DECISION IN RALEIGH CASE.

Court Holds that the Law of Inheritance Does Not Recognize A Plural Wife.

NO RELIEF FOR THE WIDOW.

Deprived of the Home in Which She Had Lived for a Period of Forty Years.

The supreme court, in its decision in the case of Emily P. Raleigh, appellant, vs Caroline C. R. Wells and other heirs of Alanzo H. Raleigh, deceased, and the Mutual Investment company, reanondents, a brief outline of which appeared in last evening's "News," holds that the law of inheritance does not recognize a plural wife and hence the judgment of the lower court quieting title to the Raleigh homestead in defendants is affirmed. The opinion of the court was written by Chief Justice Eartch and concurred in by Justices McCarty and Straup.

The facts shown in the opinion are that Mrs. Raleigh, who was the plural wife of A. H. Ruleigh, deceased, had occupied the premises in controversy for 40 years. Upon the death of her husband, the property was bequeathed by him to his daughter, Caroline C. R. Walls and other heirs during their life and then to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Mrs. Raleigh of Latter-day Saints. Mrs. Raisign latined the property as a parole gift from her husband and by right of co-spation for a term of years. The lower court, however, decided the case against fer. The status of Mrs. Raisign in relation to the property is set forth in ation to the property is set forth in the opinion of the supreme court in the opinion of the supreme court in the following sympathetic language:

Living there, it may be true, as she says, that she acted the part of a duiful wife to a husband; that she became greatly attached to the home where she reared her children; and that now in her old age she ought not to be compelled to leave that home. However, his may be, whatever misery she may pelled to leave that home. However, this may be, whatever misery she may think has overtaken her, neither hav nor equity can, under the circumstances, grant her any relief. The mistoriume, if in fact it be a misfortume, she must attribute to her own act—her own volition to become a plural wife. . . . for henceforth she was without the pale of the law of inheritance as to any property in which her hushand had acquired or might thereafter orquire."

Son of Ogden Preacher Back From College With a Good Record.

Another Utah boy has returned from college, Roderick Thompson, son of Rev. James Thompson of Ogden. Mr. Thompson has just been graduated from Princeton university with honors, being included in the first 28 men of his class in a total class enrollment of 280. He took the law elective course, of 280. He took the law elective course, and thus not only secured the B. A. degree, but gained a year's study in law. Mr. Thompson is an enthusiast in athletics, and reports a general feeling of congratulation at Princeton over the action of Mr. Carnegle in going to the expense of excavating the old capal for a distance of four miles, hus giving a fine rowing course, which is also from 1,000 feet to a mile wide. But it will be two years before Princeton can send a crew to Poughkeepste. Mr. Thompson says Princeton was shrouded in great gobs of gloom after the second ball game with Yale, and particularly again after the New York game, when Yale won the championship. Mr. Thompson says that worthy college students in the east have no difficulty in securing work with which difficulty in securing work with which to help themselves through college. INDUSTRIAL WORKERS.

New Labor Organization Starts Out With a Membership of 60,000.

C. L. Spiegel, delegate from the Utah Federation of Labor to the Chicago convention of Industrial Workers, returned last evening from the east. He says that the order has been fairly launched with a membership of 60,000 workers. The proposition is to organize wage earners into a single body, the various industries being divided up into departments, with interchangeable working cards, and uniform fees of $2 and monthly dues of 50 cents. Every wage earner will be admitted irrespective of his calling, and an attempt at organization will be made in this city in a few

Mr. Spiegel rather expects opposition to the scheme from leaders in the American Federation of Labor, but does not look for any very disturbing results although the aims of the two organizations are different; the Federation be-ing satisfied, he says, with small wage advancements and slight reductions in hours of labor, while the idea of the Order of Industrial Workers is to not only gain but hold possession of the in-dustries in which they are employed.

AT THE RESORTS.

The Weber stake Sunday schools gave their annual excursion to Saltair Monday when over 200 excursionists came down from Ogden over the Rio Grands. A most enjoyable day followed.

The Fraternal Brotherhood and friends of the members of that organ-ization were at Lagoon yesterday.

The couble act by a man and woman on bicycles who do the leap for life across the gap at Saltair twice a day is attracting crowds and proves to be one of the best attractions that has been secured by the management of the popular resort.

The Fifth and Twenty-sixth ward Sunday schools spent Monday at the Lagoon. About 500 souls went out and enjoyed the day, and in the afternoon there was an interesting program of sports for the little folks and two biaseball gemes for those of more mature years. One of these was won by each ward, while a boat race between the superintendency of each school resulted in a victory for the Fifth ward. The winners in the children's events were awarded suitable prizes.

The people of Pioneer stake are spend-ing today at Calder's park, where a program of sports and musical numbers is being carried out.

The Cambrians of Utah are holding their annual outing at Saltair this ar-ternoon and evening, and a splendid program of music and sports is sched-uled.

Life Underwriters' Association Success fully Launched Last Night.

About 30 life insurance writers and agents attended last evening's meeting) of the Life Underwriters' association at the Commercial club. The program as prepared was successfully carried out. and it was decided to hold the next regular meeting in October, when a banquet will be a special feature. Among the speakers had evening were W. G. Farrell, whose theme was, "The Future of Life Insurance in the Light of Present Conditions." S. J. Stockey, who spoke on "The Purpose of Our Association;" N. J. Detsher, who spoke on "Lapses, Causes and Remedies." R. W. Sloghe, theme was "The Solicitor." A. Sloan's theme was "The Solicitor." An excellent musical program was also given, Fred Graham, Miss Rennic Pedersen and Arthur Shepherd giving vocat and instrumental numbers. A feature of the evening was a brief and pointed talk by President John D. Spencer on the advantages to be grained by co-operation in association work, and the best methods to be observed, and several new members joined the associa-

AMUSEMENTS.

About 180 of Sait Lake's music lovers were given one of the treats of their lives last evening, in Clayton Music hail, where senor Alberto Jonas gave one of the greatest plane recitals ever listened to in this city. This was the third appearance of the distinguished artist before a Sait Lake audience, and his work was perhaps more appreciated last evening, that on previous occaast evening, than on previous occabuen accorded a warm welcome.

The heat was very oppressive, and the five electric fans in constant operation, hardly met the demand; but after senor Jonas had scated himself at the senor Jonas had seated himself at the grand piano his audience seemed to forget all about the heat, so intensely interested were they in the performer and his marvelous work. In a few introductory words, the artist explained that the great Appassionata Sonata of Beethoven which he was about to play, was not given that name by the composer, but was bestowed by the musical world as best descriptive of the intense character of the work. It was in the nature of a description of the struggle of a great character against adversity, such a struggle as a master mind like such a struggle as a master mind like Beethoven's had experienced. Then as to the Etudes of Chopin, which he was about to play, they could hardly be called studies, but were rather portraitures of the moods of the mind and of different mental temperaments; and they were portraitures of the noblest character. The performer then took his seat at the piano, and from that time on his heavers were oblivious to time on his heavers were oblivious to aught clee but the artist and his work. The great Sonata demands the highest abilities in interpretation and technical performance. No one but the most skilled artists can at all give expression to the piece, and none but such as are gifted by nature with a truly musical temperament can adequately present it. But Senor Jonas was equal to all demands; the thoughtful philosopher and the accomplished performer were in manifest evidence all through, and the majesty of the prestissimo was played with a profound impressiveness. The "Butterfly" number by Grieg, was given with a delicacy of coloring ness. The "Butterfly" number by Grieg, was given with a delicacy of coloring that was exquisite and charming. It suited the composition exactly.

The Chopin numbers were played with that faithfulness to the idea and sentiments of the composer which have ever characterized the performances of Sener Jonas, and which recalled strongly Paderewski's interpretation of the poetic composer. The "Northern Dances" were of the artist's own composition, consisting of three short numbers, and their originality of treatment in the elaboration, playancy, a brightness that was irridescent, and charm of harmonization, wen the audience completely. The thorough musical and musical scholar were evident in every completely. The thorough musician and musical scholar were evident in every one of the three numbers. The "Cuckoo" was a bright little piece of musical bizarre effort that was delightful; and the evening closed with the Paganini-Liszt "Campunella" that reflected the maryclous technical powers of the artist. It was an immense performance all the way through; and in fact the whole program gave a very good idea of the lofty heights to which mausical attainment may reach. The audience were loth to go, and the artist feit constrained to respond to an efforce to the final number. He was warmly congratulated at the close of the evening, and has every reason to feel that his genius and worth as a man and as a musician have been appreciated in Sali Lake.

The announcement of the coming of Pain's Pompell has served to create a considerable demand among local book-sellers for copies of Lord Lytton's graphic description of that appalling catastrophe, and two or three of our more enterprising dealers anticipated the demand by ordering several hundred copies of the interesting novel when the first Pain announcements were made.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

Commissioner Richards Will Look Into Reservation "Steal."

Washington, July H .- The Post teday

Letters have been placed before Commissioner Richards of the land office, written by members of the "Mormen" hierarchy, advising brethren who desire to settle on lands within the Unitah reservation in Utah, which will soon he thrown open to settlement, to do business with the presidency at Heber City, Utah, These communications state that certain Mormens have "land office connections" which will be of value to those of the Church who desire to enter upon the Ulintah lands.

Commissioner Richards has addressed a letter to William H. Smart, Joseph R. Murdock and James E. Jensen, "Mormons," living at Heber City, asking them what is meant by the assertion that they "have land office connections" that can be used to advantage in making settlements upon the public domain. GET CONVENTION.

Educators, However, Will Not Reach Definite Decision Until Fall.

SAN FRANCISCO HOT AFTER IT.

Salt Lak's Chances Will Depend on Her Ability to Accommodate Immense Throng.

The expected decision in favor of Salt Lake as the next meeting place of the N. E. A. will not be made until late n the year. Instead of deciding the place for the next convention definitely, the educators voted to leave the mat-ter to the executive committee. That body is larg and representative, and body is larg and representative, and July 14, 1995. the educators voted to leave the mathas announced that its decision will not be forthcoming in the near future.

However, Salt Lake has only one formidable rival for the convention, and this is San Prancisco, a city which has had the convention on a former date, October next the committee will come to Utah to investigate conditions in Salt Lake, and after its personal inspection will decide between the two cities. That Sait Lake could have see cured so great a concession as this shows that its bid was given serious consideration, and probably was favorably received. The big question to settle is the ability of the city to bandle so large a crowd, and to afford accom-modation for the 1,000 or more visitors that will come. Salt Lake is placed at a big disadvantage by the railroads, as they are unwilling to make the con-cessions for Salt Lake that they do for the coast, and as many of the dele-gates would desire to go to the coast on the tickets secured for the convenion there will possibly be some trou-ble on this point.
