

COMMENCEMENT AT L. D. S. UNIVERSITY

President Francis M. Lyman Delivers Timely Address to The Students.

DIPLOMAS FOR GRADUATES.

Barratt Hall the Scene of Large Gathering Last Evening—Features On the Program.

The commencement exercises of the L. D. S. university, which were held last evening in the Barratt hall, were marked by a very large attendance of friends. The hall was full to overflowing. The platform was tastefully decorated with palms and flowers. The American flag occupied a conspicuous place at the back of the stand. On one side of it was a banner bearing the numerals "49" and the other was the commercial flag.

The exercises started promptly at eight by the graduating class marching in single file to their seats on the stand. They were heartily applauded, as they did so. A selection given by the graduates, which met with much approval, after which prayer was offered by Joseph B. Taylor, Miss Winifred Smith then rendered a vocal solo in place of the quartet which was to have been given. An excellent vocal solo was then given by Alma Smith. The presentation of diplomas then took place. After making a few appropriate remarks President Anthony H. Lund handed to each of the graduates his or her diploma as the name was called. Miss Irene Kelly then favored the audience with a solo, while Mr. Francis M. Lyman gave the following address to the graduates:

"Occasions of this kind are usually regarded as opportunities for the giving of advice. Advice is too often either not accepted at all or soon forgotten, so I have thought that if I can say something that will help you young people to create for yourselves some definite ideals I shall be rendering you greater service, because ideals once created remain to serve as anchors and guides in life until replaced by higher and better ones.

"You who are members of the graduating class are to be congratulated, first because of the opportunities which you have had, and second because you have persistently and steadfastly pursued your work to so successful a termination, and I would remind you that the feeling and emotion which should be uppermost in your hearts at this time is one of gratitude—gratitude to God for the blessings of life and health, to your parents, many of whom no doubt have made noble sacrifices in order that you might have the advantages of an education, and to your teachers, who by their untiring efforts in your behalf and their personal interest in your welfare, have contributed so much to this result.

KEYNOTE TO SUCCESS.
"Your success in life will not depend very directly upon what you have learned about the subject of instruction or the other, but upon what you really are. You have been under the tuition of these teachers and they have of course endeavored to make you proficient, or rather to help you to make yourselves proficient in the various subjects of instruction that you have pursued, but they would in my opinion be poor teachers indeed if they have not taken advantage of the opportunity which has been given of doing something to shape your ideals and modify your characters. It is not what you know, far less is it what you possess in material things that determines your characters; but it is what you are, what habits you have formed, what tendencies you possess, what your prevailing emotions and thoughts may be. A man, Bishop John H. Vincent, whom I admire much because of the splendid

Constipation

Should not be neglected. It leads to more serious troubles. It shows that the important functions of the liver are imperfectly performed. The best medicine to take for it is the mild, gentle and purely vegetable cathartic, Hood's Pills, which act on the liver and bowels, cure biliousness, constipation, morning and sick headache, break up colds, remove uncomfortable fullness after dinner.

character which he developed, puts into the following simple beautiful words an ideal that I would hold before each one of you: 'I will this day try to live a simple, sincere and serene life; repelling promptly every thought of discontent, anxiety, discouragement, impurity, and self-seeking; cultivating cheerfulness, magnanimity, charity, and the habit of holy silence; exercising economy in expenditure, carefulness in conversation, diligence in appointed service, fidelity to every trust, and a childlike trust in God. And as I cannot in my own strength attain this measure of wisdom and power, I make humble and firm resolve to seek all these things from my Heavenly Father, in the name of His Son, Jesus Christ, and through the mighty energy of His Holy Spirit.'

DANGERS AHEAD.
The generation of our people just now passing away were driven by the very strenuousness of their circumstances to the adoption of such ideals. Where will you go to find a more childlike faith in God? A greater fidelity to duty? A more unswerving diligence in service? Or a more successful driving away of discontent, impurity and self-seeking? Now because of the facts that our circumstances and conditions demand that we are no longer menaced with the hazards and dangers incident to pioneer life, that material comforts have enormously increased, that our lives are not so strenuous, and that economy is not so imperatively necessary, there is grave danger that those who are now growing up may fall short of these splendid ideals.

FIDELITY TO PUBLIC TRUST.

"In these days of craft when false conceptions of honesty are sapping the very foundations of good citizenship and manhood, there is no more important characteristic of a young man can possess than absolute fidelity to public trust. There is no higher praise that can be bestowed upon a man than to say that he can be depended upon always to do the honest thing, he will not be tempted. O! What a need there is in the world today for honest men! Men who are honest in business, honest in their work, honest with God, with their fellow men, and with themselves.

"Orson Swett Marden, a gentleman whose writings you are all no doubt familiar with, has this to say on the matter of being honest enough to do your very best: 'This habit of always doing one's best enters into the very marrow of one's heart and character; it affects one's bearing, one's self-possession. The man who does everything to a finish has a feeling of serenity; he is not easily thrown off his balance; he has nothing to fear, and he can look the world in the face because he feels conscious that he has not put shoddy into anything, that he has had nothing to do with shams, and that he has always done his level best. The sense of efficiency, of being master of one's craft, of being equal to any emergency; the consciousness of possessing the ability to do with superiority whatever one undertakes, will give soul satisfaction which a half-hearted, slipshod, worker never knows.'

PURITY IS ESSENTIAL.
"Not only must you possess fidelity to trust and absolute honesty, but if your lives are to be in the highest degree successful, you must be pure—not simply outwardly pure, you must be inwardly pure—pure in thought, as well as in deed. Let your thoughts be clean with the cleanliness that is akin to godliness, and the strength of your cleanness will manifest itself in every act of your lives. These are surely important elements of character and will more certainly than anything else show what you really are.

Now concerning the educational equipment which the schools are furnishing to their students, it is pleasing to me to note that there is a well marked tendency to give a real preparation for life. Nearly every girl as she grows up and becomes mature comes to stand at the head of a home, for there can be no home without a mother, and in that position she has certain responsibilities. She must be a housekeeper. She must understand that the proper expenditure of money is a more difficult task than the making of it. She must realize that the health and physical efficiency of the members of her household will depend largely upon her. She must understand that this work of maternity is divinely creative. She must realize that the nurture and rearing of children is the most important work of womanhood. And she must feel in every fiber of her being that the making of a perfect home which will depend largely upon herself is one of the highest purposes that a man and woman can set out to accomplish; and if she does realize all these things she will be anxious to secure the best possible preparation for her position.

BULWARK OF THE HOME.

"We have laws, and officers to execute them. We have courts, and reformatories, and various methods of dealing with those who violate the law and are found in sin and crime. Sociologists are trying to find out what is wrong with our system of punishment and reformation, because they are failing. In all of this there is no real bulwark against vice and sin, a great saving force, a mighty power for good. The great and good have practically all sprung from good mothers and had about them the influence of good homes. I am not definitely informed as to the extent to which this institution meets these demands of the people, but I am sure that the tendency in this direction will become more and more a characteristic of the work offered in high schools, academies and other institutions of similar grade. We are living in a practical age and both young men and young women should be given as thorough a practical preparation for the work of their lives as it is possible to furnish.

THE BATTLE OF LIFE.

"There is nothing in the nature of this practical instruction that will prevent educational institutions from exercising their full effect in the matter of developing character. The reverse is true, for it will be found that the studies which give the best practical preparation for life will furnish also the best means of developing power and character in the individual.
"For some, probably all of you members of the graduating class, real life is just beginning. Soon responsibility will rest upon you, and the problems of every day life will press for solution. Your paths will be divergent and your duties varied. The men and the women with whom you come in contact and do business will be actuated in their conduct by various motives, and will have many standards by which to estimate the success of your lives. Temptations will be presented before you. False friends will give advice prompted by self interest. You will be subjected to the action of the two great opposing forces that have always existed, and the actual test of your quality and fiber will have begun. How will you acquit yourselves? What will your own conduct be under these various forces? What will be the effect of temptations? And what manner of men and women are you to be?

"These are questions which each must answer for himself. Your destiny is largely in your own hands. You are free agents in selecting your course and regulating your conduct. You have received a splendid physical and mental inheritance. Your parents have been devoted to your well-being, and you rest with yourselves. You cannot afford to disappoint your parents and teachers, prove recreant to the hopes of your friends, or false to your own ideals.

"Do you not see that everything depends on what you really are—depends on your characters.
WHAT IS DEMANDED.
"Now in closing let me crystallize the ideals which I have endeavored to help you to create by saying this: 'The world demands of men faith in God and fidelity to every trust; purity of life as manifested in thought as well as action; devotion to duty and diligence in appointed service; magnanimity in dealing with their fellows, and charity for the faults of others; hatred of that which is false and unjust; and a fixed determination to stand for the right; that every one shall be qualified to engage in some form of productive labor or other legitimate, useful work; and that he shall feel the obligation of transmitting to the future something more than he has inherited from the past.'

"The world demands of women all this and, besides, the possession of the race, the all-powerful influence of which can shape and mould those of the generation which is to come next, the recognition of the fact that the home is not only the center of the life of woman, but the place where in the hearts of her family she is the undisputed queen, determination to stand for the love and idealism characteristic of her sex, to prepare for and fulfill with courage the requirements of their manifest destiny.

President Lyman closed by invoking blessings on the university and its students.
Prof. W. C. Clive gave a violin solo accompanied by Clifford Clive, which was much appreciated, as was the solo by John W. Summerhays. A piano solo was then given by Edward P. Kimball which was followed by a short speech by Willard Young, during which he presented to Alma Smith and Coralia Hendrickson a check for $10, being the scholarship prize offered by Hober J. Grant. The band then played "The Gold and Blue," as a closing selection, after which the benediction was offered by Angus M. Cannon.

SERGEANT AND TWO SOLDIERS KILLED BY MOROS

Manila, May 28.—Two private soldiers were killed and a sergeant was mortally wounded during a fight with Moro bandits on the Roman river May 22, according to advices received here today. The Moros surprised an outpost of the Eighteenth infantry encamped near the mouth of the river, and the soldiers before the latter could defend themselves. The two privates were killed instantly by the first shots fired. Two columns of infantry are in pursuit of the bandits.
The detachment that was attacked had been engaged in the protection of friendly natives, inducing them to cultivate the land and had introduced the double sentry system as a precautionary measure, as attacks were expected momentarily from the roving bands of marauders that infested the country.

QUARTER OF A BILLION NEEDED FOR PANAMA CANAL

Washington, May 28.—A quarter of a billion of dollars will have been appropriated for the purchase and construction of the isthmian canal if the estimates for the expenditure in a cash material for the fiscal year beginning

July 1, 1910, are accepted by Congress next winter.

These estimates, amounting to about $35,000,000 have just been received in Washington from the canal zone and are being reviewed by Secretary of War Dickinson.
Already there has been appropriated for the purchase of canal rights from France and Panama and for construction, a total of $210,000,000. Secy. Dickinson finds it very difficult to reduce these estimates, and Congress itself has learned that a reduction of the estimates merely invites a deficiency appropriation later. The estimates for the canal are sent to Congress independently of the appropriation for the military establishment proper.

MUTINY QUELLED, ONE MAN BEING DEAD

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—Attacked by six of his crew at once, Capt. Wagner of the German ship Blisa Lihn which arrived here late last night from Antofagasta for Puget Sound, succeeded in beating off his opponents with his bow and a cutting knife, which bid fair to develop into large proportions and which resulted in the death of one man.
On April 19 the crew tapped a barrel of wine, and rapidly becoming intoxicated, attacked Capt. Wagner and the boatswain in an effort to make the former a prisoner and to throw the boatswain overboard. Capt. Wagner fought off his opponents, stretching them, one after another, on the deck. The boatswain, who was carried as far as the rail by the infuriated men, managed to escape, and going to the assistance of the captain, helped to bring about order. One of the crew was subsequently discovered in the hole, where he had fallen, suffering such severe injuries that he died. He was buried at sea. The Blisa Lihn is 64 days out from Antofagasta.
