"MR. TAFT AND HIS SCARES."

Enumerated Four, Discussed Them at Length and Declared There Was Nothing in Them.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 16 .- As the culminating feature of the Democratic state convention which closed today. there was a notable demonstration here tonight in honor of the party's standard bearer, William J. Bryan, who reached the city shortly after 7 o'clock and addressed a mass meeting in Convention hall and overflow gatherings Outside Presiding over the convention hall assemblage was Judge Alton B. Parker, assemblage was Judge Alton B. Parker, the presidential candidate four years ago, who took advantage of the occa-sion to make a personal pledge of his earnest fealty to the national ticket. As Mr. Bryan and Judge Parker stood side by side before the great assem-blage, which choked the hall to its ca-pacity, the cheering welled up in a deafening roar. Mr. Bryan acknowl-edged Judge Parker's pledge of his own support and the support of the "United Democracy of the Empire State," in words as gracious as the pledge had bean extended. "Mr. Bryan expressed his gratifude

"Mr. Bryan expressed his gratitude "Mr. Bryan expressed his gratitude for the nomination today of Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler as head of the state ticket, and paid a personal trib-ute to him. Mr. Chanler had joined the Nebraskan at Syracuse this afternoon, and was with him at dinner tonight at the Genessee Valley club.

ON THE STAGE.

On the stage with Mr. Bryn and Judge Parker were the stage leaders, Chalman William J. Connors, of Buf-falo, Leader Charles F. Murphy of Tammany hall, and National Chairman Norman E. Mack. The down-town stream

Norman E. Mack. The down-town streets were thronged all evening long, and the progress of the candidate from place to place was mide difficult by the crowds which pressed about him. Augustus Thomas stypke to the walting crowd in Conven-tion hall prior to the arrival of Mr. Bryan Judge Parker stepped forward to offer a foreword rather than an in-troduction. He said: "The United Democracy of the state of New York joins heartly with the people of Rochester in bidding welcome to our guest of honor, and we pledge fills out carnest support until victory "mes."

"It is worth coming a long way." "It is worth coming a long way." said Mr. Bryan, "to participate in the closing honors of a great convention in this country's greatest state. "I appreciate Judge Parker's cordiat words in presenting me to you." I ap-preciate the pledge he has given and especially do I appreciate his own carn-est part in the fulfillment of that pledge.

pledge, "I am gratified that the great con-"I am gratified that the great con-vention which closed today placed at the head of its own ticket one so wor-liv to carry the party's standard in this state. Mr. Chanler represents a class that I believe will be a growing class in this country. He is a man of means, whose money has not weaned him from sympathy with the common people. I believe we are entering upon a new era in American politics, and in the years to come I believe that more men than in the past of Mr. Chanler's type will consecrate their lives and their means to the good of their fel-ioy men.

ing system of the country down to ruin.' "What is this difficult thin ' that will devastate the country if his aspirations for the presidency are thwarted? It is the protection of the depositor who is invited to entrust his earnings to the care of banks. There are 15 million depositors in the United States, and they are calmly assured that the bank-ing system can only be safe when the depositors are insecure—that to secure the depositors would make banking insecure. This logic may satisfy the big financiers from whom he has drawn his arguments, but it will not satisfy the millions whose deposits make bank-ing profitable. His theory is that a guarantee fund would invite careless-ness, but he overlooks the fact that mutual responsibility on the part of the bank would ' compel a stricter supervision and a better regulation. "The third scare by Mr. Taft is in the discussion of the trust question. He says that Mr. Roosevelt would com-pel the trusts to conduct their busi-ness in a lawful manner and secure the benefits of their operations for the maintenance of the prosperity of the country of which they are an importthe benefits of their operations for the maintenance of the prosperity of the country of which they are an import-ant part, while Mr. Bryan would ex-tirpate and destroy the entire business in order to stamp out the evils which they have practised." "In using this emphatis language, Mr. Taft has rendered us a service, because "In using this emphatis language, Mr. Tatt this rendered us a service, because he admits that the Republican party does not intend to prevent trusts. It only proposes to regulate them, and if we can judge the future by the past that regulation will not be effective. If Mr. Roosevell, with all his stranu-osity, has not succeeded in imprisoning a single trust magnate, how can the complacent Mr. Taft hope to accom-plish anything in the way of regula-tion? tion?

tion? "The Democratic plan is to bring manufacturing and trading corpora-tions under the surveillance of the gen-eral government when they reach a point where their control of business point where their control of business becomes a menace. The limit is fixed arbitrarily at 25 yer cent and it is needless to say that this limit is so high that an insignificant fraction of the corporations would be brought un-der the operations of the law, but those brought under the operation of the law would be the very ones which have been exploiting the country and evad-ing the officers of the law. This plan instead of disturbing business would protect a multitude of legitimate cor-porations which are now in constant fear of being bankrupted by the un-scrupulous methods of the monopolistic corporations. handed to him.

scrupulous methods of the monopolistic corporations. "The fourth scare which Mr. Taft presents is excited by the Democratic declarations on the tariff questions. Speaking of our platform proposal to make such radical reductions as may be necessary to restore the tariff to a revenue basis, he declares in his notifi-cation speech that 'the introduction in-to power of a party with this avowed purpose cannot but halt the gradual recovery from our recent financial de-pression and produce business disaster compared with which our recent panic and depression will seem very small indeed."

indeed." "Surely Mr. Taft cannot contemplate, any material reduction of the tariff if he really believes that a gradual re-turn to a revenue basis would involve us in any "business disaster compared with which our recent panic and de-pression will seem small indeed." "Mr. Taft began his candidacy a year ago as a champion of tariff reform, but each month has witnessed a lessen-ing of his zeal until now his temper, with which our recent panle and de-pression will seem small indeed." The search for the revolver with "Mr. Taft began his candidacy a year ago as a champion of tariff reform, but each month has witnessed a lessen-ing of his zeal until now his temper, measured by the tariff reform ther-mometer, is close to zero. His plat-form begins with what at first glance might seem a pledge that something would be done. It says: "The Repub-lican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a spelican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a spe-cial session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president. following the inauguration of the next president.' "The word reduction' does not appear in the platform. It is 'revision,' not 'reduction,' and Mr. Taft has already interpreted the word 'revision' to mean the raising of some of the schedules and the lowering of others, but with no indication as to whether the aver-age will be above or below the present. "Not only does the platform avoid any promise of reduction, but it pro-poses for the guidance of the legisla-tors the same rule upon which the present tariff was framed, except that the new rule announces the guaranty of a reasonable profit to American in-dustries. The government does not presume to guarantee a profit to farm-ers, to laborers, to merchants or to professional men. Only to the manu-facturers is a profit to be guaranteed and as the beneficiaries of protection are allowed to determine what is a 'reasonable' profit we may expect the tariff rates to be increase of Republican success. "What is there in the Democratic

Among the guests invited to meet Mr. Bryan were Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, John A. Dix, Judge Parker, Norman E. Mack, Judge Morgan, J. O. O'Brien, Charles E. Murphy, William J. Connors, Daniel F. Cohalan, Lewis Nixon, Senator Gore of Oklahoma, Sen-ator P. McCarren and William A. Sheehan Sheehan.

A TRIUMPHANT JOURNEY.

A TRIUMPHANT JOURNEY. Mr. Bryan's journey through the Em-pire State was a triumphant one. Everywhere along the line of the West Shore and New York Central railroads immense crowds turned out and greeted him with cheers, handclapping and the waving of flags and banners. At each place a speech was insisted on, and when he had gotten through for the day he had spoken 17 times. He never lost an opportunity to flay both President Roosevelt and Mr. Taft. Mr. Taft he characterized as Presi-dent Roosevelt's "appointee," and he declared that Mr. Roosevelt's endorse-ment of Mr. Taft was "the endorse-ment of the bahkrupt against whom one could not collect."

ment of the bankrupt against whom one could not collect." Utica, the home town of Representa-tive James S. Sherman, Republican nominee for vice president, vied with the other places in the greeting to the Democratic candidate. Hundreds were at the station when his train pulled in, and the crowd immediately demanded a speech. Mr. Bryan said he recognized that there lived in Utica one of the candidates of the opnosition and yet he supposed there would be a few Dem-ocrats there in spite of the fact, "just as I am afraid there will be a few Republicans in Lincoln in spite of the fact that I live there, for," he said, "while each man has his circle of triends, still elections go more on the principles involved than upon the per-sonal charms or characteristics of the candidates,"

sonal charms or characteristics of the candidates." The passage of the train through Washington street In Syracuse, a dis-stance of over a mile, was a memorable one. Bryan and Kern pictures were displayed on every tree and in many windows; cannon boomed and a surging mass of humanity followed the car un-til it stopped in the down town sec-tion of the city. Mr. Chanler, who was in an automobile, was wedged in by the crowd, but, seeing him, Mr. Bryan and several others reached out and lifted him on to the train. Mr. Bryan gracefully put the gubernatorial nominee to the front and announced that before he himself would speak, he wanted to have the "honor and the pleasure of introducing to you the next governor of the state of New York."

Mr. Chanler bowed to the throngs, Mr. Chanter bowed to the throngs, amid great applause, and then Mr. Bry-an paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Chan-ler. In addition to the plaudits of the multitudes during the day, the Demo-cratic candidate was showered with bouquets, and several campaign con-tributions of considerable size were handed to him

Wants to Establish Closer Relations Between His Office, Bank Examiners And Clearing House Associations.

COMPTROLLER

Washington, Sept. 16.—In order to work a plan of close co-operation be-tween the office of the comptroller of the currency, the bank examiners and the various clearing house associa-tions of the United States, Comptrol-ler Murray will ask the various clearing house associations to send a committee to Washington to con-sult with him and the bank examin-ers in the large cities. He has also decided to establish an office in his bureau, to which bank examiners throughout the country will send in-formation of any unusual facts in connection with towns in their re-spective territories, this officer acting house. Bank examiners who may dis-cover loans in unusual quantities made to either local or outside con-cerns will be expected to apply to this office for information as to what other examiners have reported re-garding loans to the same concern. Under the present system, a bank examiner has no means of knowing what loans a concern may have ne-sotiating outside of his own jurisdic-tion. In speaking of the plan of co-

In speaking of the plan of co-operation between the department and the clearing house, Comptroller Murray said today: "The banks join together for mu-tual benefit in a clearing house asso-ciation and assume certain mutual ob-ligations. Now, it seems to me that in the interest of sound banking, these clearing house associations should be promptly informed by our examiners, of the existence of any cause for alarm in any particular bank making up that clearing house association. If a bank which is a member of a clearing house associa-tion is indulging in practises which are not considered good banking, and the examiner of this office discovers such practises, it seems to me the clearing house ought to know it promptly, because in case of trouble, the association usually assumes the burden of either carrying the bank through the stress or else liquidating house associations, in the large cities have their own examiners and, of course, if their examiners find con-ditions which are not known to these officers, the comptroller should be promptly informed. I want it to be a close and mutual co-operation in the interests of the careful banking methods."

low men. "I appreciate the spirit of harmony, that prevailed in this convention. All metals, my friends, fuse at some heat, and so there comes a degree which welds us all together in a common cause. Everywhere throughout this broad country of ours the Democrats are getting together to get control of this government." Reverting to his prepared speech up-on the topic, "Mr. Taft and His Scares," Mr. Bryan said:

BRYAN'S SPEECH

BRYAN'S SPEECH. "Mr. Taft confesses that his argu-ments are not convincing when he at-tempts to introduce scares and to interate the public with disaster if he s'not elected. The threat is always an admission that argument and persua-stift have not been effective. Mea-sured by this test, Mr. Taft has already ibandoned hope of convincing the pub-le of the righteousnes of his position. Let us take up the subjects with which he has been dealing. "On the labor question he declares that our demand for a trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt is the nost insidious attack upon the judi-tial system in the history of the coun-rry. According to Mr. Taft it would very much impair the administration of justice. He seems to forget that the very reform which we endorsed very much impair the administration of justice. He seems to forget that the very reform which we endorsed yas endorsed by the United States tenate 12 years ago and that it was fupported by such Republicans as Sen-ator Sherman of Ohio, Senator Allison of Jowa, Senator Hale of Mathe, Sena-tor Hawley of Connecticut, Senator Horrill of Vermont and Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. It is not attack-ing the courts to remove abuses that have grown up under existing methods of procedure. His logic, if it were sound in cases of indirect contempt, would eliminate the jury entirely. The criminal judge does not feel that his dignity is assalled when the accused is given a trial by jury; the common awy judge does hot feel that it is a re-flection on him for a party to a suit of Insist upon trial by jury; why should it seem such an unlawful hing for a jury trial to be granted in a case of indirect contempt? tariff rates to be increased rather than to be lowered in case of Republican success. "What is there in the Democratic platform that can be construed as a threat to any legitimate business? Will it produce a panic to put on the free list articles that come in competition with articles controlled by the trusts? Democratic success will not bring a panic to any except those who have their hands in other people's pockets, and these ought to be frightened. "Will it disturb business to materially reduce the tariff on the necessities of life, especially on those articles that are sold abroad cheaper than at home? If we can compete in foreign markets do we need a high tairff to enable us to compete in the home markets? Since Mr. Taft has gone into the business of predicting panics if he is not elected, it is only fair to ask what guaranty he can give if he is elected. No one can doubt that he nonestly believes that the country will go to ruin if he is elected, but what guaranty have we that his opinion is well founde? " T beg you to decide these questions upon their merits. Weigh the argu-ments. Be not misled by the direful prophecies of a candidate who has con-vinced you that in some mysterious way the country's prosperity depends upon his election."
