Wife Murderer Says Too Much Time Has Been Wasted in His Case.

IS NOW IN THE DEATH CELL.

Not Believed He Will Attempt to Commit Suicide—A Neighbor to "Dutch Charlie."

"Too much time has been wasted. If I had had my way, it would all have been over with long ago." With this simple declaration Frank P. Rose took up his quarters in "murder row" of the state prison yesterday afternoon, being taken from the county jail to his death cell by Deputy Sheriff Sharp. He was registered at the "pen," given prison No. 1525, and cell No. 154, in the south cell house. He likes his accommodations much better than at either of the down-town prisons. Rose was happy yesterday. He was glad that his death had become a matter of only a few days, and he promises to give the officers no trouble at all. He hopes they will "do the shooting" at 10 o'clock prompt, seeing no use whatever in putting it off until a later hour. Rose is not under death watch and will not be until about two weeks before the execution. The prison authorities watch him, but anticipate no attempt on his part to commit suicide. He is denied all visitors except his himself asks for them. If he declines to see a person, his wishes are respected. The cell occupied by Rose is only three doors from where "Dutch Charlie" awaits the coming of his executioners. They can talk, but cannot see each other, the two cells facing the same direction.

MEETING POSTPONED.

State Board of Corrections Will Consider Wardenship Saturday.

The meeting of the state board of corrections, which was to have been held today at the state prison, has been postponed for several days and will probably be held on Saturday. The postponement was made upon request of Acting Warden Wright, who desires to be present at the meeting, but could not have so done had it been held today, for the reason that he had to accompany some prisoners to the city court for preliminary hearing. At the meeting, a warden will be appointed by the board to succeed George N. Dow, now deceased. The most prominent candidates for the appointment in the field so far as known are Dr. A. C. Young, the present physician at the state prison, and Arthur Pratt, formerly chief of police.

DEPARTMENT PAYROLLS.

Mayor Morris Approves All Legitimate Items of Expense.

Mayor Morris has approved the departmental payrolls of the city, with the exception of the items specified in his veto which appeared in full in last evening's "News." The items approved include practically all of the laboring men on the payrolls in the various departments and include the entire payrolls of the board of public works, the parkkeeper and the janitor of the city and county building. Those whose names appear on the approved list will receive their pay today from the city treasurer for the last half of February. The other items on the payrolls the mayor refuses to approve for the reason that the employees named were not legally appointed and employed, because they were appointed by the heads of the departments and not by the mayor as provided by law. It is stated that Albert S. Reiser, clerk in Street Supervisor Condie's office, will bring evidence to the mayor's office today to show that he was appointed by the mayor and that he is entitled to his salary. In this manner a thorough test will be made in the question as to the power of the mayor to make the appointments in the various departments instead of them being made by the heads of the departments. The points involved in the case will decide the whole proposition in relation to all the other employees whose salaries are now held up.

JARRED HIS TEETH LOOSE.

Principal of Jackson School Had a Row With the Assistant Janitor.

Principal David A. Nelson of the Jackson school and Clarence Reed, an assistant janitor, came to blows yesterday afternoon at the school, the result being the inability of Reed to eat supper because a few of his teeth were jarred loose. Reed is about 18 years of age. He was reprimanded yesterday about 2:30 by the principal for stopping girls on their way home. Some time later he went up stairs to sleep and was met by Mr. Nelson, who refused to allow him to work. An argument ensued and Reed, in a scuffle, in which, according to him, he was forced into a little room and to the floor, after which he received a stinging blow from the pedagogue. Two companions of the assistant janitor washed the blood from his face and he was taken home by Walter S. Hall, one of the teachers. Reed threatens to have the principal arrested.

PAWNSHOPS RAIDED.

Wagon Loads of Government Property Recovered by Lieut. Clark.

Not a few of the city pawnshops and saloons and a few restaurants were paid a lively and unexpected visitation yesterday afternoon, by Lieut. Adna Clark of the artillery command at Fort Douglas and a squad of armed soldiers, accompanied by Police Sergeant Hempel and two patrolmen. The occasion of this was the discovery by the post commandant that a wide and assorted variety of government property consisting of blankets, boots, shoes, gloves,

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

(DO YOU REMEMBER?)

John T. Caine, delegate from Utah, made his eloquent argument before the house committee on territories, in the course of which he vigorously denounced Gov. Murray's official conduct in Utah.

The failures in Havana, due to the low price of sugar, exceeded $6,000,000.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY.

In view of the desperate attempts of anarchists in Rome, the pope expressed fears for the safety of the Vatican itself and took steps to have it more perfectly guarded.

The legislative assembly, being behind in its work, turned back the clock 24 hours, then killed the appropriation bill for a Capitol building.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY.

At midnight the Legislature adjourned, having failed to elect a senator from Utah. The final vote was: McCune, 21; King, 4; Nebeker, 1; Powers, 4; Moyle, 5; George Q. Cannon, 18; Sutherland, 2; F. J. Cannon, 7. Necessary to a choice, 32. During the day McCune had 29.

coats, etc., had been appropriated by members of the gallant Twelfth prior to their departure for warmer climes, and disposed of to the keepers of sundry pawnshops and saloons for various considerations. Now all of this is unlawful, not only for the defender of the flag, but for the purchasers of the contraband goods who thereby made themselves liable to imprisonment of from one to five years, and a fine of $1,000 to $5,000.

So Met Call of the artillery corps commanding Fort Douglas, sent Lieut. Clark and a detachment prepared for any possible emergencies down town, and they went through every place where it was known or suspected that soldiers frequented, including two restaurants and several cigar stores. The lieutenant had armed himself with a sizeable tome of the law in addition to his sword, to show possible objectors "the law and gospel of it," and began operations in a way that meant business.

The proprietors of the places visited were much embarrassed and annoyed, but this did not deter the soldiers in the least. As a general thing, the proprietors "saw a great light" as the lieutenant flashed the law on them, and were made to feel that they were fortunate in not being arrested and prosecuted for buying stolen goods from soldiers. However, one saloon keeper ascended his high stool and proposed to have the lieutenant arrested. The officer smiled and wished him joy; but the saloon man after thinking the situation over concluded he had better not. In one pawnshop on Commercial street $100 worth of goods was discovered and recovered, and the wagon loads of stuff that were hauled back to Fort Douglas made the post quartermaster hug the flagstaff with delight. He declared it was a real good thing for sore eyes. Nothing of "a dutiable nature" was found in the restaurants. City shop and saloon keepers will be more careful hereafter how they buy from soldiers.

FUN FOR THE OLD FOLKS.

Veterans Had an Enjoyable Afternoon At the Theater.

Yesterday was a gala day for the old folks, widows and orphans of Salt Lake county. And while the rain marred somewhat the pleasure of the occasion, the entertainment provided by the ever watchful old folks' committee, was hugely patronized, the Salt Lake Theater being filled from pit to dome with as young a lot of veterans as ever graced the interior of that historic edifice. In all 1,350 tickets were issued, a good many of these going to the "forgotten elements of society," the widows and orphans. The program was thoroughly enjoyable and included specialties by Margaret and Clawson, the imitators; acrobatic work cleverly performed by Harold Young, Earl Richardson and Melvin Saville, and the interesting drama, "A Scrap of Paper," by the University Dramatic club. The play was one of the best amateur performances ever given in this city, and with the other parts of the program, pleased the guests of the afternoon immensely. The old folks and orphans were given free transportation on the street cars, while the drama company, the orchestra and theater attaches all gave their services free of charge. Needless to say, young and old alike were delighted with the treat afforded them, and were lavish in their praise of the old folks' committee for the attention shown.

"DOETH GOOD"

And Addeth No Sorrow.

"I am an old lady and had used coffee all my life until a year ago then I found a drink 'that doeth good and addeth no sorrow'."

"For many years I had been troubled with constipation and stomach trouble, sleeplessness and various other ills and although I had been constantly treated I got almost no relief. 'I have always been a great worker with many cares and often in the morning I would feel unequal to my daily tasks. So I would drink a good stiff cup of coffee of which I was very fond and then for two or three hours afterwards I would feel so smart and buoyant and keyed up to such a high note that I could undertake most anything. But along about 11 o'clock the reaction would begin and leave me stranded on a lounge until dinner time. Then I would get a cup of tea to tide me over the afternoon. So it went on for a number of years and the great wonder is that I did not collapse altogether. I must have had a good constitution. Every month I got a 'Hele' worder."

"At last and with great reluctance I was forced to the conclusion that it was coffee that was the chief cause of my many troubles. So I looked the matter up carefully, quit the coffee and began the use of delicious Postum; the wisdom of this change was soon shown in a material improvement in my health."

"Since I have been using Postum I do not have that unnatural elation and consequent reaction and the craving for the stimulant has left me. I am now strong and steady all the time. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

SPEAKS OUT FOR SMOOT.

Salt Laker Says He is a Clean Man And an Excellent Citizen.

The Denver Post of Monday last prints an interview with E. F. Shupe, pastor of the Reorganized church, in regard to the Smoot case. Mr. Shupe takes occasion to point out the difference between the Utah "Mormons" and the creed to which he subscribes, and does not forget to denounce the former for their "transgressions." In contradistinction, however, to the story told by Mr. Shupe, is one which follows it from a resident of Salt Lake, who speaks out boldly in defense of Senator Smoot.

"It will be rather hard to knock out Senator Reed Smoot, I think," said W. C. Coulson, of the auditor's office of the Oregon Short Line, who is here from Salt Lake visiting relatives and friends. "He has a great many friends, many of them being Gentiles. 'I was talking the other day to old 'Mother' Snow, as she is called, a most estimable old lady who was the second wife of President Snow. She has known Reed Smoot for years, knew him when he was at Provo, Utah, and has watched his growth in church prominence and his advancement from brother to Elder and then Bishop. She says positively that he is not a polygamist, and this I believe. 'I myself, know Reed Smoot personally and well and he's a good man; he is clean morally, is an excellent citizen and a man of great force of character. And you would be surprised to know how warmly he is being backed up by people outside the Mormon Church. I believe that 90 per cent of the people, Gentiles and otherwise, are in favor of him. He is not anxious for him to be successful in the contest for his seat. 'Here's a single instance indicating the high estimation in which he stands. The Rev. Alfred H. Henry, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church of Salt Lake, was back on a visit the other day. He has known Reed Smoot for years and he and Senator Smoot are friends. I heard Dr. Henry say: 'I can see no objection to the seating of Reed Smoot. I believe him to be a fair representative and I am convinced that he is the choice of the people of Utah.'"

BOOTS COME HIGH.

Former Salt Laker Gets $650 for a Pair Made in New York.

According to the New York American Matthew Hilgert, formerly a "scientific shoeahorn" man of Salt Lake, has struck it rich in that city, he having been awarded a verdict for $650 for a pair of boots. The paper says: "What is the market price of a pair of hygienic boots made by an alleged expert?"

"Six hundred and fifty dollars is the answer given by a jury in the city court before Judge Hascall. 'Matthew Hilgert asked for a verdict of $1,300 for having constructed for Archibald P. Black a pair of scientific boots which, he asserted, permitted Mr. Black to do away with 'braces' or other artificial appliances, after a fracture of the leg."

"Mr. Black admitted having ordered the boots, but protested that they did not do their work. 'A physician,' testified by Mr. Black as an expert, testified that his client must have been hypnotized when he ordered the boots, but the jury said '$650.'"

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Distinctly bridal in idea were the decorations at the dinner given last night by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Perry in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Benner N. Smith who have recently returned from their wedding trip. A mound of lilies of the valley was the centerpiece, and a bouquet of the same flowers was laid at each place, while white candles were used without shades. Favors for the men were tiny dolls in bridal attire of white satin with tulle veils, while those for the ladies were in the shape of toy traveling cases tied with white satin ribbons and marked with the labels of places visited by the guests of honor on their trip. No money were all seated under strains of music issued from a musicbox concealed by the mound of lilies, and other unique features abounded during the evening. The guests were: Gov. and Mrs. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Howard, Mrs. Belvin, Mrs. J. R. Walker, Mr. Critchlow and Mr. Schramm.

Mrs. S. R. Pointer, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Leigh for the past year, left today for her home in Kentucky.

Mrs. W. G. Lamb entertained at a luncheon and card party this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ferguson have returned from their eastern trip.

Mrs. Will Lynch entertained the Third Street Club today.

THE RADIO ACTIVITY OF AIR AND SUNSHINE.

ONE of the main medicinal values of the new substance radiolium consists in its power to produce "liquid sunshine," which is drunk to the great betterment of the internal organs of the patient—that is, it seems somehow to reproduce real sunshine. Nevertheless it can in no measure improve on the real sunshine which we have all around us and which we can avail ourselves of always.

I have been greatly interested recently in the story of a young lady who cured herself of what certainly appeared to be hopeless consumption by the sunshine-air-exercise cure. She was so feeble she could not walk across a room without fatigue. She had left only the will to be well. After all, that is more than half the battle.

The young lady resolved that she would live, even though lung disease had already carried off some of her family. It seemed to her during the winter months two years ago that if she "could only get out of doors" there would be help for her. She had to wait till June to gain her wish. By that time she could scarcely walk. Her brother, a woman friend and a cook accompanied her to a sunny spot in the Adirondack mountains, where the little party made a camp.

For a month all the girl could do was to creep out in the sunshine and lie there. At the same time, she tried to take deep breaths of the mountain air, which carried the purest of fluid sunshine into her poor lungs. She kept up her courage and her high resolve that she would not die. After a month of lying outdoors, breathing fluid sunshine, she found herself able to take little walks, very short ones at first, but they gradually became longer. Toward the end of summer she could take walks lasting half a day at a time, resting when she was weary, watching the wood life and keeping up brave and cheerful still breathing in all the air she could hold.

She remained in the mountain region till nearly Christmas. By November the weather became very cold, and she was obliged to sleep in a log cabin instead of a tent. Still she stayed outdoors in the sun. When the hunting season opened she shouldered a light rifle and went with a guide in search of deer. She wore for hunting a short skirt, high boots, gloves and corduroy jacket. Sometimes she got so hungry on the long tramps that she simply had to stop and cook flapjacks upon a flat stone somewhere. It seemed to her that nothing had ever tasted so good as those flour and water flapjacks cooked in the woods.

Before the season was over she had the satisfaction of shooting a deer. She says she shivered as though she had a chill when she saw that large red stag coming directly toward her. Soon after shooting the deer the girl who was resolved she would live and be well went home for the winter.

The next summer the young lady took with her a party of friends and went for a long canoeing trip among the lakes of the Adirondack wilderness. The girls learned to fish and paddle a canoe, which they did occasionally for days together. It was occasionally necessary to make a portage—that is, to carry their canoes over land from one body of water to another. The canoes were of cedar, weighing some fifty pounds. The girl who had been scarcely able to walk found she could now bear a hand even in the severe portage work. She returned in the autumn, a noble specimen of physical womanhood, with no shadow of disease about her. The cure was complete.

Women who live in towns are starved for air and sunshine. In our country it is held a hardship for a woman to work in the fields, but the woman who does is strong and healthy, while the city clerk or factory operative in the town is pale and ill and does not know what is the matter with her. She does not know she is ailing simply for the want of nature's radio activity. Between working in the open air at gardening, dairying or poultry raising and laboring in store or office in a city the woman who prizes her health will choose the pure air and liquid sunshine every time.

CHANGING SENTIMENT.

Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

Goldsmith in his "Deserted Village," spoke of a certain chaff where those who "went to soot," remained to pray. So in life one often laughs at what he does not understand and later, when he does understand, his laugh turns to praise. There were some who doubted the merits of Newbro's "Herpicide," the scalp germicide and hair-dressing; but since they have tried it, they are now among its best friends and strongest endorsers. Herpicide kills the germ that eats the hair off at the root, and the hair then grows again. As a hair dressing it is incomparable, try it. Sold by leading druggists. Send 30c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Z. C. M. I. Drug Co., Special Agents.

ANY man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Peruna is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Peruna not only cures catarrh but prevents it.

Catarrh affections may be acute or chronic, mild or severe, ephemeral or stubborn, lasting or fleeting, painful or trivial, but they all have one origin, one nature—catarrh. They all have one cure—Peruna.

Amos E. Lewis, Private Secretary to Senator Mallory, of Florida, in a letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"Your Peruna having been recommended to me as a remedy for catarrhal diseases, and having been greatly benefited by its use, I cheerfully testify to its efficacy, and give it a most emphatic endorsement for accomplishing all that is claimed for the preparation."—Amos E. Lewis.

A Commodore in Our Navy Endorses Per-ru-na:

Commodore Nicholson, 1837 R street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Your Peruna has been and is now used by so many of my friends and acquaintances as a cure for catarrh that I am convinced of its curative qualities and I unhesitatingly recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."—Commodore Nicholson.

The day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true to-day of most proprietary medicines.

But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low standing that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

Over fifty members of Congress have written their endorsement of the world-famous catarrh remedy, Peruna.

A Host of Witnesses—Pe-ru-na a Catarrh Cure that Rests on the Unsolicted Testimony of Thousands.

This is an age when theories have little or no weight on the average mind, but actual demonstration is demanded. The busy people of to-day have neither time nor inclination to speculate, and turn with distrust from everything that does not plainly bear the stamp of fact.

The reason Peruna has gained such universal hold of the confidence of the people as a catarrh cure is because all statements concerning it are accompanied by facts.

A book containing specimens selected at random from a cloud of witnesses who have been cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna sent free by the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
