of his father, which occurred lately. Notwithstanding that it has been re-ported in different places that smallpox is so prevalent among the students, we are pleased to say that the few who have been slightly ill are rapidly growing better. The students that were quarantined are now pronounced safe. and have been permitted to come back

> Eider Leroy Shepherd, just returned from a mission to Ohio, called on the academy Sunday and spoke in Sunday He is on his way to his home in Beaver.

Of all the sad deaths that have ocfew years, one of the saddest seems to be the death of Miss Sarah Ward, sis-ter of Professor W. F. Ward. Miss Ward came to Provo to finish her course in the academy, but was stricken with Bright's disease. Her death was made more sad as no funeral services could be held on account of the family being under quarantine.

Mrs. Anna K. Craig, formerly of our Kindergarten, has made a donation, to our library, of twenty-six volumns, embracing works on pedagogy and phsychology, Mrs. Craig may almost be said to have been the founder of the Kindergurten work in Utah garten work in Utah.

That the spread of smallpox might be prevented, a special fast meeting was held Sunday in College hall. Every student seemed to be filled with the spirit of the meeting. Those present left the meeting feeling that their prayers and feth would not be in well as ers and faith would not be in vain. Domestic conference was held Sun-lay evening in College hall. Very favorable reports were given from each The main feature of the meeting, however, was an address, "Why I Am a Mormon," by Lawyer William E. Rydaich, an old student and teacher of the academy. Thursday, Elder James G. Duffin of Toquerville, president of the South-western mission, called at the academy and spoke to the students, Elder Duffin is one of the students that the academy is proud of, and it has many such. Later in the day he spoke to the missionary class on points relating to successful missionary work. He is on his way to attend a conference in Texas.

The officers of the Athletic association are bending every effort towards secur. ing a gymnasium. An enthusiastic mass meeting was held last week and an appeal was made to the patriotism of the students for means for this worthy enterprise. A hearty response to the call was made by the majority of the students. With such energetic workers at the head, the scheme surely be successfully carried through.

Wednesday morning the students were favored with a visit from Mrs. McVicker, the talented lady who now fills the position held by the late Dr. John R. Park, that of superintendent of public instruction. She spoke to the students and said that she had heard had met so many of its students that had therefore begun her work by visit-

Again death has entered our midst and has made our hearts sad. Last Friday Sister Ella Hickman, wife of one of our teachers, Prof. Josiah E. Hick-man, passed from this life. Although Sister Hickman had been ill for some time, her death was a blow to her famiy school convention, Salt doren, the youngest being but a few months old. The funeral was held Tuesday, November 6th, in the Stake tabernacle. School was dismissed that the students might attend. The "Handske" of Saturday evening last tendered by the instructors to the students and their friends passed off most pleasantly, most of the students being in attendance. The universal handshaking, laughing and talking was interspersed with the numbers of a short program. During the evening Miss Knickerbocker rendered, in an artistic manner, "Hearts and Flowers." Mr. Clark gave a short address. The Ladies' Glee Club sang, with good effect, "Hush, Little Girl, Don't Cry." Miss Thomas gave a pleasing reading Miss Thomas gave a pleasing reading of "The Robber and the Quaker." Mr. Lewis set the audience roaring with his recital of "Agnes, I Love Thee," Refreshments were furnished consisting of apples, oranges, candy, nuts and lemonade. About 200 were present. The class in art has been doing outity in this work. Miss Knickerbocker

But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is caarth of the head and throat. A prominent specialist on ear trou-bles gives as his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably over-stated but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of noor hearing-

The catarrhal secretion in the now and throat finds its way into the Eurtachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the ca-tarrh which caused the trouble is cured. Those who are hard of hearing may

I will now give the first singing lesson, and speak as though a new pupil were before me: "You are frightened, my dear young lady! Don't be alarmed; you will get on very well. Stand upon the platform, please, and settle firmly on both feet; do not hang your head, but keep it up naturally. Hold up your head, I say. You stoop too much; put your arms behind your back, so that the chest may be free. Now, take breath. No, not so! That was but a half-breath. You must take a deep breath, and not expel the breath too rapidly. No, that will not do. I will count. While taking breath I shall count ten: while holding it, five; while slowly expelling it, ten. Good, very good! Now open your mouth. Why that grinning smile? That gives the volx blanche—the white volce, the tone striking the soft palate. open your mouth naturally; the lower jaw must be depressed, as the upper jaw is motionless. Good. Now attack the tone by drawing together the youd nords; take care that when you attack it no air comes forth; do not strike the tone so hard. That is an expression of the strike the tone so hard. exaggerated coup de glotte, and sounds harsh. Strike the tone once again. That is right. Now let us study the passage from one register to another. Try to sing the last tone of the chest register so softly as possible, so that register so softly as possible, so that the transition to the middle register be imperceptible, and do likewise in respect to the transition from the middle to the head register. It is not to be expected in the beginning that the registers be connected and made even, but attention must be directed to that end, which must eventually be attained through practice. Sing for me first two, through practice. Sing for me first two, through practice. Sing for me first two, through practice. through practice. Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far fetched, but any one at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause dearness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and anyone suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which in the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or optate.
