In Limbo.-The three tramps who were lately landed in jail for stealing are, taken altogether, characteristic specimens of the depth humanity can attain. Their names are Peter Miller, Frank Preston and Mooney, and they have evidently been on the road sometime. The first it is thought is somewhat of a fiend incarnate, and judging have appreciated and present the county convention. As is usual at such meetings the real county convention. by the appearance of his head, has figured in enough fights to use up any ordinary person. The sealskin coat which they had with them has not yet bean identified. It is worth perhaps $150. The small arsenal which they carried, in the shape of five pistois, were stolen from Browning Bros. of Ogden, and were taken to the latter pisce to be elaimed by that firm.
