

DAMS IN RIVER ENDANGER LIFE

Property Owner Calls Attention To Statute Declaring
Them Nuisances.

ASKS FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION.

Clearing of Course and Removal of Curves Necessary to Meet Emergencies Like the Present.

James Gibson, who is living in Camps Lane, says that the property of dozens of people in the vicinity of the Jordan river, is being rendered insecure, because of the dams in the river, and he contends that they should be removed, as the maintenance of them is contrary to law.

"If you will read the Compiled Laws of Utah, 1897, section 4275, page 1309," said Mr. Gibson today, "you will see a public nuisance is there defined to be, among other things, that which unlawfully interferes with or obstructs, or tends to obstruct, any lake, stream, canal, etc., thereby rendering three or more persons insecure in life or the use of property."

"The penalty for the same is found in section 4065, page 1267, and is found to be imprisonment in the county jail for a period not to exceed six months and a fine of not to exceed $300, or both; and in the case of a corporation, by a fine of not to exceed $1,000."

"As dozens of people are now rendered insecure in the use of property by the dams in the Jordan river, something should be done at once to relieve the situation. Jordan river must be cleared of dams and straightened if it is ever going to meet an emergency like the present!"

AMUSEMENTS.

The Theater—"Morals of Marcus."— to one winsome, pleasing young actress, and a splendid, thoroughly balanced supporting company; place in one of the cleanest, brightest and "grippy" plays of the season and serve—a most delicious dessert after a surf of—well, some other play.

"The Morals of Marcus," with Miss Marie Doro, is decidedly a treat. It leaves a taste on the mental palate that lingers and that one would like to keep near.

To begin with, the story of the lives, with the intermingling hopes, passions, ambitions, and all, of the four or five women and men, as told in this play, and with the intensely dramatic awakening of the real, pure heart-love, is of that intense interest that one has never experienced when as young-or boys and girls we read our fairy tales with their Princes and Princesses Charming. Love, humor, pathos, and a touch of the tragic are all deftly woven into the play.

The play itself, however, with all its bright, clever lines and gripping situations, is one of the least parts when one thinks of the work of Marie Doro.
Miss Doro is Charles Frohman's jeweled star—and judging from her play, pretention of the character of Carlotta, the Syrian girl, in "The Morals of Marcus," she is one of the best finds.

Miss Doro made her first appearance at Salt Lake in a "last" night, when in the tattered rags of a waif-like girl she broke through the hedge into the grounds of "Sir Marcus' Cottage at Surbiton." In a symbolic way, she at the same time, however, awakening of the real, pure heart-love, is
has never experienced when as young-
or boys and girls we read our fairy tales
with their Princes and Princesses
touch of the tragic are all deftly woven
into the play.

And Edwin Arden as Sir Marcus Ordeyne—it is almost difficult to keep from calling him "dear old Mark"—is no less behind Miss Doro in his artist representation of the philosopher—woman-hater—friend-to-everybody—though and who finally awakens to life itself, and finds that he loves and is loved.
To speak of the cast, however, every member must be mentioned. There's Fred Tiden, Marie Wainwright, Marion Abbott, and the others, all going to make up one of the strongest and most balanced companies appearing here in many a day.

"The Morals of Marcus" is the one treat of the present season. It will continue at the theater on tonight, tomorrow night, and matinee.

SALT AIR HIPPODROME OPENS TOMORROW

OPENING SCENE OF THE GREAT AERIAL BALLET.

The great hippodrome at Saltair will open tomorrow evening with Grigolati's famous aerial ballet as the principal attraction. This spectacular act introduces handsome girls, magnificent costumes, and a number of real live pigeons, which take their places in the climax, and is said to be one of the greatest acts ever produced on any American stage. It was the headline attraction at the New York Hippodrome last year, and has never been seen in the west before. The sensation of gorgeously costumed women flying through the air is one that has caused much comment wherever the act has been produced. Mons. Grigolati and his troupe arrived yesterday, and the expert mechanists of the company are now at work installing the numerous devices required to produce the wonderful spectacle.

STATE CHEMIST FINDS SOME QUEER EXTRACTS VAST DISCHARGE FROM UTAH LAKE

Water, Water Everywhere, but No Lemon, Vanilla or Other Pure Essentials for the Cake.

State Chemist Harms has analyzed the five samples of ice cream sent down from Ogden and has found them up to standard. He has received from State Food Inspector Hansen quite a bunch of alleged extracts, olive oil, ketchup and canned corn for analysis, that were picked up in country stores over the state.

The canned corn and ketchup seem to be all right, especially the ketchup, which was made in this state, and is labeled made from fresh tomatoes and absolutely free from foreign ingredients. The chemist in replying to this called attention to the color of the ketchup which, he said, would have to be made from the best stock in order to secure that color. He then contrasted the bottle with a package of the artificially colored article which was of a dark Tuscan red, a dirty brick color, and said that by this artificial coloring it was possible to conceal the fact that the ketchup was largely composed of pumpkin, squash and canning factory leavings, thus defrauding the purchaser. However, the coloring was not necessarily deleterious, only it enabled the manufacturer to conceal the fraudulent composition of the goods.

The oils and extracts picked up by the inspector were the rankest kind of fakes. The "olive" oil put up in neat looking packages, contained not a suggestion of the olive, and resembled sewing machine oil. It was pure cottonseed. The extracts, bottles of "Pure Vanilla Extract," "Pure Concentrated Extract of Lemon," "Pure Concentrated Extract of Orange," were themselves no more than water with a little additive, and slight flavoring of some chemical. "Nutmeg Flavor" was water with a slight infusion of the oil of nutmeg. "Rotten Egg Extract," "Pure Flavor," "New York," were made and put up in Salt Lake—no extract at all, but all water, with half a teaspoonful of chemicals. It is the intention to expose these frauds, giving the names of the stores from which the articles were taken.

to Key West, Fla. The salaries of junior engineers will range from $125 to $175 a month, while surveyors and transmitters will be paid from $100 to $125 per month. The examination will take place June 21, 1909.

An examination will also be held June 20 to fill several vacancies in the position of assistant in dairying, at salaries ranging from $1,020 to $1,620 per annum, who is in the city for the purpose of looking over the field with the view of installing a wireless station, is very enthusiastic about the future of wireless telegraphy, which, he says, is well past the experimental stage. Perfect results in transmission are now said to be obtained around the great lakes, and the growth of the system is assured, as it is much more economical than the old methods. Especially is this true when messages have to be transmitted across the water, and the cost of laying a cable is put by the side of the cost of the installation of a wireless station.
