—an average of nearly three-eighths of a cent for each bank in the union. The cashier's own bank testified its gratitude by endeavoring to show (but humbly failing in it) that the peerless servant's accounts were not square, and that he himself knocked his brains out with a bludgeon to escape detection and punishment.

George Benton was arraigned for trial, and the everybody seemed to forget the widow and orphans in their solicitude for poor George. Everything that money and influence could do, was done to save him, but it all failed—he was sentenced to death. Straightway the governor was besieged with petitions for commutation or pardon—they were brought by tearful young girls, sorrowful old maids, by deputations of patriotic widows, by shoals of impressive orphans. But no—the governor, for once, would not yield. Now, George Benton experienced religion. The glad news flew all around. From that time forth his cell was always full of girls and women and fresh flowers—all the day long there was prayer, and hymn singing and thanksgiving, and homilies and tears, with never an interruption, except an occasional five minute intermission for refreshments.

This sort of thing continued up to the very gallows, and George Benton went proudly home, in a black cap, before a waiting audience of the sweetest and best that the rugged coast could produce. His grave had fresh flowers on it every day, for a while, and the headstone bore these words, under a laurel and pine bough: "He has taught the good life."

The brave cashier's headstone has this inscription: "Be pure, honest, sober, industrious, considerate, and you never."
