EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is asserted that cholera has made its appearance in New York. It is coming across the sea, whether it has landed or not, as some genuine cases have occurred on the Atlantic. It is to be hoped there will be no panic, as fear feeds the cholera.

The news of Brother H. W. Naisbitt's loss by fire, at his farm at Hooper, will be received with general regret. The calamity must have been a great one, and will doubtless inspire a feeling of sympathy in the community. Whether that sympathy shall assume a more sentimental shape, without the element of practicality must remain with his numerous friends to decide. This much we know, however—it is the indication of the existence of genuine brotherly feeling, when people manifest an unmistakable disposition to help each other's burdens.

Famine of an alarming kind prevails in the Kurgan district of Siberia, where the last grain of corn has already been taken from the granaries, and the last coopek of money from the victual fund. The Governor has felt compelled to ask for a grant of 30,000 roubles from the Central Government, and specialists work on the railway now being built in the district for those of the inhabitants who are able to work. Out of his private purse the Czar has given the sum of 10,000 roubles, and a special local committee has already distributed it.

A species of mild controversy has been going on in the columns of the Utah Journal in relation to the relative abilities of the Logan and Salt Lake choirs. The most striking peculiarity about this discussion is its utter uselessness. A communication recently appeared in the Journal taking strong grounds in favor of the Logan sweet singers as compared to those of this city. It is to the credit of the members of the northern choir that they disclaim the authorship of the letter, and that the exhibition of what might be termed egotism is from an alien source. Both choirs, however, are in their respective styles, but invidious comparisons are in bad taste.

We are in the midst of the season of small fruits, which are unusually abundant this year, and the larger varieties will soon be on the market. Perfectly sound, ripe fruit is essential to health, but this which is decayed acts as poison on persons having enfeebled systems, and on weak children. Doubtless many deaths of children are caused by eating unripe or overripe fruit. It is almost impossible to keep the little ones from eating it in almost any condition when they have an opportunity. They should be carefully watched and guarded against using it when it is in a bad condition. Their health, and sometimes lives depend upon the exercise of this supervision.

On the occasion of the visit of E. H. Anderson, Esq., business manager of the Ogden Herald company, to this city, yesterday, we regretted much to observe an evident failure in his physical health, too palpable to be mistaken. He is an active, capable and intelligent young man, and we have no doubt the decline of his health is purely the result of overwork. Absolute rest would probably cause his former vigorous condition to return, and his numerous friends will join with us in the hope that he will not delay in taking it. He owes it to himself, to those immediately connected with him and to the community in which he is a valuable citizen to seek a return to health, without which the continuation of a useful and promising career cannot be assured.

It is learned from the Orion of St. John, Arizona, that A. M. Tenney was arrested at that place on the 15th inst., on a charge of bigamy. He was taken before U. S. Commissioner G. A. McCarter and given until the following Saturday to plead. He was, in the meantime, released from custody. The commissioner before whom the case was taken exhibited unusual zeal, with a view to gaining some personal glory. In this pursuit he stepped out of his official position and assumed the hunt for witnesses for the prosecution. It appears that instead of gaining golden opinions from the non-Mormon population, quite a number of that class of the community have expressed disgust at the course of the extra-official commissioner in this case.

M. Labadie has been making some truly ghastly experiments with the head of Camp, the murderer, who was recently executed in Paris, and the Corps Scientificque he publishes an account of them. By means of tube he connected the carotid vein of a living dog, and the head being placed upright on a table, the stop placed on the dog was removed. As the blood was carried into the head the livid hue of the face disappeared and color returned, the forehead and cheeks being suffused and the eyelids moving. Some time had elapsed since Camp's death, and M. Labadie regrets that such experiments cannot take place here, after execution, as the physiologist might thus be able to witness a "grand and terrible spectacle."

The New York Herald has published a map purporting to show the course taken over this country by the cholera in its various visits. According to it, in 1832, the epidemic came from Ireland to Quebec, and followed the river and lakes to Chicago; thence it went down the Mississippi river to New Orleans. In 1849 it came from Havre to New Orleans, thence up the river to Cincinnati and St. Louis, and from thence by the emigrant route to Laramie, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco. In 1864 it came to New York from England, France, and Germany, and was epidemic very generally throughout the country. In 1881 it came from New York from Europe, and from thence was carried to every important city in the country. In 1873 it came to New Orleans from France, and was carried up the Mississippi river to St. Louis, and up the Ohio to Cincinnati, and across the Western States. However, in other particulars, it announces an error in showing that Asiatic cholera ever visited this city. No case of that disease ever existed here or in any other part of Utah in the memory of the "oldest inhabitants." Only a number of whom have been in this region from the time of its first settlement.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY.

THE subject of juvenile depravity has been recently considered by many public journals both in England and America. Mischievous and folly are to be expected of young urchins who are allowed to roam the streets at their own sweet will, and of all children who are not under parental control. But there are too many cases of positive immorality among children who are not outside of the influences of religion and education, that it is not surprising there should be great anxiety as to the result and discussion as to the cause.

Take a case or two in illustration. Two youngsters in London had learned of rewards being paid for the discovery of dead bodies. They wanted money—what boys do not?—and they were anxious to gain a reward. The chief thing lacking was a dead body. They reasoned that the quietest way to supply the want was to provide one themselves. So they got hold of a child three years old shut it up in the dust-bin of an empty house and quietly waited the result of starvation. The child was rescued before death ensued, and spoiled their little game. This was something more than childish mischief. It was deliberate criminal depravity.

But we need not go abroad for cases of juvenile delinquency. At Pittsburgh a short time since a boy thirteen years old went into the grounds of a children's home which is supported by a religious society, and intimidated the manager with a revolver. When an old lady, who was taking care of a number of the little ones, ordered him away, he deliberately fired two shots and mortally wounded a child six years old.

Chicago a few nights ago, two boys under ten years old, waylaid another boy who had offended them, and stabbed him, inflicting a dangerous wound. The News of that city, commenting upon the circumstance, says: "Let us not fear for the permanence of our institutions. The rising generation has caught the spirit of the age. The world moves and the genius of civilization is firmly chained to progress."

The papers all over the country are recording daily deeds of wickedness on the part of children that are truly revolting. In the case of the two boys represented in the annals of juvenile depravity. And these evils prevail in communities that are called "Christian." They co-exist with the civilization of many centuries. Are they its natural outgrowth, or are they survivals of that which it seeks to extinguish?

Apply the logic which is used in reference to the "Mormons" and what shall be said of "Christian" influences and tendencies? If a boy in Utah throws a stone at the window of a house belonging to a schoolhouse, or is sassy to his elders, he is charged at once to "Mormonism" and polygamy. Every improper act of young people of either sex is attributed to the influence of polygamic training. And it does not matter whether the child was reared in a plural-wed household or not, whether his parents are "Mormons" or not. Juvenile depravity in Utah means to the fanatical anti-"Mormon" and unscrupulous writer for a "Liberal" press, the "natural outgrowth" of the "Mormon" religion.

That there are bad boys and girls in Utah no sane person with sense and veracity will deny. That they preponderate in polygamous families no one can truthfully establish. That "Mormon" children, polygamous or monogamous, are worse than "Gentile" children there is no evidence to prove. But if exposure of non-"Mormon" crimes and peccadilloes of a similar kind to those indulged in concerning "Mormon" juvenile short-comings, we could establish the fact that "Mormon" family influence is more potent against evil than that of its boasting and slanderous accusers, and that for all that is said of the influence of the "Mormon" family influence in the direction of polygamous family influence stands pre-eminent.

In the numerous cases of juvenile depravity in which the parents were non-"Mormons" we have never, to our recollection, attributed the cause of the wrong-doing to either the parents or their creed. We are satisfied that in many instances an evil disposition exists in children for which their parents are not responsible, although it might perhaps be traced to more remote ancestors. And there is no so-called "Christian" sect which inculcates the teaching of a similar kind to those indulged in by the "Mormons." There are not wanting professed ministers of religion who attempt to charge upon "Mormonism" every impropriety in the lives of any of its believers or of their children. And yet there is no creed or teaching of Christianity more hostile to evil-doing than this so-called "Mormonism." And it is not pronounced in its teachings in that direction, but its influence upon its followers has demonstrated that in spite of all its work, it is a foe to vice of every kind, as a rule its adherents are honest, temperate, law-abiding and peaceful, and mindful of the rights of their neighbors, whether they be Jew or Gentile, Indian or Chinese.

Exceptions to the rule occur, but they are only exceptions, and when they are jumped at with glee and held up as samples of "Mormon" conduct and proofs of the effects of "Mormon" teachings, whether they be instances of developed sin or of juvenile depravity, they serve more to show the innate meanness and permanent corruption of the vile creatures who so utilize them, than to prove anything wrong in the teachings or tendencies of the "Mormon" system. And for every case of juvenile depravity that can be adduced in this community, we could bring forth a hundred from other places under the full glare of "Christian" light and the "refining influences" of anti-"Mormon" society.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it," is true as a general rule, and will be proven so in practice. But there will be found exceptions to it in the best regulated families. And parents who are thus afflicted need help and consolation, as well as patience and diligence in their endeavors to effect reformation, and will only be reviled and assailed for the sins of their children by the lawless-minded and most contemptible of the human species.

MARRIED.

PICKETT-IRVINE—On Thursday, July 17th, 1884, by President D. H. Wells, Miss Sarah Irvine to Uriah Pickett; both of this city.

A REMEDY REQUESTED.

A PETITION to the Mayor and City Council is being circulated in the First Municipal Precinct for the signatures of residents. It draws the attention of the City Fathers to the damage done by the water from the Salt Lake City canal. It sets forth that the cellars under the houses of the people which were formerly dry and useful are now partially filled with slimy stagnant water. The action of the water upon the foundations of the buildings endangers the structures themselves, while the health of the inmates is seriously jeopardized. Many of the lots have become so marshy as to destroy the trees and shrubs that were formerly thrifty and sound. The wells in the locality are filled to the top with seepage water, and the contents rendered unwholesome, and unfit for domestic use. Even the meeting-house has not escaped injury from the cause complained of. Its commodious basement has been rendered useless by the presence of a quantity of foul water which emits an offensive effluvia. The water threatens the destruction of the walls of the building. The petitioners also represent that the substance of which they complain are constantly increasing and a remedy is a pressing and imperative necessity. The grievance of the unfortunate residents of the First Municipal Ward is most urgent and the prayer of their petition so reasonable that we doubt not it will be granted with all practicable speed, and should a system of drains adjacent to the west side of the canal be deemed the proper thing to do, no doubt that species of remedy will be applied. Or perhaps the committee who will doubtless be appointed to investigate the subject may devise some more effective plan of affording relief.
