GOVERNMENT TESTS.

The Royal Baking Powder Declared Superior to all Others.

The fact that Royal Baking Powder is, in all respects, the best baking powder offered to the public has been established beyond question.

Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the U. S. Government to analyze the various baking powders of the market to determine which was the best and most economical, after an extended investigation, reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his examinations of baking powders sold at the present day, and now affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after most thorough research and a careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public. Prof. Mott, in his recent report, says:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the U.S. Government.

"I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the DR. HENRY A. MOTT, Ph.D." Late V. S. Government Chemist.

EVENING NEWS

Thursday, . April 14, 1897.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor Deseret News: Spring has come again bringing t cheering scenes so natural to it. The songs of the martin, whip-poor-will, mockingbird and many others are heard for the first time in a life in their native country, bringing sweet recreation and music, amid the otherwise unattractive, leafless woods. One thing, however, added to these, in the evening, brings remembrances of our own ing, brings remembrances of our own country home; it is the music (for so all things seem that remind us of home) of the festive frog.

At support the most pleasant pastime is found outside engaged in reverie, while breathing the pure air common to this season of the year. Thus en-gaged one evening, I wandered to a grassy mead, surrounded with refreshing green from the honeysuckle. The fragrance of the newly blossomed flowers seemed to have sought this place to repose. Here the mind found delightful rest, admiration took pos-session of the soul. Looking to the west, a blood red object, with a perfect hand across the center, greeted the eye; A momentary question as to what it was, arose in the mind, bring ng the answer "'fis the san struggling through the heavy mists and scattering clouds." Soon the band arese giving place to another collection on the face of this great natural panorama. For half an hour the whole soul is involved half an hour the whole soul is involved in watching corely the many figures caused by the changing mists and clouds; then the seene is gradually withdrawn from view by setting behind the massive oaks of a distant highland, leaving the middln wonderland over nature and nature's works. Thus engaged, a shrill whistle from a whisky distillery brings consciousness, and the grosser surroundings of patents appear more uncomforting than and the grosser surroundings of nature appear more uncomforting than ever. So we turn, reluctantly, from sweet meditation gand anotice this mistake in civilization, whisky.

Amid the accompanying reflections comes the advice given by those who set us apart for this labor, before leaving home. It was, to see and learn all we possibly could from the instantions scattered throughout the land. This advice has many times come to mind, and each time has brought new mind, and each time has brought new admiration with it.

How beautiful the idea while engaged teaching the world spiritually, to sap the vitality from temporal things, that it may bear fruit in time that will have the teaching the same than the teaching of the same teaching the same transfer of the same teaching of the sam en that great event, the restitution o all things! Here, too, comes the thought that the reason God did not reserve to His people the revelation of the many strides in civilization in this age, was similar to that in the days of the Savior, He had in view the crowning climary of all the restoration of the ing climax of all the restoration of His everlasting covenant, which alone is sufficient to engage the entire attention of His chosen people.

The above advice was not intended

The above advice was not intended perhaps for whisky distilleries, and we will say our own curiosity was the attraction in this instance.

Early and late the whistle can be and announcing the hours employed and popular demand for the products of this institution. About half a mile from a friend's located in a sm. il guich, lather object of our visit. No difficulty is the object of our visit. No difficulty is experienced in anding the "still," as all leading as unerringly to the de-sired point. Reaching the brow of the bill we halt for a moment and view the surroundings. The first that greets the eye, is a beautiful stream of water running past the "still."

We may be permitted to believe that this seldom serves the purpose for which it was created in this immediate vicinity. Should it happen that it does sometimes serve the purpose we cannot refrain from the thought that it such leases the drunkard's words stoold be serve applicable. Dispuss would be very applicable - Dipping from a bucket of water a glass of the pure liquid, he held it near his lips and murmured: "Here goes a surprise to in the bottom of the hollow is a number of buildings resembling a steam saw mill with attendant surroundings.

THE ONLY LINE Now and then a breeze is wafted to us from the old shanties bringing the odors of whisky. odors of whisky.

Down the hill we plunge, half dizzy already, and we are soon before the object of our visit. Pulling out pencil and pad as a preliminary to command recognition and as a bid for special favors, we ask permission to see the "still." The best man is hunted up and requested to show us around. This is credited to pencil and pad. A little pressions is manifest at first by our OGDEN, SALT LAKE AND uneasiness is manifest at first by our escort, of which he becomes divested after plying delicately the question: "Prohibitionists?" "No, sir, preachers." "Come right along." The readiness with which the request came after announcing who we were, brings to mind a circumstance litestrating the purity (?) of preachers in this country. It was at table, and the "usual dialogue: "Have coffee?" "No, thanks, never use it," and little formalities passed. A big overgrown boy of seventeen years with a whisky mouth sat upon the right, his arms were spread over half of one side of the table; his eyes fixed suggested the only thing in his mind was "What are they?" When on the verge of shaking him to see if he was alive, he exclaimed "You love whisky, don't you?" The anxious parent covuneasiness is manifest at first by our LEEPING CARS Leaves Agden Daily at 9:45 a. m.; Leaves Salt Lake City Daily at 11:10 a.m. Direct connection is made at Pueble and Parves for Omaha, Kansas City and all points East.

don't you?" The anxious parent covered with embarrasment, came to the rescue, saying: "You must excuse Archie, it's so common for preachers of this country to indulge, he supposes you are the same." Let us return to corn, for it is this that is used, here princi-pally in the manufacture of whisky. l'isced in a hopper, it is ground a little coarser than ordinary corn meal, after coarser than ordinary corn meal, after which the meal is sacked and carefully weighed. The government employe, the gauger, attends to she weighing of the meal personally, and for every bushel the still must yield three gallons of whisky. The ebject of weighing so closely is to prevent employes from getting any during the intermediate points; like most laws, however, a way is found by putting more meal in the tub on the sly. From weighing, the meal is taken to a large receptacle called the mash-tab, where it is mixed thoroughly with mait rye and slop, the latter a product from the mill after the whisky is steamed out; a little heat is applied here and it is allowed to stand for twelve hours; it is now conducted to another large it is allowed to stand for twelve hours; it is now conducted to another large tub holding upwards of 400 gallons, where it ferments for ?2 hours and is now called beer; here our attendant informs us that he would ask us to take a glass, but a drowned hog had just been removed from the tub; the animal made its year in the house during the night and this tub being on a level with the floor he plunged hog-like all over in the beer. This was told with a composure and indifference indicating that such things were very common occurrences. After fermentation it goes to a well from which it is pumped into a large cistern called the beerb iller. Heat is here applied and a thorough boiling causes the liquor to evaper.te; from this it is conducted into a worm consisting of about 50 feet of pipe surfrom this it is conducted into a worm consisting of about 50 feet of pipe surrounded by cold water causing the vapor to condense. It comes from this as singlings and the solid substance is conducted off as slop. This slop, though the strength of the corn is removed, is very valuable for fattening cattle, a great number of which are kept on hand and here prepared for market. Hogs also become very fat in a short time from it. market. Hogs also become very fat in g short time from it. From singlings the ilquor goes throu he another boiling process, removing the water and giving it the strength of alcehol. It is now conducted to a large charcoal filter, where it is cleaned and comes out clear as crystal. We are now in the cistern room where it is measured and put in barrels for the warehouse. The barrels are all new and charred on the funice about nairanneh. It is allowed to lay in these barrels for about three years, when it is considered first class, during which time it becomes adulterated, changing from the clear crystal color to a deep red. An invitation to have some is declined with thanks, and we return to ruminate on our visit. The most prominent thing is that we have been to the heseduarters of hell. Nearly every vice known can be traced to this quiet extreat in the bills.

To men like John B. Gound the cheek of inconsistency is is required to advocate an idea that it is necessary to ge down into hell before a thorough exposition can be made. Yet there is much of this cheek to be found. Politics in this country has become synonymous with whisty, and if the question were asked many where vote, what politics meant, the reply would come back, "That that tive as whisty for our vote."

Alste curtesity is the faith doctor, who takes the country by storm nearly as completely as a circus would. As the name indicates it is a person who professes pay but add you may give
