Left his Home.—See the notice in another column concerning George Cooper.

Change of Place.—We are requested to state that the ladies' meetings, announced in the Evening News to be held in the 14th Ward meeting house next Friday and Saturday, will be held, instead, in the Council House on those same days.

Seventies' Gen. Conf. Adjourns.
 The Seventies will please take notice that their regular meeting will be held at the Council House, on Wednesday next, at 7 o'clock.

ROBERT CAMPBELL, Clerk,
 In behalf of First Council of Seventies.

Died.—From Mr. W. Lapham, of this city, we learn that Brother Asaph Noble, of Smithfield, whom we mentioned some time ago as being in a very low condition from an illness, died at 6:50 o'clock yesterday morning. We regret to learn of the early departure of so good and worthy a young man, and extend our sincere condolence to the bereaved family.

A Success.—On Saturday evening last, a very creditable performance was given by the newly organized Fourth Ward Dramatic Association, of Ogden, City, their first appearance in public. The names of those who took part were published a few days ago in this paper. The "Fruits of the Wine Cup" and "Cabin Boy No. 93" were the plays. Both were well rendered. The leading part in the former were sustained by Miss Jessie Penrose. The scenery, stage and appointments were all made, painted and put up by the young people, who deserve great credit for their enterprise.

Sunday School Teachers' Meeting.
 A meeting of the superintendents and teachers of the Sunday Schools of Provo City convened in the meeting house at that place on Wednesday evening, the 8th inst. Supt. David John presiding. The object of the meeting was to set apart the superintendents and assistants, according to instructions from the General Superintendent, Geo. Q. Cannon. The following persons were set apart by Supt. D. John and assistants, S. S. Jones and Wm. Paxman:

First Ward, Sunday School: J. P. R. Johnson, superintendent and W. H. Dusenberry, assistant; Second Ward: Evan Wride, superintendent, and James W. Loveless and A. Jones, assistants; Third Ward: Samuel Liddiard, superintendent, and E. Harding, assistant; Fourth Ward: John E. Booth, superintendent, and Andrew Watson and Geo. Melchior, assistants.

Supt. John and his assistants spoke in relation to the schools, and showed forcibly the necessity that existed for increased efforts on the part of parents and leading men in behalf of the interests of the Sunday Schools.

Supt. John stated that the officers who had been set apart should immediately do the same for the teachers in their wards.

James Hardy was unanimously elected secretary for the Sunday Schools in the Stake. Meeting then adjourned till the Wednesday following the next Quarterly Conference of the State.

We are indebted to Bro. Hardy for the above item.

Naisbitt's Lecture.—There was a large audience present to witness the exercises of the Z. C. M. I. Mutual Aid Society, Saturday evening, in the Council House, and all passed off very pleasantly. The lecture by Brother H. W. Naisbitt occupied most of the evening, and was highly appreciated by all present. The speaker treated his subject "Employers and Employees" in an interesting manner, showed the duties of each class, and how they might, by establishing mutual confidence, further their interests. Spoke of the dignity and benefit of labor, and urged all workmen to seek to be efficient in their trades, cultivate an ambition to turn out the best kinds of work, and avoid all temptations that might induce them to neglect their duties. He advocated the establishment of libraries, innocent games and amusements, as means of recreation among workmen, because these things were needed, and if not furnished in a proper way, improper means might be resorted to to obtain them. He compared the advantages of this country, with those of the Old World, for workmen, and struck a balance in favor of America. He advised his hearers of the Mutual Aid Society to band themselves together, not only in their present capacity, but for trade, support and general advancement. To own a farm and raise live stock, as well as to produce manufactures and have their farm for purposes of recreation as well, and submitted other items for their consideration in this respect. He remarked that it was easy to divide humanity into two or three classes. One class shirked labor altogether, another class had to have produced for them, and still another class produced labor for themselves and their fellows. The latter were the kings among workmen, they were at no one's beck and call, and were comparatively independent.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The usual services of the Latter-day Saints took place in the Assembly Hall yesterday afternoon. The opening prayer was offered by Counselor D. H. Wells.

The congregation was first addressed by Elder Hugh Watson, lately returned from a mission to Great Britain. He said, in regard to that mission, that there never was a time in his life that he could look back to with more pleasure than the 22 months he spent in Europe preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Testified of the goodness of God in his behalf, and narrated incidents of his experience. He felt strengthened in his faith in the Gospel by his mission, and felt truly grateful for the privileges he had had of enjoying the influence of the Gospel and of preaching it to others. He described the condition of the religious world. Testified of the fulfillment of the promise "Thou shalt go in peace and return in safety," pronounced upon his head previous to his going abroad. Told of his experience in Edinburgh and how the Lord helped him in times of need, putting words into his mouth many times to answer and confound the wicked who in their questions desired to confuse him. He addressed himself to the youth of Israel, showed how thankful they should be for their advantages, and urged their love for God by keeping his commandments. He closed by invoking the blessing of the Lord upon all who tried to do right.

Apostle Wilford Woodruff next arose. He said Elder Watson's remarks, wherein he spoke of being born and reared in this Territory, caused him to reflect upon the time that had elapsed since the Saints came here in 1847. It was interesting to reflect upon, and upon the prophecies fulfilled by the history of the Saints from the beginning. Spoke of the gospel and its perfection, of the evidence it bore of its own divinity and of how impossible it would have been for man—for Joseph Smith to invent it; for Solomon Spaulding to write such a work as the Book of Mormon, or for any man to give revelations as fast as the Saints are ready to receive them. It is through faith that they are permitted to receive them, and the nearer we live to the Lord the more faith will be obtained. The speaker was glad to see the young men coming forward to take the places of their fathers. This work must go on, it can never fail. It did not stop when Joseph died, nor when Brigham died, nor will it stop when his present leaders are called to the spirit world. Israel will never be without a lawgiver, from this time henceforth and forever. No power can prevent this. We may be opposed and threatened by the world, but this makes no difference. Were it otherwise we would be in a worse situation than now. For as long as we are persecuted and oppressed for righteousness sake, we may be assured we are on the right side, but if all the world were friendly toward us, we might well begin to fear, we would then be of the world and not of God. God does not forget his people. Zion has been before his sight since the creation, as told by the prophets, this is the time to build up Zion, and we are the instruments chosen to build it. But what are we going to do when this nation rises up against us, as is threatened and feared by many. We are going to trust in God. The controversy is between him and the nation, and all we need to do is to trust him and exercise faith, and as sure as the Lord is stronger than any power on earth, just so sure will we come off victorious. The young must prepare to shoulder the burden carried by their fathers, and as sure as the Lord is stronger than any power on earth, just so sure will we come off victorious. The young must prepare to shoulder the burden carried by their fathers, and as sure as the Lord is stronger than any power on earth, just so sure will we come off victorious.

Elder Francis Cope, a recently returned missionary, was called to the stand and addressed the meeting. He related incidents of his missionary experience and bore testimony to the truth of the gospel. His duties, principally, while abroad, were the same as those of the Lord's servants here, and he testified of the blessings of God upon his head. He did not go abroad to get a testimony of the truth of "Mormonism," as he had it before he left Europe years ago, where he was born. But he went abroad to preach the gospel because he was called to do so. He described the general condition of the world, as it had come under his observation, mentioned various erroneous doctrines taught by the sectarians and showed that they did not themselves believe many things they preached, and denied many of the glorious truths contained in the Holy Scriptures. He showed how essential to salvation was strict obedience to the pure, simple principles of the gospel, and that all should be careful to never obtain the false ideas of men to obtain a place in their minds. Spoke of the cause of God in Europe, testified of the faithfulness and integrity of the Elders that had labored there, and of the good work that was being done there. He testified that all would be useful and happy, whether at home or abroad, if they did the will of the Lord.

President Joseph F. Smith occupied the time remaining. He was pleased to address the Saints once more, and to listen to the brethren who did like him. Was particularly struck with a remark made by Elder Cope in regard to the necessity of literal obedience to the gospel principles. He supposed men supposed it was their privilege to change those ordinances, spiritualize away their meaning, and claimed that Jesus had done all that was necessary for salvation, and that we had merely to believe on His name to be saved. The speaker showed the fallacy of such notions, giving as an illustration the case of a criminal on the scaffold, who, according to such ideas, on believing in Christ, would go straight to the bosom of Abraham to the arms of Jesus. If this is so, why can not all men do the same, what is the use of obeying the moral law of God, why must one man restrain his wicked desires, and work to do good all his life, if he is to get no greater reward for his righteousness than the murderer, the thief and the adulterer? Such things are the height of folly. They are false doctrines, for they subvert the justice of God, who rewards the man according to his deeds. He did not mean that all works were accomplished; that all men had to do for salvation was to believe in Him. He meant to believe in the performance of other works in another sphere. He came to introduce the gospel and to counsel death. This he did, and this much was finished, at the time of the crucifixion, but His great work had just begun at the time of His death. When He appeared to His disciples afterward, it was that they might be witnesses to His resurrection, and He conferred upon them the Holy Ghost, that they might carry on His work on earth while He went to the spirit world to further it there. They could not have proceeded with that work without the Holy Ghost, which He said would be with them in His stead, and He also said, "Freely have ye received, freely give," and "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, he that believeth not shall be damned, and these signs shall follow them that believe." &c. All this after he had exclaimed upon the cross, "It is finished." Did this look as if His work was finished when He suffered death? The Saints can understand this. They know that more is necessary besides belief in Christ to enable them to gain salvation, although belief in him is the first requirement. But we must be saved unless he repents of his sins, be baptized for the remission of sins, and after that receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. Not only this, a man to be saved must believe that Joseph Smith was a prophet of God, that the Book of Mormon is a divine revelation, and that all God's revelations are binding upon His people. No man will become a son of God, a member of His kingdom, except by these things. The speaker read from the scriptures the incident in the Savior's life where He was asked by a certain young man what good deed he should do to inherit eternal life, and showed thereby that a man must keep the commandments of God, love Him with all his might, mind and strength; love his neighbor as himself, make any sacrifice required of him by the Lord, and submit to the ordinances of the Church of God; and if he did not do these, he never could be saved. The importance of observing the Sabbath day, not only for men and women to observe it, but to see that their children did likewise, was dwelt upon with great emphasis, and other items of valuable instruction were given to the congregation.

The choir sang, "Give ear to my words." Benediction by Bishop E. D. Woolley.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of Wm. J. Conaghan, of Sonoma, Cal., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went abroad that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was hopeless, but I bought a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and I felt in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will be induced to take DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared and I shall soon be able to go to work. Sold by all druggists.
