That Directed Against Supt.
Westlake of the Morris
School Fails.

WILL GO TO SUPREME COURT.

Attorneys to Test Constitutionality of Juvenile Law and Eligibility
Of Judge Brown.

Judge Lewis today denied the petition of Clarence McDaniell for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition was filed by attorneys J. H. Bailey, Jr., and Ray Van Cott and was directed against Supt. W. H. S. Westlake of the Morris detention school, where the boy, Clarence McDaniell, was supposed to have been held. Supt. Westlake was called to the witness stand at the hearing this morning and testified that the boy was taken away from the school by Mr. Bailey on Nov. 13 and since then he has not seen him and does not now know where he is. He said that the writ was served upon him several days after the boy was taken away.

Attorney Van Cott informed the court that he could not prove that the boy was in the possession of Supt. Westlake when the writ was served, although he had been informed that he was. Upon the showing made, Judge Lewis immediately denied the writ. Assistant County Attorney Hanson represented Supt. Westlake at the hearing. Attorneys Van Cott and Bailey stated this morning that they would file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court this afternoon in behalf of the boy and thus secure a decision from the highest tribunal in the state as to the constitutionality of the juvenile court law and the eligibility of Judge Willis Brown to hold the office of judge of said court.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

A totally complete surprise greeted a number of the friends of Mrs. Sarah Garrison and her daughter, Mrs. Howard, when they arrived at the home of the former expecting to surprise her with an impromptu party. Mrs. Garrison and her daughter were intended to be married today, but learning of the plans of their friends, they obtained a license and an authorized officiant, and when the surprise party arrived, confronted them with their own surprise. The ceremony was once performed and the rest of the evening devoted to social cheer. The affair being an altogether delightful one, Mr. and Mrs. Howard are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Mrs. Sol Siegel was hostess at an extremely pleasant affair on Monday, her function being in the way of an afternoon tea. The rooms were beautifully decorated, yellow being the chosen color, and a variety of flowers and bric-a-brac were placed about the room, lights aiding in the charming effect. A number of the intimate friends of the hostess assisted her in receiving and serving and about 20 guests were present during the appointed hours.

Last night the wedding reception of Miss Alice Minerva Wickland and Norman William Macleod took place at the home of Mrs. Helen Walker Macleod, 48 West Sixth South street. The rooms were bright with flowers and a large number were present to enjoy the pleasant event.

Miss Loren Leary entertained yesterday at a pleasant affair in honor of Miss Winnie Rhodes of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cain have returned from their eastern trip.

Mrs. Will L. McAllister left yesterday morning for Golden, Colo., to visit her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Craig. She expects to be away six weeks or two months.

Mrs. W. H. King recommenced her Tuesday "at home" yesterday, and was assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. E. E. Cary, Mrs. R. L. Tracy and Mrs. H. J. Dinsley. A large number called during the hours of the reception.

Miss Mabel Brown and Mr. James Cowan, two popular young people of this city, were united in marriage on Wednesday night last, Elder William A. Cowan, the groom's uncle, performing the ceremony. In the evening, at the home of the bride's parents, 760 south Seventh West street, a reception was given to the happy couple, only near relatives and intimate friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Cowan will be at home to their friends at 360 west Seventh South street, on and after Dec. 1.

to how the arrangement works. Why it is very simple in the event of any discrimination it is open to every citizen who is a shipper to appeal to this tribunal, which is an independent one. "I have also been asked with regard to the question of the limitation of the railway earnings, as an injustice might be done the railway corporations by this control in the regular practice of dentistry in the then territory of Utah. That is to say, in other words, it was the design and purpose of the Legislature to authorize the class of persons referred to to continue their practice without the necessity of submitting themselves to the state dental board for examination and securing a license therefor. The law was intended to apply only to those persons coming into the state after it went into operation. The fact that a person who was regularly engaged in the practice of dentistry on the 8th day of March, 1894, and the state for a number of years had not changed the purpose of the statute. Now as to the other class you speak of, to-wit: Those who are now practicing in the state who were engaged in the practice on or before March 8, 1894, in the territory of Utah and have not yet applied for a license. The law exempts this class from an examination and from the payment of the fee required for the class coming with it in its provisions. Hence this class can not be required to pay the fee, etc. Without further elaboration you are advised in accordance with the foregoing views.

A SPLENDID COUNTRY.

Salt Lake Speaks Highly of Conditions in Arizona.

James M. Wardrop, a well known resident of this city, has just returned from a trip to Arizona, where he was greatly delighted with what he saw, in a talk with the "News" today, Mr. Wardrop said:

"My visit was confined principally to the Mormon settlements. President Anderson Kimball took me in his buggy to Layton, 30 north, back to Thatcher and then to Pima. I found the country and the people prosperous. We went to an apple orchard in Layton which contained about 30 acres. Several Mexican boys were picking apples and the trees were laden with them. The owner stated that he picked about 200,000 pounds, shipping them to Globe, a great mining camp, and other points. I also met another farmer. He said he went to Arizona about five years ago, borrowed $12,000, bought an 80-acre farm, sowed grain in, with alfalfa, and raised most of the first cutting and four more crops during the year. He stated that if he had about two more years he would be able to make a fortune out of it. I saw another farm with ripe corn in the shock. Adjoining there was a man plowing. Next to this was green string beans, then a fine crop of green fresh corn with roasting ears. In still another field, a peanut vine was dug out, containing about 85 nuts on one vine.

"President Kimball spoke in Salt Lake some two years ago of a sweet potato weighing 30 pounds. I saw in the winter of a late store in The Cheesecake a sweet potato weighing 37 pounds. That certainly is a fine country. Many of the people are getting in a comfortable condition of the state.

"I also saw nice fig trees, with figs on them. The people are a kind and hospitable people. I made many acquaintances on my trip. I left by way of Los Angeles and San Francisco, up the coast and arrived home Nov. 19. I enjoyed my trip very much, as did all who accompanied me. They have a splendid academy, district schools, large meeting-house or church, in Thatcher, and in other places. I saw the Colorado River, which caused some great distress in January last, by way of a flood.

"President Kimball is laboring night and day for the good of the country and the people. I feel that he is the right man in the right place. I met the missionaries in Los Angeles and in San Francisco, and had the privilege of speaking in the mission house there.

"President Kimball requested me to remember Arizona and its people kindly through the "News."
