

WERE ARCHBOLD LETTERS STOLEN

Man Who Claimed to be Go-Between Offered to Return Them For a Consideration.

YALE PARTLY CORROBORATED.

Copying Book Taken, Many Pages Being Photographed—Published By Hearst's Journal.

New York, Sept. 29.—A phase of the discussion of the "Standard Oil" correspondence made public recently by William R. Hearst was entered upon late today when John D. Archbold, vice-president, made a statement to the Associated Press, setting forth details of the alleged theft of correspondence from his files.

Former United States Senator John L. McLaurin of South Carolina also entered the field with a signed statement declaring his attitude in the matter of the correspondence between himself and Mr. Archbold. Mr. Archbold said:

"Over three years ago a report reached me that some of my letters had been offered for sale to newspapers in this city, avowedly as stolen letters. Examination showed that some letters were missing, and that they could only have been taken by someone not only familiar with the office details, but highly trusted. The party on whom suspicion fell stoutly denied all guilt."

"A little later, however, a man who represented himself as acting between the thief and those to whom the letters had been sold, proposed to return some of the letters to me, on condition that I should pay him a consideration. His story was that the idea of the theft had been conceived by his brother, who had at one time been in the employ of the company and his brother had induced the employee already suspected to accomplish the theft. According to the go-between's story, he had disposed of the letters, or some of them, to two men, who purchased them on behalf of Mr. Hearst's newspaper, the Journal. Not only had stolen letters been thus traded for, but the thief was inducing copyers of one or more letters copying books, many of whose pages he claims were photographed, other pages being removed altogether. The books in question were, the go-between said, returned after 48 hours. It is impossible to say how many were stolen and sold in this way. The thieves worked at their leisure. It is not necessary to say more at present of the names of the go-between's story of three years ago lay in his return of some of the correspondence at the time the production of stolen letters by Mr. Hearst is further corroborated now. Obviously among such a coterie, authenticity of their output is not to be lightly accepted. The opportunity for falsification, suppression of context and distortion of passages are many."

McLAURIN'S STATEMENT.

New York, Sept. 29.—Ex-United States Senator John L. McLaurin of South Carolina, tonight gave out the following signed statement regarding the correspondence between himself and John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company, as recently made public by W. R. Hearst: "An effort has been made to create a political sensation by the publication of certain correspondence between John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company, and myself. For that correspondence I have no apologies to make. At the time of the letters I had the honor to enjoy what is now a bitter struggle in which was involved not only my own political future, but the economic and political principles for which I stood and which, I am proud to say, meant the emancipation of the south from the ignorant prejudice of Bourbonism and the 'bloody shirt' into the freedom of an enlightened south and the progress of an intelligent individualism."

In the support of these principles, and the hope of the progress I saw then no impropriety in enlisting as far as practicable, the assistance of the most progressively administered and the most intelligently directed corporation that human intelligence has yet produced. Nor has the enormous body of statutory crime since created or the

Common Sense And a Tablet

Do Away With Dyspepsia, Stomach Trouble and Make Meals a Pleasure.

When your stomach goes on a strike and mass meetings of indignation are held all over your body, then it is that you should sit up and take notice. It is clearly and only a question of common sense in this thing called dyspepsia. Take away, by abuse, over eating, excesses and high living, the things which the stomach needs and you have dyspepsia and indigestion; then other maladies follow these—this is common sense.

The stomach is willing enough but you won't let it do its work. You take away the materials which are so necessary for it to use.

Give back these materials and dyspepsia and indigestion by the blood and the whole machinery of man begins slowly to move and do its work.

What the stomach needs is nerve force, fluids for its digestive glands, and nourishment and power. All these necessities it takes from the blood. If dyspepsia gives nothing to the blood, the blood gives nothing to the stomach. So the condition is also, pure, simple and unalloyed.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are common sense pressed by high power into tablets. Every drug store carries them. 50 cents per package. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

hypocritical affectation of morality assumed by some of our legislators and congressmen in any way changed my point of view or quickened my conscience. I can see no reason why I have been the case with some of my former colleagues and associates.

"The constituencies that they represent do not hesitate to take Mr. Carnegie's trust produced and tariff protected money for their churches and libraries or to accept Mr. Rockefeller's large donations for the education of the negro when they have disfranchised."

"If political campaigns are to be run without money and political progress is to be achieved without financial expenditure, it is high time that both parties should be apprised of that utopian period, but until that period has arrived, I can see no reason why I should be battling for what I conceived to be the right, should decline to accept the support, whether financial or personal, of which I stood in need. I believe the south, and especially the state of South Carolina, is today suffering from its moral process and its intelligent exercise of the right of self-government by an oligarchy which keeps alive the prejudices of a past generation through the perpetuation of ignorance and corruption, and I shall welcome the day when the educational propaganda, which can only be spread by the use of money, whether derived from the governmental sale of whiskey, will enable the people to see more clearly by their own best interests and cast out those leaders whose hypocritical morality and ill-disguised selfishness is responsible for the fact that in the south today is greater and more increase of wealth slower than in any great section of the Union."

"It is the fashion of present-day political hypocrisy to decry the corporation, to abhor the trust and to pretend in public life to prescribe the influence of wealth; but as in this country and in this age wealth is, and must be, the result of intelligence, I am not willing to be considered amongst those cowardly enough to deny its influence which its intelligence has always and everywhere every form of government thus far devised."

On a government of ignorance, I have had enough in my native state. I hope for and shall continue to work for a government of intelligence."

(Signed) "JOHN LOWMEDES McLAURIN."

TARIFF REVISION MOSTLY DOWNWARD

Was Keynote of Judge Taft's Ten Speeches That He Made Yesterday.

HE WENT AFTER MR. BRYAN

Says Difficultly With Him Is That He Is Trying to Dodge His Own Record.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 29.—Tariff revision mostly downward, but in some instances upward—notably on pottery—was the keynote of Candidate Taft's 10 speeches today. In none of them did he forget to "go after" his Nebraska opponent.

The Ohioan's campaign through South Dakota terminated here tonight where he addressed a tremendous audience from the four states of Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota. The meeting was held in the immense train shed of the Union passenger station, and was rivaled in the day's trip from Aberdeen, only by two meetings held at Mitchell.

Senator Kittredge met the Taft train at Mitchell and made public assurances of his continued support of the ticket. Senator Gamble, his factional opponent, and Congressman Parks and Martin joined the train at Aberdeen, as did other state politicians, leaving no Republican faction in South Dakota unrepresented in the demonstration of approval, enthusiasm and confidence in the candidate.

These incidents and the assurances to the candidate from those in touch with the South Dakota situation, Mr. Taft said today, were most satisfactory evidence of the value of his trip. Besides Mitchell and Sioux City, the largest crowds of the day were at Aberdeen and Yankton, the latter the honor of Senator Gamble. Other stops of the special where cheering audiences were waiting were at Mellette, Redfield, Wessley, Tripp, Parkston, Lesterville, Scotland and Vermillion.

Judge Taft's voice permitted him to be heard fairly well. His speaking assistant during today was Representative Adam Beck of Nebraska, who jokingly referred to the candidate as the "unpolished statesman." He said the great distinction between Taft and Bryan was that you could see Taft much further than you could hear him, and you could hear Bryan much further than you could see him, or ought to follow him.

The manner of speech Mr. Taft delivered during the day may be learned from the following extracts of remarks made at different places along the road. His speech at Mitchell, where at Sioux City were along the same lines:

MR. TAFT'S SPEECH.

"The difficulty with Mr. Bryan, my distinguished opponent, is that he is engaged in trying to avoid his record, and the Republican party and its candidate are trying to stand by its record. Mr. Bryan, I believe, yesterday invited my consideration to a number of issues, but I don't think that he dwelt, with that intense emphasis of which he is capable, on the condition the farmers were in when he was, so to speak, at the helm. I don't think he called your attention to the fact that the tariff of 1906, which he is now proposing to produce under the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill, of which he was one of the chief advocates. He did not refer to the fact, with any degree of significance, that wheat under the influence of that great tariff measure went down below 50 cents. He did not call your attention to the fact that corn was at 10 cents, that oats were at 10 cents, and that he dwelt on the fact that after the Democratic party, under his leadership, had brought about such a condition of affairs, that in order to hold us all out of difficulty, he proposed a method by which we should repudiate half our debts, and in that way stagger back to prosperity."

"I don't think he called your attention to the fact that within two years after the gold standard was adopted in 1896 every one of the prohibitions which he made as to what would happen unless you adopted free silver was refuted by the event. I don't think he dwelt at any great length on the enormous issue, which is the tariff, of free silver, was brought to your attention in 1900. I don't think he invited your consideration to the fact that on the 4th day of July, when he was notified in Lincoln of his second nomination, he said that unless we got out of the Philippine islands, unless we abandoned that awful issue, that awful policy of imperialism by electing him, we should not celebrate with true patriotism."

"I am interrogated as to whether the tariff should be revised down or upwards. My own impression is, without being familiar with the schedules as an expert, that in most cases the operation of the protective tariff has been reduced, and therefore the revision with respect to those schedules should be downward. There are a few—not many—are in which such change has been taken. Indeed, the change has been the other way and in that respect probably the tariff ought to be raised."

"Mr. Bryan says that we may not expect anything from the Republican party, that it is governed by the protected interests and that they contribute to the campaign fund. If they do, I am glad to advise you that the campaign fund this year is not flattering, and that no campaign has been carried on more economically than this year. Secondly, if I want to call your attention to the fact that when the Republican party rises to bring about a trusted promise, it enforces that promise against any corporate influence, as it has done in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, and following the example of Theodore Roosevelt, it will be my pleasure to see duty done by the executive head of the nation and the Republican party can gather such influence, to bring about an honest and thorough revision of the tariff, or the one hand protecting the industries by the method of protection explained, and on the other, seeing that that measure is not too great, in the interest of the consumer."

Judge Taft, seated in his private car on a quiet siding at South Sioux City, with nine or ten speeches in Nebraska, he will reach Lincoln the home of Mr. Bryan, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, where he spends the night.

POLITICS INJECTED INTO BANKERS' CONVENTION

Denver, Colo., Sept. 29.—A sensation was created at the morning session today of the trust section of the American Bankers' association by the remarks of Col. William E. Hughes of Denver, who was on the program for a welcoming address. Col. Hughes injected politics into his speech, declaring that if the Republicans had reduced the tariff at the last session of Congress they would be in better position to win the coming election, and if the Democrats had adhered to their old doctrines and left out their many "isms" they would have interested the country far more. He was especially bitter against the guarantee of bank deposits.

The report of Secy. James R. Branch showed the trust section to be in a prosperous condition, with 331 members, 85 more than last year. The aggregate resources of members of the section is about three and a half billion dollars. Over two-thirds of the trust companies of this country are from the rolls of this section.

An amendment to the bylaws was adopted giving a vice president to each state which has at least five trust companies.

As the bylaws stood a state had to have 10 trust companies to be entitled to a vice president.

Breckenridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust company of St. Louis, in his address, sketched the origin and growth of the trust company and showed its necessity to supplement the powers and uses of banks. He explained the limitations of banks and showed that trust companies to transact business prohibited to banks, especially national banks.

His address abounded in statistics, of interest only to those directly interested in trust companies.

GOV. HANLY WANTS CHARGES INVESTIGATED

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—Gov. Hanly read a message to the legislature this afternoon demanding that a committee be appointed with full powers to investigate the charge made against the governor yesterday by Representative Kniesly of the lower house that the governor had offered to pay a position paying a salary of $2,000 if he would support the county local option bill.

"If these charges are true," said Gov. Hanly in his message, "then the very honor of Indiana is impeached. If they are false, as I know them to be, then their falsity should be established."

JUDGE NAGEL AND WATERS PIERCE OIL CO.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Judge Charles Nagel, who, in the absence of Chairman Hitchcock, is in charge of the national oil quarrel, today gave out a statement admitting that the law firm of which he is a member is acting in a professional capacity for the Waters-Pierce Oil company. Judge Nagel's statement was called forth by the statement made by Judge Henry S. Priest of St. Louis, a Democrat, who was referred to by President Roosevelt in a letter to Mr. Bryan as a trust attorney supporting Mr. Bryan. Mr. Priest admitted that he had been retained in a legal capacity by the oil company, and stated that Judge Nagel, a Republican committeeman from Missouri, was similarly retained.

Judge Nagel in his statement says that the employment of his firm by the Waters-Pierce company began some years ago when they undertook an examination of the Missouri laws with reference to the operations of the Waters-Pierce company. Judge Nagel said that the company had been retained by the Missouri laws with reference to the operations of the Waters-Pierce company.

"In the course of my examination," said the statement, "I developed that our relation to the case was not what we had expected it to be. Our firm thereupon refused to receive further fees as general counsel, and asked the consent of our client to withdraw from the particular case in question. This was refused."

Since then, Judge Nagel concludes, the firm's connection with the company has been confined to this one case, presenting those points of law on which they believe decision in the case must finally turn.

Whitney's History of Utah at Half Price.

The Deseret News takes pleasure in announcing that it has secured the sole rights to the HISTORY OF UTAH, by Orson F. Whitney, originally published by the George Q. Cannon & Sons Co.

This work, which was begun in 1890, and printed in three large volumes (the fourth volume issued being biographical, and not a part of the direct history of Utah), is one of the largest and most exhaustive histories ever compiled of any western state. The three volumes bring the history of the state from the foundation down to the year 1890, at the time of the issuance of the manifesto, and includes the history of the Church from its organization in New York. The first ten chapters are devoted to this subject.

In the three volumes are included 235 full page steel plates, mostly portraits of leading figures in the history of the State, originally obtained at a cost of many thousand dollars. The volumes each contain approximately 800 pages, a total of 2,351 pages in the three. The binding is quarto size, full morocco with gilt edges, no other style of binding being issued.

The three volumes were originally sold at $30.00, and several thousand sets were placed throughout the state at that figure. The "News" having obtained the unsold copies of the edition, will place them on the market at the coming October Conference and sell to the first comers at HALF THE ORIGINAL PRICE, OR $15.00 FOR THE THREE VOLUMES. No single volumes will be sold. Without doubt many libraries throughout the country will avail themselves of this rare opportunity, and Utah people who desire to add this work to their libraries are urged to call at the Deseret News book store and inspect the work during Conference.

The low price at which this rare work is offered will undoubtedly exhaust the edition in a short time. The work will then be out of PRINT, so that every book-lover should avail himself of this last chance.

The original subscribers, who already have the first three volumes of the History of Utah are entitled to the fourth volume (containing individual biographies) free, by addressing George Q. Cannon & Sons Association.

The "News" has no interest in the fourth volume, the work being complete as above stated, in the three volumes, now offered at $15.00.

The Only Food

The only wheat food that is perfectly cooked—a pretty strong claim, is it not?

Steam-cooked for six hours—then thoroughly cured—then baked at 400 degrees.

It requires 96 hours to turn wheat into Maple-Flake. Yet flaked food can be made in from 18 to 20 hours. Let us tell you what a difference that makes in the food.

Wheat is composed largely of starch.

Starch, to be digestible, must be made soluble. The particles must be separated, so the digestive juices can get to them.

You cannot digest raw starch.

The only way to break up the granule of starch is to apply a fierce heat, and for long. That is why wheat is flaked—to get it so thin that the heat goes through.

In baking bread, the inside of the loaf never gets heat enough. That is why bread doesn't all digest. That is why more will digest when it's toasted.

The more starch you break up by heat, the more food you will get. But no form of wheat food—save Maple-Flake—is so cooked that all of the wheat becomes digestible.

Maple-Flake alone is all food.

That is why Maple-Flake is the most economical food. It is all nourishment.

But that isn't all. When only half of a food digests the other half ferments and breeds germs. It always causes, in some degree, symptoms of indigestion. Dyspeptic symptoms are usually due to the failure of starch to digest.

Maple-Flake is cooked with pure maple syrup. That's for the children, mainly—to make them like the food that is best for them.

"It's All Food"
