the vexed question as to what sum shall be taxed agains: the dispensers of liquors, when the privilege money shall be paid, etc. The saloon men present before the committee were John Foote, Joe Lane, Frank Stewart and Frank Wentzel. Drug stores and roominghouses came in for considerable criticism, the charge being made that in these places liquor was sold every day in the week, and with but little consideration being taken of the age or condition of the purchasers. Fourteen barrels, of whisky were accredited as having been sold in a single week by one drug store lo-cated in the heart of the city. The bartenders also charged that the police discriminated in the matter of Saturday night closine, requiring some saloons to close up on the dot of 12 o'clock midnight, while permitting oth-ers to remain open longer. While no definite conclusion was reached by the committee, it is likely that at least some of the following sugestions will have part in the new ordinances pro-posed to regulate the liquor traffic: The abolishment of the payment of licenses by the quarter. BANK CLERKS MEET.

M. A. Miller of the Zion's Savings Bank & Trust compa ;y read a paper on "The History of Banking," and John James, Jr., read a paper on "The Build, ing of the Bank Business," last evening before the local chapter of the Ameri-can Institute of Banking, J. E. Dooly, formerly cashier of the Wells-Fargo bank, addressed the meeting on "Bank-ing Methods." The chapter decided to hold a grand ball in Odeon hall, Jan, 15, and give an amateur minstrel show later.

Each Christmas season finds us with a larger, more varied and a better selected stock of books. We are encouraged each year by the growing taste for good books and we are compelled to buy heavily to meet the increasing demand.

Our purchases were made early, so we are ready for the early buyer who likes a large and complete stock to select from

There are thousands of things which are sold for holiday giftwhose value is limited. Many of them hardly last through the holiday season. But a book 13 more likely to be cherished and to be read and reread long after Christmas has become a memory. For this season the giving of books is becoming increasingly popular. This demand has en-

Eighth division with headquarters at Portland, was a successful affair, and was attended by about 50 guests. Mr. But terworth made the principal address of the evening, his topic being the under paid condition of the railway mail He stated that it takes the lerk. rier four years to make a good clerk and in the nature of things the man's earning period is greatly shortened. He argued therefore, that the salaries of the men who are in this branch of the the men who are in this branch of the government service should be much larger than they are at present, Mr. Butterworth said he was on his way now to Washington, D. C., to present the matter to the officials there. Postmaster James Clove of Provo and Asst. Postmaster A. P. Kesler of Sait Loka were among the success of the re-loons. Holders of government licenses must pay a city liquor license of either $400 of $1,200 annually, in advance, as the circumstances may demand, the pos-session of a government license to be prima facie evidence that the holder is engaged in the liquor traffic. No license will be granted to engage in the liquor traffic in a place which has been closed for a violation of the liquor laws, for six months afterwards. Saloons, restaurants, drug stores and all other holders of liquor licenses must closely follow the Sunday closing law, so far as it relates to their res-

law, so far as it relates to their res-pective places, under penalty of a re-yocation of their license, without re-fund for the unexpired term it has to

All connections, such as exits and entrances, between saloons and restau-rants must be abolished.

TROUBLES OF BOB SMITH.

Young Farmer Gets Drunk and Falls Off Load of Hay.

A young farmer giving the name of Robert Smith, came to town yesterday morning on a load of hay. As the air was quite chilly Smith concluded to warm his blood by a genrous use of whisky. The result was that by the time he reached South Temple street be-tween West Temple and First West he did not know whether it was midnight in noon. He wobbled about on the big stack of hay and finally toppled over and onto the hard pavement. He struck on the back of his neck, but beyond getting a severe shaking up was not injured. Patrolman Stains witnessed the spectacular fall and gathered the young man in. He is now resting comfortably in the drunk house,
