PROVO SOCIAL NEWS.

The Woodmen of the World and the Women of Woodcraft, and a number of invited friends enjoyed a pleasant social Monday evening at their hall over the postoffice, the occasion being the installation of the officers of the lodges. After the installation ceremonies the time was spent in music, song and dancing. Delicious refreshments were provided by the ladies of the order.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bersach, who have resided for some time in Logan, have returned to Provo and will make their home here.

Mrs. Alex Robertson of Eureka visited Provo friends this week.

Hon. Joshua Greenwood of Fillmore was a Provo visitor during the week.

The Provo Terpsichore gave another of their very enjoyable balls in the Mozart pavilion Thursday evening.

Wednesday evening the eighty-third anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Ann Z. Jones was celebrated by a number of the venerable lady's friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Jepperson. A fine supper was enjoyed by the guests and the evening was spent in music and speeches of congratulation and extending wishes for "many happy returns" to the guest of honor.

The "63" club was entertained Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Roberts, Jr. The prizes were awarded to Mr. R. R. Irvine, Jr., and Mrs. W. B. Searle.

Miss Maud Graham entertained the Adlibertum club Wednesday evening. The guests enjoyed a pleasant evening with games and music and partaking of delicious refreshments.

Miss Emily Whitney, who has been visiting with Mrs. W. H. Dusenberry and daughter, returned to her home in Salt Lake today.

Mrs. Susa Y. Gates and Miss Emma Lucy Gates will leave for New York Monday, where Miss Gates goes to fill her professional engagement under the management of Major Pond.

A very happy wedding reception was given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Jones in honor of the marriage of their son J. Milton Jones and Miss Lulu Lamereaux, of Logan, which took place in Logan last week. The guests were members of the family and a few intimate friends, who enjoyed a pleasant evening with the usual wedding festivities. A sumptuous supper was served. The newly wedded pair have many friends in Utah and Cache counties and begin their married life under auspicious conditions. They have not yet decided whether they will make their home in Provo.

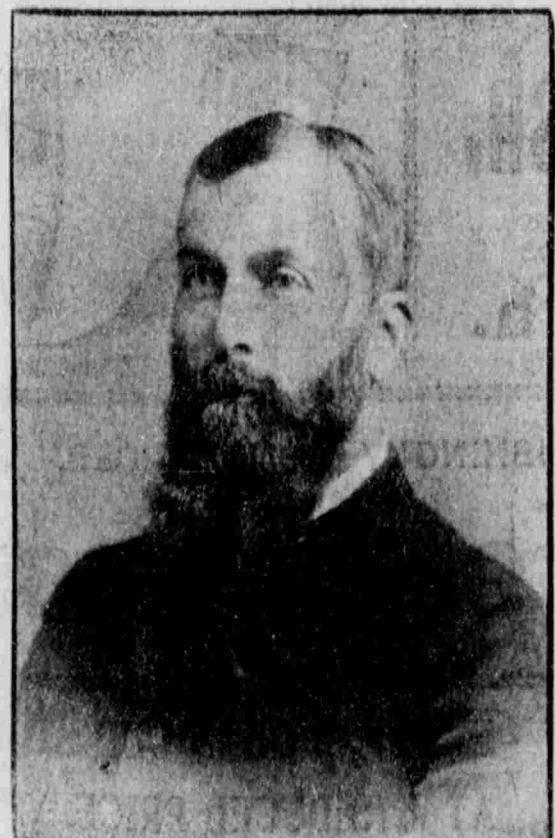

The ladies of the Women's Republican club have appointed committees and have all arrangements under way to give a grand ball Friday evening, January 24th, in the Mozart pavilion. Governor Wells and other state officers, and the county and city officers will be invited, and the ladies expect to make the ball one of the grand social events of the season.

The Parents' class met Wednesday evening in College hall. Elder Oscar B. Young offered invocation. Miss E. Canbrack sang, very sweetly, "My Dream of You." Then little Miss Helen Newell sang, "Shine Out O Blessed Star," accompanying herself on the piano. The little girl is only five years of age, and about six months ago began to develop a talent for music, practicing at home the songs she learns in kindergarten, picking out accompaniments on the piano with ease and quickness. She has had no assistance, and to hear her sweet but-like voice singing to her own accompaniment is a revelation in child life. State Superintendent A. C. Nelson delivered an able lecture on the "Relationship of School and Home," showing the necessity for co-operation on the part of teachers and parents, who should be acquainted through visits of the teacher to the parents, that they might work in sympathetic union for the training of the child. Parents and teachers should be optimists, leading the children to a recognition of God through the works of nature, and to a recognition of man's accountability to Him, that their faith and their desires to live noble and useful lives may be aroused and harmony and right living may result. At the close the speaker congratulated the academy and the people of Provo on having such an organization as the Parents' class, which was a power for good wherever its influence was felt.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clove entertained a few friends Wednesday evening in honor of Prof. John P. Munkin. A delightful evening was passed with music and readings. Dainty refreshments were served.

Utah Sorority, a regular session on Wednesday, Jan. 15th, at the parlor of Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Beck in the chair. The first paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Zina B. Smoot on "The Life and Works of Blackmore." After a ten-minute recess sixteen members answered to roll call. The next subject, "In the Country of Lorna Doone," was presented by Miss Allie Smoot in a very graphic and beautiful description. Mrs. Sprickart followed with an interesting review of "Lorna Doone." After the critics the club adjourned to meet in one week at the same place.

WALKER'S STORE.

THE JANUARY WHITE SALE

Undermuslins, Embroideries, Household Linens.

ALL over the United States the month of January is looked forward to with all-absorbing interest because of the great white sales. In times gone by, though, this first month of the year by reason of its following so closely on the heels of the holiday selling, had quite an opposite story to tell. In-anition deep and strong prevailed throughout merchandising centers generally. But the merchant-man—that study in energy and originality—bethought himself the solution to the problem and from small beginnings the white sales each year waxed wondrous and all-pervasive. Today, then, the announcement of the very best one we've had to tell of, which means much, for equal exhibits to ours have never been in this part of the country. Come Monday Jan. 20th, to Saturday.

Undermuslins—never have we had such superior sewing to show you, never more painstaking finishing, never more generously cut garments, never such lavish variety of styles. All fresh and sweet from rural factories where no miasma of overcrowded workshops has ever touched them and even before they have had the chance now of becoming soiled through much handling, yours the opportunity to choose. A price list is added, but that gives little idea of quality and beauty. Come see.
