TO MURDER LYTE GREGORY. "We were to assassinate Lyte Greg-ory—a deputy sheriff who had been in the mines. He had also been in Gold-field and was against us." "Who suggested this?" "PettBone. He told Adams and my-self he wanted the thing done. We talked the matter over in Pettibone's store. Pettibone said it would be a good thing to make an example of Gregory Jim Murphy of Butte spoke up and said he thought it would be a good thing, too. Pettibone, Adams and myself went down town to a saloon, where we found Gregory in a rear room, drunk. Mel-drim, who was a mine owner, was with Gregory. An undertaking by the special pros-ecutors for the state that they would by later proof and connection legiti-mize this testimony, opened the way like a floodgate to the whole diabolic-al story and throughout the entire day Orchard went on fröm crime recital to erime recital, each succeeding one seemingly more revolting than those that had come before. And he has more brutal crimes to tell about that will bring his bloody career down to its end at Caldwell, where with a great bomb he killed Gov. Steunenberg. These will come tomor-row, for he is to resume the statid when the district court sits again. The story was told to a tense nerved, rigid erowd that watched with staring eyes for every move and word of the confessing witness, a crowd that was sickened and weary of its disgusting details long before James H. Hawley, pleading illness of himself at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, secured adjournment for the day. Orchard retained control of himself day Orchard retained control of himself for the day. Orchard retained control of himself almost from the moment he took the stand, if he suffered much he did not show it. His eyes were bloodshot and his face mottled in color when he came into the room to confront the man whose life he jeopardizes. He was plainly very nervous. He seemed at first to lose a little of his physical con-trol, for he walked unsteadily as he neared the stand and reached in an in-definite way for the arm of the chair. He had trouble in finding voice for a few mimates, but only for a few. He quickly steadied himself and was soon talking in the soft, easy tones that characterize his speech. His manner was easy and his gaze steady in any direction that a question claimed his attention. His eyes blinked a little when he told how he traffed and mur-dered hyte Gregory, but his voice al-tered none in tone. His eyes met those of Haywood several times and the two gazed fixedly at one another in tests with honors even. AFTERNOON SESSION.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

There was a tremendous crush at the afternoon session of the court, the news of Orchard's appearance on the stand having spread rapidly throughout the having spread rapidly throughout the city. So great was the crowd which sought admission at the courtroom dones the attorneys and others connect-ed with the trial forced their way through with the greatest difficulty. not in our confidence as to the plot. Before I left Denver I told Haywood I wanted $300 to make a trip to Wyoming. He said he would send me the money through Petibone. The next day Petiloone gave me the $300. Adams told me he had got $200. "After buying a few things I left for Cheyenne, Charley Neville going with me. I saw in the papers that we were suspected of blowing up the Indepen-dence depot, so I thought we had bet-ter get along. I asked Pat Moran in Cheyenne, to take a letter to Petiloone asking him for $500 more. Moran took the letter to Petibone and brought back the money. Denver is only 100 miles from Cheyenne. Neville and I decided to go on to the Dakotas. It was about two weeks before we reach-ed Thermopolis. Neville wanted to stop there and take the hot baths. I rode on and sent the horse back for Neville. At Cedy, Wyoming, I got a letter right away. It said I had better get to the tall timber right away, that I was wanted for the Independence depot affair. STRAIGHT BACK TO DENVER of Hogan or Demossy. I've forgotten which. Pettibone had told me to send for any monec needed. "In about 10 days I wrote him for $100. Pettibone sent it to me by regis-tered letter. He told me I shouldn't change my name so often; that Haery Green was a good enough name for anybody and that he would address me that way in the future." "What name did Pettibone use?" "He signed the letter 'Pat Bone,' He often used that name." Orchard said he had been told to look up Fred Bradley in San Francisco, but he coulds't find him. Bradley had been in the Cour d'Alene. Orchard said he received money from 'Pat Bone' several times by Postal Telegraph company. The defeuse noted exceptions from time to time to Orchard's testimony, but Judge Wood consistently overrul-ed all objections upon a statement by the prosecution that the witness' story would be connected with Hay-wood, Moyer and Pettibone. BRADLEY LOCATED.

"Gregory left the place about mid-night. He saw us, I think, and made a reach, as I thought, for a gun. I then shot him three times with a sawed-off shotgan." "Did you kill him ?" "Yes, sir, I believe I did." Meidrum was with Gregory at that time. Orchard then told of running away and biding his gun. Next day he saw Haywood, Pettibone and Jack Simpkins. he saw Haywood, Pettibone and Jack Simpkins. "They all expressed themselves as well pleased with the job. They said it was all right with them, and he woujdn't get after them very hard, for he thought that whoever bumped Gregory off had done a good job." "Where was Moyer at this time?" "He was in jall at Telluride." Orchard said there was no specific arrangement as to the amount of money to be paid for the taking off of Gregory. He received $100 the next day and had been getting money from headquarters right along. Orchard said Haywood, Pettibone, Simpkins and Sherman Parker next wanted "something pulled off" in Cripple Creek.

Orchard told his story in a low, humdrum tone, displaying not the slightest feeling whatever.

CHRONIC ULCERS EXTERNAL EVIDENCE OF INTERNAL POISON

Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal, it is a sure sign of a diseased condition of the blood. The sore itself is simply an outside evidence of some internal poison, and the only way to cure it is to remove the deep underlying cause. Sores and Ulcers originate usually from a retention in the system of bodily waste matters and impurities. These should pass off through the natural avenues of waste, but because of a sluggish condition of the different members they are retained in the system to be taking in condition of blood. This vital fluid soon becomes unhealthy or diseased, and the skin gives way in some weak place and a Sore or Ulcer is formed. BRADLEY LOCATED. "Finally I located Bradley in San Francisco," said Orchard. "He had been manager of the Sullivan and Bunker Hill mine in Idaho, and we were after him. I went to his house one morning, and just after the milk was delivered I opened one of the jars and put a lot of powdered strychnine into it. Nothing came of the poison so far as I could learn, so I bought 10 pounds of powder–gelatime powder it was. After purchasing the explosive I had to give a name. I have forgotten what the name was. I said I lived out-side the city and wanted to blow up some stumps. I put the powder into a lead pipe. Then I put it in my grip with some giant caps, a sawed-off shot gun and some other little things. PLOT CONSUMMATED.

It was so arranged that when Bradley opened the door, a string attached to it would upset a bottle of sulphuric acid," "When Mr. Bradley opened the door the next morning, the explosion blew out the whole front of the house and blew him into the street." Orchard said he remained in San Francisco two or three weeks after this occurrence. He said he sent to Pettibone for money and received al-together about $450 by Postal Tele-graph.

Orchard said he left San Francisco because he had nothing further to do there. He made no further attempt on Bradley's life. The man had been badly injured by the explosion. At this point an early adjournment was
