LONDON, 25.—In the House of Lords, Lord Derby said the Russian demand for Turkish men-of-war had been refused by the Porte. He hoped it would not be persisted in. If the Egyptian tribute was demanded by Russia the matter would require serious consideration. Respecting the alleged demand for the expulsion of Mussulmans from Bulgaria, Derby said that whatever the demand was originally, he believed it had either been withdrawn or materially modified.

This Stourdza is not the Prince Stourdza mentioned in last night's dispatches. The motion was withdrawn after a declaration by the ministers that the army was about to recross the Danube, and that peace would be concluded either directly with Turkey or at the conference. The senate then passed a vote of confidence in the government, recommending it to defend the rights of Roumania in the conference.

The Greeks have based great hopes on the insurrection in Thessaly, Epirus and Crete. Preliminary declarations are expected from Austria, which will either prevent a meeting of the conference or render its programme acceptable to the powers.

The reason Russia's demand for Egyptian tribute concerns England is that the tribute is already pledged as security for the interest on the Turkish loans of 1854, 1855 and 1871. All are largely held in England by the terms of agreement between Turkey and the British government and bondholders.

LONDON, 27.—Major-General Sir Garnet Wolsey contributes to the 19th century an article, entitled "England as a Military Power." The following are his conclusions: At no previous period has England been so strong in a military sense, as now. Were war declared tomorrow, about 400,000 drilled men would fall into line, if required, supported by 372 field guns, manned and horsed by the royal artillery.

This number would roughly be made up as follows: standing army at home, 99,000 men; army and militia reserve, 40,000; militia 85,000; volunteers, 180,000; and second class army reserve, 10,000; total, 414,000. In this calculation I have put the figures very low, and have left out altogether the 10,000 yeomanry who would be available for home service. I have not taken into consideration the number of regular troops that would be available for war when the Mediterranean garrisons were furnished by militia. It will thus be seen we could at once take the field with two fully equipped army corps of more than 30,000 soldiers each, leaving a similar force of regular troops at home as a reserve.
