PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

To the Board of Trustees of the Brigham Young University.

We herewith respectfully submit a brief outline of our report for the thirty-sixth year of the Brigham Young University.

The university is organized as follows: A college, providing for three years' work in advance of the High School; a normal training school, for the preparation of teachers; a high school, for preparing students for college; a commercial school, for the preparation of business men; a music school, where choristers, band and orchestra directors, and specialists in vocal and instrumental music are trained; a school of arts and trades, offering courses in draughting, designing, woodwork, iron work, cooking, dressmaking, millinery, professional nursing and obstetrics; a school of agriculture, giving courses in general agriculture, horticulture, and animal husbandry; a preparatory school for the benefit of young men and young women who have not had or have neglected educational opportunities, and are desirous of preparing themselves for High School work.

The faculty during the past year has met every school day for devotion and the consideration of points of immediate interest.

The feature of this year's work has been the giving of each student individual attention, and to this end each entering school is placed under the special care and direction of his assigned teacher, who is expected to stand in the same relation to the student as a judicious parent or guardian.

THE TREND OF THE SCHOOL.

It may seem from this report that the University has taken a strong industrial trend, but such we have extended our facilities in the line of industries and trades, there has been a relaxation in the direction of scholastic efforts.

What We Must Prepare For—As public high schools are coming into existence all around us, there is a growing demand for increased facilities for college work.

where the analysis of soils and other experimental work has been done.

Schools offering from one to three-year courses. These schools year by year will extend their courses and in the near future we will be under the necessity of providing training for a student body, the great majority of whom will have come with their high school completed.

It is a source of gratification that today our educational product is greatly in excess of that of any other year's work, tabulated as follows:

must end in disaster and failure; and he who receives a windfall, spends the remainder of his days in watching the winds. Such moral maxims as these are taught in all the great universities, but not all the hearers become doers.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Grooms contribute nothing to growth. There is no ministry like that of manhood. Only phrases heal none of the world's wounds.

When humanity meets trouble it reveals its divinity. No man saves himself by running away from the lost.

People who are always crowing are often broken hearted. The fact that Noah is your uncle will not keep you dry shod.

You do not need to chew the bark of the tree to get the bread of life. It takes more than lumber and glue to make the tree of life.

Many a preacher measures his power by the noise of his exhaust. The minister who has money in his eye will never be able to see men.

Heaven always is unreal to the man who entertains hatred in his heart. This world can bear almost any sorrow if it will but kill out our selfishness.

It's the religion you wear rather than the religion you are that soon wears out. Some folks think it an act of charity to get their old rags carried away for nothing.

The blatant liar may do no more harm than he who speaks truth with baited breath. There is no virtue in the elation over finding a fault that makes you forget to fix it.

A good many people think that being conscientious means being utterly uncomfortable. It is not always the preacher who talks the most poetry who is doing most to make life a poem.

It is easy for short sighted man to see the hand of the infinite in a calamity and to lose sight of it in perpetual daily care and comfort.

HOW TO BREAK UP A COLD. It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time.

Tomorrow's dinner will be a better dinner if MOUNTS Purity Pickles and Relishes are on the fare.
