"Parry's Literary Journal." -- The November number of this excellent monthly opens out with a beautiful frontisplece engraving, illustrating a poem, "When the Summer Days are Done." Among its many Interesting papers the articles on "Mexican Pollany applicant. Mr. Harwood is to be tics," "The Intelligence of Ants" and "Story-Telling and Conversation" are well worthy of perusai by all readers. The second installment of the article on the "Departure of the Israelites from Egypt" is of thrilling interest, and the short article ou "Tornadoes" furpishes much information on the phenomena of storms and their destructiveness ["Ludwig's Jealousy" is a very readable story, and the poetry and "Popular Miscellany" are of the usual first-class order.
