our Ward Houses as many as from seven to ten round dances were indulged in, beside which everybody that applied and paid for admission were admitted. It seems to me we should be uniform in this matter, at least we should learn what is right and then go ahead. Therefore, ase answer the above questions through the columns of your paper, so that all may understand, and oblige, yours truly.

J. W. S. It is strange to us that there can debate on the Mormon question is be any misapprehension of the ad-expected in the House at an early vice repeatedly given on the sub-ject of amusements in the various Wards. That style of exercise called "round dancing" is disapprov. ed by the Authorities of the Church. Their disapprobation has been plain-tected in that Territory. Another ly expressed from the pulpit and by evidence that a majority or the House is ripe for means of the press. But the bene-fit and necessity of recreation are freely admitted, and the policy of providing amusement, especially for the young people, has been acknow- ish the territorial legislature of Uta ledge 1 and advocated. At the same and substitute a l time the propriety of conducting ents under the supervision of competent persons has jority of the con been recognized and urged upon the leading men in the various settlements, with a view not only to that it will be favorably reported to maintain order and decorum, but to the House early in the session the real pleasure and true epjoyment of all. And that too great restrictions might not be placed upon young people, although "round courts, as to make it practicable to obtain convictions for a violation of the statutes against polygamy. There is a strong disposition also to disfranchise and disqualify for hold ing office, all persons sustaining polygamous relations. dancing" is viewed as leading to evil when indulged in to any great extent, it has been suggested that when permitted at all it should not exceed one or two dances on each evening, in parties under the direction of the authorities in the Wards. It appears that is some instance this rule has not been adhered to. and that in others it has been evaded. The question to be first considne time.
