the nomination of Vice-President: RHINECLIFF, N. Y., Oct. 2, 1888. Hon. M. M. Estee, and others of the Gentlemen :- In making a formal aceptance of my nomination as the republican candidate for the Vice-Presidency, I desire to express my grateful sppreciation of the confidence reposed in me by the convention. The duties devolving upon the Vice-President as the presiding officer of the Senate and in certain contingencies a participant in the legislation of Congress, make it proper that the people should the political views of the candidate who may be presented for their suffrages. It fortunately happens that this duty for myself is easily disthis duty for myself is easily dis-charged by referring to the principles embodied in the resolutions unani-mously adopted by the national con-vention. These resolutions, unequivo-cal and comprehensive in character, reflect my personal convictions and have my hearty approval. It is diffi-cult, however, in a political campaign, to fix the popular attention upon more than tone issue, and in the pending than one issue, and in the pending election every voter in the United States clearly sees the controlling question is whether the protective tariff duties now in force shall be so reduced as to destroy their efficiency or whether those duties shall be re-tained with such modifications and ad-justments as shall better adapt them justments as shall better adapt them to the great end of protecting the vast and important industries of the whole country. The republican platform, while recognizing the necessity of reducing the revenue, declares that this reduction must not be made at the expense of these industries and American labor. The American people have now enjoyed the protective system for a longer continuous period than ever before in the history of our national government. The result is that for government. The result is that for more than a quarter of a century they have realized a degree of industrial and Itching Piles are known by moisture likperspiration, producing a very disagreeable teching after getting warm. have realized a degree of industrial and financial prosperity unprecedented in this country and never equalled in any other. The pressing reason given for once again trying the experiment of a revenue tariff, without protection as a motive or end, is that the present tariff has produced, and is producing a surplus in the treasury. But it is not easily within the wisdom of Congress to adjust the national intome to the national expenditures without sacrificing or even imperiling the industrial system which has brought untold advantages to the entire country. Advantages to the entire country. Admitting that the present tariff, by lapse of time and the large expansion of trade, which it has stimulated, needs revision, is it not wiser and more pa-triotic to revise it with regard to the interests of protection than with the purpose of lessening its protective leatures? These are some of the questions which must be answered at the national polls in November. For myself, as a citizen and a candi-date, I do not hesitate to declare date, I do not hesitate to declare that from long observation, I am an unwavering friend of the protective system. In business life, now extending over forty years, I have witnessed and compared the effect upon the country of a revenue tariff tending to free trade with a protective tariff encouraging home industries. Under the former, the development of the country has always been arrested, while under the latter it has uniformly been promoted. To men who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows the difference between the two sys-

their bread by the sweat of their brows the difference between the two systems is that of narrowing the chances on the one hand and expanding the opportunities on the other: Free trade would open America to competition with the whole world. Protection reserves America for Americans, native and adopted. The industrial system of the country is as sensitive as its public credit. A hostile movement creates a strust in the public mind and confidence, the only basis of successful trade, becomes impaired, new enterprises wither in the bud, capital grows timid, the field of labor contracted, and the pressure for employ-grows timed, the field of labor contracted, and the pressure for employment inevitably reduces the wages of all workingmen.

With the views of the convention so frankly expressed in its resolutions upon all other questions of public interest, I find myself in hearty according later and its important bearing upon national currency, as well as its important connection with and influence on large sections of our common country, in its advocacy of a judicious settlement of the public lands policy, in urging the necessity for better coast defenses and the duty we owe the shipping interests of the country, the platform but repeats the approved principles of the republican party. The republican platform progress and bigotry, but one broad and philanthrepic that best helps the whole world by the example of a great, growing and powerful nation founded upon the equality of every man before the law. It is for the American people to develop and cultivate the continent to which in the providence of God they have failen heirs. They should adopt a policy which looks steadily to this great end other people, but rather the highest which looks steadily to this great and;

with no spirit of narrowness towards;
other people, but rather the highest interests of all; they should find under their own flag a field of limitless advance in the direction of improvement, prosperity and happiness of man.

Very respectfully yours,

Alum and Ammonia are largely used in the manufacture of Baking Powders, and more than one-half the cans of baking powder on every grocer's shelves contain one or the other. The effect of these drugs when taken in small doses repeatedly is irritating to the coating of the stomach.

The safety of the family requires that baking powder should be made like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, without the resort to Ammonia, Lime, Alum or any drug whatever. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder and Delicious Flavoring extracts are recommended by the heads of the great Universities and used by the United States Government.
