

MISS JACKMAN WRITES OF BERLIN

Talented Salt Lake Girl is Much
In Love With German Capital.

WORLD'S CENTER OF MUSIC.

Some Splendid Concerts—Two Late
Masterpieces—Godowsky's Wonderful Technique—Grand Opera.

Miss Rita Jackman of this city, now studying the piano in Berlin under Senor Jonas, writes a highly interest- ing letter to a friend in Salt Lake, from the German capital, in which she says: "I am much in love with Germany, and with Berlin especially. I had always heard that the city was the very cen- ter of music for the whole world, but never appreciated the true meaning of the fact until I personally experienced the benefits of musical training in Ber- lin. It is certainly great to look over the Sunday papers and see the col- umn after column of concert notices, and to find one's self in a quandary as to which is the best to choose. Of course the Nicksch concerts every two weeks are something not to be missed, and I can not find words to express my admiration for the work of the great orchestra, and for the wonderful ability of its conductor. We were in Dresden at the time of the last con- cert when Godowsky was the soloist, and so missed it. But before that I was fortunate enough to hear all of the concerts given so far.

A MASTERPIECE.
"Of the music I have heard on these occasions, I was especially interested in the Liszt 'Faust Symphony,' and Strauss' 'Domestic Symphony.' The former is one of the grandest or- chestral selections I have ever heard. The composition is divided into three parts, and is a transcription of the melodies sung in the different roles of 'Faust,' 'Gretchen' and 'Mephistopheles.' The last movement is especially good, and is so typical of what is meant to be depicted.

MUSIC OF THE HOME.

"Strauss' 'Domestic Symphony' is very peculiar. The work is dedicated to the composer's wife and son, and is supposed to represent in musical form all the phases of domestic life, the getting up in the morning, the day's work, the quarrel between hus- band and wife, the crying of the chil- dren, the lullaby and the slumber. It is interesting to listen to, and is such an original idea.

GODOWSKY'S TECHNIC.

"We heard Godowsky, a month or so ago, and I like him. It makes one al- most hold the breath to see a person endowed with so wonderful a technic. The Berlin critics, however, do not seem to favor him particularly. They then his playing to a pyrotech- nical display, dazzling and brilliant, but with no real soul upon which to base the art of it all. But it did seem to me that his interpretations lost nothing in soul, as compared with what they gained in a matchless tech- nic.

BROAD HANDED PIANIST.

"A short time ago we heard a peculiar pianist named Slevking. I don't imagine he is famous for any- thing in particular save his enormous hands; but it was interesting to hear him. He has a piano made especially for him; the most peculiar instrument I ever saw. Each octave covers as much space as a tenth would on an ordinary piano, and the two pedals are a foot apart. He played with the Phil- harmonic orchestra, and did some things real well. It is interesting to see to what extremes music will some- times lead people, and this man was certainly an extremist.

GRAND OPERA GREAT.

"What I care most about in Berlin is the grand opera. The music of such composers as Verdi, Puccini, Massenet, Weber and Wagner is magnificent enough in itself; but when one hears their operas from beginning to end, with a complete orchestra, competent artists and gorgeous stage settings, it is beyond description. Just lately we heard Distinn in 'Mignon.' She sang beautifully. We have seen, too, a gorgeous production of 'Madame But- terfly,' in which Miss Easton and Mr. Clennan took the leading roles. Mr. Jonas has a class of about 30 pupils at present, from various parts of the United States, France, Germany, Rus- sia, England, New Zealand and Aus- tralia. Many of them are very talen- ted, and one of my greatest pleasures is in attending the Vorspiel class given at Mr. Jonas' studio every two weeks. One does not always hear at home such renditions of difficult com- positions as are to be heard in these studies from those who are still in training to acquire greater perfection. Mr. Jonas is an ideal teacher, and does everything in his power to make his pupils happy. The night after Christ- mas, he chaperoned us all to the cir- cuses, and to dinner afterwards, and it is needless to say we had a delightful time.

BEAUTIFUL CITY.

"Music is, however, not the only thing that makes Berlin attractive. It is in itself a very beautiful city, and much of our spare time has been spent in reconnoitering among its interesting museums, art galleries and palaces. Of course the art galleries here are noth- ing in comparison to those we have seen elsewhere; but still they contain very interesting specimens of modern art. As for the palaces, I could spend weeks in them, looking at the won- derfully decorated walls and ceilings, the curious tapestries, the old historical paintings, the different kinds of marbles and onyxes, the marvelous inlaid tables, and all the other treasures, too nume- rous to mention, which may be found in such places.

THE SISTINE MADONNA.

"During our stay here, we have often taken a few days from our studies to visit some of the neighboring cities in Germany. Among these were Dresden and Potsdam, the latter being interest- ing on account of its historical connec- tions with Frederick the Great; and Dresden for its beautiful art gallery. Of course, at the latter place, we were most interested in Raphael's Sistine Madonna; and we were not at all dis- appointed in our original idea of the great masterpiece. Some great paint- ings about which one hears so much often do not quite come up to the expectations, when seen in the origi- nal; but such is not the case with the Sistine Madonna. It is glorious.

WAGNERIAN STAGING.

"Last night we saw 'Rheingold,' the final of Wagner's ring, comprising also 'Die Walkure,' 'Siegfried' and 'Got- terdammung.' The music was very characteristic of the old German leg- end, and the scenery was beautiful. The Germans take great pride in stag- ing their Wagnerian productions, and the spectacular effects of last night's performance were great in every sense of the word."

Miss Jackman is an enthusiastic stu- dent, and from the natural talent she gave evidence of while studying here under Prof. McClellan, her friends are ready to expect she will make rapid progress on the piano in Berlin.

WOMAN LEAVES WITH OTHER MAN

Mrs. Anna Brooks Believed to Have Deserted Husband And Child.

MINING MAN IS MENTIONED.

Albert A. Rain of Nevada Figures in Demonstration of Woman's Strange Fickleness.

Probably there are persons who will argue Mr. Rain would be an affinity of Mrs. Brooks. At any rate Mrs. Anna Brooks, 457 Ninth East street, has left her husband and five children, and they believe she has gone away with Albert A. Rain of Delamar, Nev.

GONE JUST A WEEK.

Friday evening—a week ago last night—Mrs Brooks dressed to go to the theater and asked her 14-year-old daughter, Olive, if she did not want to accompany her. The girl said she preferred to remain at home. Mrs. Brooks left for town and since then has not been seen.

WRITES LETTER HOME.

A letter postmarked Salt Lake was received next day by her husband from her. In this she said she was going to Butte to visit relatives. Her husband does not believe this, know- ing of no relatives in Butte, but be- lieves she has gone to Nevada or California with Rain.

HAVE FIVE CHILDREN.

Brooks is employed in this city as a teamster and he and his wife got along very happily for many years. Five children were born to them, their names and ages being, Olive, 14 years; Dallas, 11 years; Beatrice, 10; George, 7, and Mary 5 years old.

DISTRIBUTED AFFECTION.

Lately, it is asserted, Mrs. Brooks paid more attention to other men than her husband thought right, and he chided her about it occasionally. These were the only differences ever arising between man and wife. Rain, a mining man, became acquainted with Mrs. Brooks, and according to the story told, Mrs. Brooks became quite fond of him, carrying a picture of him in her pocket-book.

WAS GOOD TO WIFE.

The father is finding it somewhat difficult to earn the bread for his chil- dren and spread it too; he worries about leaving the tots home alone while he is away at work. The father and children appear very fond of one an- other, and the children say their "dad" was very good to their mother.

FROM THE ANTILLES.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Bene- fits a City Councilman at Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Fogarty, who is a member of the City Council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "One bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble and I think I should have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. That it was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt; and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by all druggists.

BIG IRRIGATION PROJECT.

Movement on Foot to Reclaim 200,000
Acres in Emery County.

A project is on foot in Emery county, which, if carried to a consummation, will add at least 200,000 acres to the ir- rigated farms of that county. A com- pany headed by Don C. Robbins pur- pose building a gigantic dam on Cot- tonwood creek, the largest stream in that section, thereby impounding wa- ter to the amount of 150,000 feet. The water will be confined within two mas- sive walls, built of stone and concrete, the mountain sides forming the other two walls. The two constructed walls will be 240 feet high, 1,100 feet apart at the top, with 500 feet intervening at the bottom.

In the opinion of Editor H. T. Haines of the Castlegate Progress, who is in the city as a delegate to the dry farm- ing convention, Emery county is fast forging to the fore as an agricultural and fruit raising section. Hundreds of thousands of young fruit trees have recently been set out, and Mr. Haines says he looks for his county soon to be excelled by none in the quantity and quality of fruit produced.

OBITUARY.

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL RUSHTON.

Above are the pictures of the late Samuel Rushton, who died Dec. 23, 1904, and his wife, Amelia E. Rushton, whose funeral occurred in the Twenty-eighth ward, this city, Sunday, Jan. 19, 1908, she having passed away on her seventy-third birthday, nine years after the death of her hus- band. The deceased both emigrated to Utah from Manchester, England, 29 years ago. During all the vicissitudes and trials of these years they re- mained true to the faith of the Latter-day Saints, they had embraced many years previously. At the funeral, the speakers were: Isaac Langton, Islah W. Fletcher, Nephil Y. Scofield, William Brown, Bishop James Maxwell and Bishop William Williams. All bore testimony to the worth and faithful- ness of these two good people, with whom they had been acquainted for over 20 years.
